PARLEY BRINGS SYPHILIS FIGHT OUT INTO OPEN

President Indorses Drive on Scourge.

Field Day for Science

Numerous scientific conferences were held yesterday in Atlantic City, Chicago and elsewhere, and were attended by thousands. Topics embracing economics and sociology were discussed in innumerable meetings—everything from electrons to social security pensions. Reports of the meetings are printed on pages 4 and 5.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special]—A subject once lurking under a national taboo—the syphilis scourge—was given the freest of airings at a remarkable conference of 500 physicians and public health officials which opened here today.

The auditorium in the department of commerce building was packed not only with experts interested in the nation-wide control of venereal diseases, but with laymen attracted by the publicity given the conference which would have received bare mention in the press only a few years ago. Today the press table in front of the speakers' stan was lined with reporters, jotting down notes on the frequent speeches.

Message from the President.

A message from President Roosevelt expressing his deep interest in the conference was read.

"The recent increase in public interest in the problem before the conference is extremely gratifying," the president wrote. "It is my understanding that out of your deliberations there will come a statement of principles and methods which should be useful to every community in the country in applying most effectively the scientific knowledge available to minimize these serious hazards to the public health.

"The federal government is deeply interested in conserving the resources of the country by all appropriate methods. The attainment of your objectives would do much to conserve our human resources and would reduce considerably the present large costs for community care of the disastrous results of the diseases. You have my best wishes for success."

Tribute to Surgeon General.

Speakers followed the president in remarking upon the "increase of public interest" in fighting syphilis and hailed it as a tremendously important advance in the campaign. Tribute was paid to Surgeon General Thomas Parran, who called the conference, for his part in stimulating this interest and removing the prejudice which once forbade public discussion of the disease.

Paul De Kruif, author of "The Microbe Hunters" and other popular scientific works, told his audience that the "taint of secrecy and sin" which once formed the chief obstacle to open discussion of control and eventual eradication of syphilis had been largely removed. But "mass education" or the subject must cut both ways, affecting not only the public but the physician himself, he warned.

Medical vanity, he asserted, must not prevent the public from knowing the "present incompetence of many of the medical profession to detect syphilis."

State Neglect Revealed.

Despite the great gains which have been made in making the spoken word "syphilis" no more to be shuddered at than the mention of such diseases as tuberculosis and typhoid, the United States has far to go before it even approaches a semblance of control of the dreac disease, Assistant Surgeon General R. A. Vonderlehr told the assemblage.

The results of a national survey have shown only 32 of the 48 states active in the fight against the disease, Dr. Vonderlehr revealed. And "active" in this instance means only that these states have established a separate division or bureau with the duty of attacking the venereal disease problem or have appointed a full time health officer in the state health department to carry on similar work.

In the nation at large, the assistant surgeon general reported, less than 1 cent per capita is being spent on venereal disease control each year,

Boy's Kidnaper Demands $28,000

RANSOM MUST BE 'OLD BILLS, AND WRINKLED'

BULLETIN.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Dan Harrison, 87, reported to police tonight that a roughly dressed man flourished a gun and ordered him away from an automobile where a boy slept on the rear seat.

Harrison said he approached the man, who was tinkering with the motor of a tan sedan in East Portland. The stranger appeared about 28, of stocky build, wearing tan coveralls, a blue zipper blazer, and a dark cap. A beard of three or four days covered his face. He asked the direction to the Columbia River highway, then ordered Harrison to "beat it." Harrison said the boy was about 10 years old.

Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The wealthy father of 10 year old Charles Mattson, victim of the first major kidnaping of 1936, was directed to make contact this afternoon with the abductor of his son, a police official disclosed.

The officer, who declined to allow the use of his name, said the contact was ordered established through publication of a want ad in a Seattle newspaper.

These instructions were included in the note the masked, shabbily dressed kidnaper left when he seized the brown eyed boy at his home last night while his parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Mattson, were attending a wedding reception in the neighborhood.

Demands Ransom in Old Bills.

The police official also confirmed that the note demanded $28,000 ransom. Of this sum, the kidnaper asked that $10,000 be in worn bills of small denomination and the remainder in old bills of $50 or over. In each case, the official said, the bills were ordered to be "old and wrinkled."

Dr. Mattson, physician and former football player at Washington and Pennsylvania universities, gave authorities full control in the search for his son.

"I'll do anything they say," he remarked as a detective took charge of his household. "I don't want to do anything that might hinder them."

Denies Any Contact Made.

"I haven't made any contacts. Things are just as they were when that man left with Charles. There is no announcement we can make now. Things are at an absolute stalemate. I'm interested primarily in getting that boy back. I feel it my duty to follow the advice of those who know more about this game than I do. I just feel helpless."

Mrs. Mattson was said to be suffering from shock, while a daughter, Muriel, 14, who witnessed her younger brother's abduction, wept uncontrollably by her father's side as he talked.

Later, the doctor, who has a large practice in Tacoma, performed a major operation at a hospital here as a hastily massed army of searchers sought clews to the whereabouts of the missing boy or his kidnaper.

Believed a Demented Patient.

In Seattle police and federal operatives checked finger prints and other criminal records. There was an unconfirmed report that investigators had found finger prints on the crude ransom note dropped in the Mattson home.

It also was reported that Tacoma police believed they knew the identity of the kidnaper from the description furnished by the victim's brother, sister and a girl friend of the family who were present when the armed man forcibly took the boy. The suspect was described as a partly demented former patient of Dr. Mattson.

Seattle authorities were working on the theory that Charles' abductor may hide in Seattle, awaiting ransom negotiations, as was done last year by the kidnapers of young George Weyerhaeuser, timber heir, also of Tacoma. Ransom of $200,000 was paid

THE IDEA SEEMS TO BE TO COME AS CLOSE AS POSSIBLE WITHOUT ACTUALLY PROVOKING HIM

Hitler Sends Torpedo Boat Fleet to Spain

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 28.—Despite British hopes that Premier Mussolini and Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler will back down before united British-French action and that the war clouds hovering over the Spanish horizon will drift away, nerves were tense here tonight, pending the Nazi dictator's reply to the stiff notes presented to Germany yesterday by France and Great Britain. The notes demanded a halt of volunteer enlistment in Spain's civil war.

Italy has been more and more conciliatory lately, but Hitler still is unpredictable. The British cannot be certain that the rumblings coming out of Germany over the seizure of the Nazi steamer Palos off Bilbao by the Spanish loyalists will not be followed by mass reinforcements of German soldiers for Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel leader.

Torpedo Boats Head for Spain.

Germany, although determined to avoid war with Socialist Spain, served notice on Europe today that she will not be swerved by demands or threats from continuing to lend assistance to Gen. Franco and his Fascist rebels.

Nazi leaders, angered by the tone of the Franco-British demands, uttered their defiance and dispatched a fleet of torpedo boats to protect German ships in the Bay of Biscay region. The torpedo boats will be assigned to protect German ships in Spanish waters and escort them into San Sebastian, a port which is held by the rebels.

Germany, it is said, will continue to permit German volunteers to sail to Spain and enlist in the rebel army although Berlin has insisted no regular army divisions will go to Spain.

Says Notes Came "Too Late."

A German government spokesman was quoted as saying the British-French notes came "too late" to stop enlistment of volunteers to aid the Spanish insurgents.

After Germany unofficially voiced her defiance of demands to keep out of Spain, the British admiralty announced the mighty battle cruiser Repulse was steaming toward Tangier, international zone in Morocco, from Gibraltar. The admiralty denied the Repulse's sudden orders were connected with a riot in Tangier on Christmas night when a mob reported to have been led by an Italian officer and sailors wrecked a leftist newspaper, La Democracia. But the admiralty gave no other explanation.

In London reports underlined the improvement in relations between Britain and Italy. Italy was reported to be taking "volunteers" home from the Balearic Islands. Rome, it also was said, has stopped the shipment of volunteers to Spain in preparation for the Mediterranean pact with London.

See Italy Joining Britain.

Some observers predicted that Premier Mussolini soon will cut off all aid to Gen. Franco.

WRECK WEDGED IN DEEP RAVINE, FAR FROM ROAD

Burbank, Cal., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Crushed in the wreckage of their ill-fated plane, the bodies of twelve occupants of a giant airliner were found late today in a brush tangled ravine about twenty miles northwest of here.

The plane, with nine passengers and a crew of three, disappeared last night on a trip from San Francisco to Burbank.

A posse of ground searchers came upon the plane after several hours of tortuous climbing through ravines and over the mountains to the spot where the twisted wreckage was sighted from the air.

The wings of the big twin motored Boeing lay atop a ridge on the slope of Oak mountain, about five miles from Saugus.

Down in a narrow canyon rested what remained of the plane's fuselage, the bodies of nine passengers, and three crew members crushed within the mass of metal.

Those Aboard the Plane.

Those who perished in the plane were:

A. L. Markwell, diamond broker, Los Angeles.

Mrs. Edward T. Ford Jr., a bride of six months.

John Korn, El Centro, Cal.

Alex Novak, El Centro, Cal.

H. S. Teague, Hollywood, Cal.

Mrs. W. A. Newton, Los Angeles.

Miss Evelyn Valance, Los Angeles.

Pilot Edwin W. Blom, Burbank.

Co-Pilot Robert McLean, Burbank.

Stewardess Yvonne Trego, Alameda, Cal.

United Air Line officials said that Pilot Edwin W. Blom apparently struck the top of Oak mountain while trying to reach an open landing place in the San Fernando valley just two ridges away.

The ship then hurtled down the slope, shearing through scrub oak trees which lay broken and twisted along its disastrous trail. For a distance of almost 1,000 yards pieces of fuselage were strewn.

Hits Bottom of Ravine.

The body of the ship apparently struck the bottom of the ravine with terrific force, bounced a short distance up the slope of the gulch and slid back to the bottom where search ers found the broken and shapeless hulk, scarcely resembling a plane.

The nose of the ship as far back as the pilot's cabin was smashed to pieces. Within was the body of Co-Pilot Robert McLean. The body of Blom hung from an opened door.

The problem of extricating the bodies from the débris and carrying them out of the valley was acute.

By nightfall seven bodies had been cut free of the wreckage. A team and buckboard were sent up a narrow, slippery trail to take them to the highway.

The United Air Lines ground crew prepared to spend the night at the scene. Representatives of the department of commerce also were standing by.

Disappears at Night.

The huge United airliner disappeared last night, after wirelessing the Union air terminal here for a radio beam to aid it in landing after a flight from San Francisco.

The ship was due to have landed at 7:37 o'clock, seven minutes later than its regular schedule, Pilot Blom having radioed previous notice of the slight delay.

At 7:36 p. m., however, Blom asked the Union Air terminal control tower for a radio beam. The tower operator asked his position. Blom replied:

"Wait a minute."

That was the last heard from the ship.

When visibility permitted, early this morning, four searching planes with two-way radios took off from the air terminal here to scan an 80 square mile area, centering about the Chatsworth-Santa Susana pass section about 30 miles northwest of here. The search started around that vicinity, which includes Saugus, because of reports from two women residents and a rancher giving clews that suggested a plane crash.

Airmen Locate Wreckage.

This widespread search was climaxed by the report of R. E. Dickinson, in a plane, that he saw the wings of the ship lying on a ridge, the fuse-

Stay in Bed if You Have Flu, Doctors Warn

The public was warned by medical men yesterday to take the utmost precautions against the epidemic of influenza and pneumonia now sweeping Chicago which was described as the worst since the war days of 1918.

With infection increasing, nursing facilities and equipment were taxed to capacity. A total of 316 cases was reported in the city in the last 48 hours, of which 240 were pneumonia and 76 influenza. It was said that perhaps three or four times that many cases were unreported.

Dr. Irving S. Cutter, health editor of THE TRIBUNE and dean of the medical school at Northwestern university, was joined by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health, in warning Chicagoans.

Advice of Dr. Cutter.

Dr. Cutter urged patients above all things to remain in bed and keep themselves warm.

"Don't try to eat," Dr. Cutter said. Starve yourself for a few days. Don't eat even soft boiled eggs. Tea, toast, and fruit juices are all right but that's about all. Drink lots of water. "Don't take strong laxatives. The disease is not in the intestinal tract but in the respiratory system. Don't take liquor, of course, for it merely puts an extra load on the excretory organs.

"A physician should be called immediately if there is any pain from breathing, if there is blood in the sputum or if the temperature doesn't recede within 24 hours. Do everything possible to guard against pneumonia.

"There seems to be more influenza now than at any time since 1918. It is not of the vicious type we had then, but is very bad."

Bundesen Adds Warning.

Dr. Bundesen, who canceled a trip to Washington to attend the national conference on venereal diseases, said that because of the increased number of pneumonia and influenza cases there are now no oxygen tents or trained nurses available in the city.

"A careful watch on the situation," said Dr. Bundesen, "shows beyond a doubt that it is those who neglect colds who contract pneumonia and often die.

ARMY COLONEL KILLED AS AUTO DRIVEN BY CADET SON HITS TRUCK

Port Jervis, N. Y., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Lieut. Col. R. D. Sherrard of West Hartford, Conn., was killed today when the car which his son David, a West Point cadet, was driving, ran into a small truck.

Mrs. Sherrard and her son were in the front seat and escaped serious injury, while Col. Sherrard, in the rear seat, received the brunt of the crash when the car hit the truck, about midway along the side and crumpled the door and side against him. He received a blow on the head and was pinned among suitcases and bundles.

Col. Sherrard was attached to the 76th division, A. E. F., and his son a West Pointer is in his second year.

EX-BASKETBALL CENTER JUMPS INTO TROUBLE

Jimmy Miller, 23 years old, former basketball center for the Westchester High school in Mineola, Tex., sat in a cell in the detective bureau last night, taking what solace he could from the distinction of being one of the tallest burglars ever held there.

Jimmy, who stands over six feet four inches in his stocking feet arrived in Chicago broke ten days ago. Last evening he eyed an alley fire escape of the Boston store and got an idea. With an athletic spring he reached the bottom rung of the fire escape, swung his 170 pounds up on it, and climbed to the tenth floor where he smashed a window and crawled in.

Picking up a suitcase, Jimmy started a floor by floor search for the jewelry department. At the fourth floor two store watchmen intercepted him and held him for the police.

Policeman's Pistol Stolen Right in Detective Bureau

Last Sunday night Detective Andrew Richards placed his service pistol in the locker of the supervisor's office on the third floor of the detective bureau where he works. When he opened the locker a few hours later the pistol was missing. At first Richards thought some other policeman had taken it by mistake. Convinced last night it had been stolen, Richards reported the theft to police headquarters. He has had the weapon since joining the force twenty-two years ago.

Fear Pope Will Pass Away at Any Time Now

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Personages who visited the Vatican tonight described Pope Pius XI. as being "in a very serious condition."

They said they had gathered the impression that the pope might pass away at any time, though they emphasized that the nature of the pontiff's illness did not obviate the possibility of his living for some days and possibly for months.

These personages were not received by the pontiff himself, but talked at length with high prelates close to the papal presence.

Admits Condition Serious.

Pope Pius himself, at last aware that he is gravely ill, was reported reliably to have told a prelate:

"In this condition I cannot be pope; it is better that I die."

The prelate visited the holy father shortly after the pope had suffered a slight hemorrhage in his paralyzed left leg. Physicians, however, said the hemorrhage was not so important to his condition as the spread of the paralysis and the pontiff's uncertain heart action.

His sad words were the first indication the 79 year old pope realized how acute his condition had become. Up until now he has insisted his illness is a passing ailment; that the pain which wrenches his whole left side is but temporary.

The Pope's Visitors.

He called in Cardinal Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, who had waited for many days for an audience on the problems of the congregation for the propagation of the faith, which he heads. Then he sent his blessing to 300 newlywed couples whom he was unable to receive.

His holiness also received Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, papal secretary of state.

Dr. Amanti Milani spent nearly five hours at the pope's bedside during the day, and the whole Vatican went about in a hushed and anxious atmosphere. At morning masses prayers for the alleviation of the pope's pain were added to the pleas that his life be spared.

Instead of going to the Vatican on New Year's eve this year, members of the diplomatic corps accredited to the holy see will be received by Cardinal Pacelli in St. John Lateran. There they will attend a special New Year's eve mass to be celebrated by the papal secretary of state.

lage resting lower down the slope. Orv Mohler, National Guard flyer, brought back a similar report.

While operations planes soared overhead, guiding them to the scene, a motorcade of about 20 automobiles, including five ambulances and three undertakers' vehicles, drove through Saugus, about 20 miles northwest of here, and penetrated as near to the wreckage as possible.

Then the searchers proceeded on foot, laboring over brush-studded hills and through deep ravines.

Returning from Holiday Visits.

At least four of the passengers were returning from Christmas visits with relatives in and near San Francisco. They were Miss Valance, who had gone to visit her mother in San Leandro; Markwell, who had been visiting at Hayward, and the Fords, returning from visiting Ford's father in San Francisco.

Ford Jr., a Standard Oil official in Pasadena, and Mrs. Ford, University of California graduate, were married last year.

Stewardess Trego came west recently from Chicago. She went to Chicago from her home in Hastings, Mich., last November, to join the air line's corps of stewardesses.

Mrs. Newton has been employed in the finance department of the National Soldiers' home at Sawtelle, near here. She went north to visit her husband, W. A. Newton, San Francisco newspaper man.

Officials Discuss Crash.

Harold Crary, vice president in charge of trafic for United Air Lines, said at San Francisco that United had flown 125,000,000 passenger miles since the last passenger injury and fatality.

The accident was the first on the Los Angeles-San Francisco-Oakland route in the seven years of multi-motored passenger plane operation for the company.

Operations officials of the company flew from Chicago to Burbank and started an investigation in conjunction with department of commerce officials.

NINE LYNCHED IN 1936; FEWEST IN FOUR YEARS

Tuskegee, Ala., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Nine persons have been lynched in 1936 in the United States, fewer than in any of the last four years, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute, said today.

All the 1936 victims, a report from the institute's department of records and research said, were colored, and all were killed in the south.

Officers saved 35 persons from mobs, the report continued, 30 in southern and five in northern states. Armed force was used against five mobs and prisoners were removed or guards augmented to forestall mass action in other cases.

Lynch totals for recent years were announced as 20 in 1935; 15 in 1934, and 28 in 1933.

Offenses charged against lynch victims this year were: rape 3; attempted rape 3; murder 1; activity in sharecropper strike 1, charge not reported 1. Lynching by states: Georgia 5; Arkansas 2; Florida 1; Mississippi 1.

OTHER 1936 PLANE DISASTERS

There were six other commercial airplane disasters in the United States during the year 1936 in which pilots and passengers lost their lives. Twice during the year airliners were wrecked but almost miraculously those aboard escaped with minor hurts. The list follows:

Jan. 15—Seventeen persons, including a crew of three, were killed when an American Air Lines Douglas DC-2 plowed into a swamp near Goodwin, Ark.

April 7—Ten persons were killed or fatally injured when a Transcontinental and Western Air liner struck Chestnut ridge, in the Alleghenies near Uniontown, Pa. One passenger and the stewardess survived.

Crash in Chicago.

May 31—Twelve passengers and a crew of three escaped death when a TWA Douglas DC-2 was dropped into a city lot at 6045 South Kilbourn avenue, Chicago, less than half a mile from the Municipal airport. One engine had failed and the pilot was attempting to land on his remaining motor.

Aug. 6—Eight persons, six of them passengers, were killed in the crash of a Chicago and Southern Air Lines plane four miles from St. Louis, Mo., airport. Fog was blamed for the accident.

Sept. 5—A sightseeing tri-motored airplane crashed and burned near the Allegheny county airport at Pittsburgh, killing nine persons. An 18 year old girl who was thrown clear was the only survivor.

Dec. 15—A Western Air Express plane carrying seven persons and bound from Los Angeles to Salt Lake City disappeared after encountering snowstorms in the wild and rugged Wasatch mountains 190 miles from its destination. The ship has not yet been found.

Dec. 18—A Northwest Air Lines plane carrying two pilots and a load of mail crashed in northern Idaho after flying for hours through fog and snow. Both men were killed. The wreckage was not found for several days.

Test Flight Fatal.

Dec. 19—Eleven persons aboard an Eastern Air Lines passenger plane escaped death or serious injury when Dick Merrill, chief pilot for the line and a trans-Atlantic flyer, brought it down in a pine forest. The plane was wrecked.

Dec. 23—Six employés of Braniff Airways were killed when the airliner they were test flying crashed and burned half a mile from Love field, the Dallas, Tex., airport. One of the motors failed and the ship apparently stalled when the pilot was forced to circle the airport on the remaining engine.

SEARCHER TELLS OF BIG PLANE'S SLIDE TO DEATH

Sheared Tree Points Out Trail to Wreck.

BY RELMAN MORIN.

Saugus, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Cowboy Fox O'Callahan set his horse to breasting the underbrush some 50 yards ahead of me, hard on the top of the ridge. Suddenly, he yelled: "Say, here's something." It was a piece of aluminum, no bigger than a man's hand, near a scrub oak which had been sheared away as though by a razor.

It was the first piece of the United Air Lines transport we found today. That broken tree marked the spot where the liner, carrying eight men and four women to death, first touched the earth. Trying to nose out of the mountains to an emergency field, five miles away, pilot Edwin Blom had barely grazed that tree.

Safe, If It Had Cleared.

Had he cleared it, he could have set down safely in the valley below. This was the highest ridge of Oak Peak, in the Santa Susanna mountains, where the ship fell.

"Ain't no trouble to foller the trail now," said Fox O'Callahan. "Look there." He pointed downward. A dozen yards ahead another tree broken off at the top. Hanging on a limb was a larger piece of aluminum. It looked like part of the tail fuselage.

"Lets go," said the cowboy. "But we can't take the horses. It's too steep."

The awful last ride of the liner was plainly marked.

Half-slipping down the steep, muddy wall, we passed more bits of wreckage. They were larger. The trees must have begun to slow the ship. There was a piece of wing. Here a bit of propeller.

They See the Wreck.

I picked up a strut-protector to lean against and suddenly we saw the wreck.

The airliner had not caught fire. "Soapy" Blom probably cut the ignition the instant he felt that first tree.

The plane was upside down in a ravine so narrow that the cabin was wedged between the two walls above the floor. She looked like a big silver bullet, flat at one end. There were no wings left. Only the shiny tubular cabin.

All the bodies were inside.

Blom had been hurled backward into the passenger's cabin. There was no control-cockpit. It had been ground to nothing. "Soapy's" body—upside down—hung half way out of a jagged hole in the ship. His coat had slipped down to his armpits, mercifully hiding his head.

Nearby, another man's head looked down at the ground. His spectacles were still in place, unbroken.

Inside the cabin was horror. Up front, where the pilot's cockpit would have been, luggage was piled in a mound. The heavy lether bags were ripped to shreds.

I climbed up the wall of the gulch, opposite the one down which we had slid. The plane had come down one sheer, sloping side so fast it bounded 20 yards or more up the other side, breaking more trees. Then it settled back into the ditch.

There was a small bottle of perfume, unbroken. To one side was a torn Christmas gift-box, a fragment of gayety in all this darkness.

It's Long Job Ahead.

It was about 3 o'clock in the afternoon when we found the wreckage. The rain had been falling steadily all day. An icy wind came up from the plain. It was growing dark. We had been walking since morning, slogging up and down through the twisted hills. The keen eyes of an aviator, searching from aloft in the morning, had sighted that aluminum carpet left on the mountainside as the liner hurtled downward. He marked it as well as he could in the crazy-house of hills and valleys.

Finding it on foot was another thing. An acetylene torch will be needed to cut open the cabin. Then, bearing the tragic burden down 2,000 feet to the floor of the valley will be an arduous, back-breaking task.

It was hard just to crawl back down. At an old fashioned corral gate, on the trail below, a man stood, fighting tears. He saw me. I was still carrying the aluminum strut-protector.

"My brother was in the ship," he said. "Have you been to it? Are they all——?"

FORD DENIES MOTOR PATENT MEANS QUICK CHANGE IN MODELS

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Henry Ford denied today that report of a patent issued to him for rear axle automobile power plant means an immediate revolution in his models.

"It is one of the many engineering developments of our research," he said. "That's routine procedure."

Ford's chassis design, patents for which were asked in May, 1935, and granted last Tuesday, provides for mounting an eight cylinder V type motor slightly behind the rear axle. The motor would be placed crosswise to the car, filling the chassis space slightly behind the rear wheels. The axle gearing, transmission, and differential would be constructed as a unit and mounted on a resilient support.

"By placing the motor rearwardly of the rear wheels," Ford said in his patent application, "the center of gravity is materially shifted rearwardly so that it coincides with the passenger carrying space and thus improves the roadability of the car."

ACT TO REPEAL CITY CODE BAN ON PRIZE NIGHTS

Alderman Comes to Aid of Theaters.

An ordinance to repeal the section of the city code prohibiting prize contests in motion picture theaters and other places of amusement in Chicago will be introduced at a meeting of the city council on Jan. 5. Sixteen managers of theaters in various parts of the city were arrested Saturday and Sunday when they disobeyed the police order to cease "prize night" and "screeno" prize drawings.

The ordinance to repeal the prohibitive part of the city code—section 1901—was being prepared yesterday by Ald. Walter J. Orlikoski [35th]. He declared that he has taken part in a number of drawings in theaters in his neighborhood and believes the public is in favor of them.

The sixteen theater managers, who were arrested over the week-end and were each released in $100 bail, were arraigned yesterday in police district courts. The cases were continued, however, to Jan. 15, and were sent for reassignment to Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court.

The order to halt theater prize drawings was issued Saturday by Police Commissioner Allman after he received an opinion from Corporation Counsel Hodes that the drawings violate the city code.

Allman issued another order yesterday, instructing police not to arrest managers who persist in holding the contests, but to issue summonses for them to appear in court.

"It appears," Allman said, "that theaters are going to keep on operating their prize nights until a judge makes a decision in the case. It seems unfair for business men to be taken to the police stations and required to post bonds. A summons will be issued for each violation, and it will be up to the judge to decide whether fines shall be imposed for each offense."

The Warner Brothers Theater corporation yesterday instructed managers of all their houses in Chicago to halt the prize drawings immediately "as long as city officials deem them unlawful." On Sunday the Balaban & Katz corporation ordered all its theater managers to stop the drawings.

Bank nights are controled by Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., which originated in Denver. David Silbert, attorney for the corporation in Chicago, said none of the theater managers had complained to him over their arrests and he does not contemplate being a party to any court action.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Ellis Wing Taylor, widely known architect, today asked a divorce from Mrs. Anne Cornwall Taylor on a cross bill which charges her with beating him several times, once with a leather strap. He said she makes him so nervous he cannot draw plans for houses.

FISHER BODY IN CLEVELAND TIED UP BY A STRIKE

Delayed Parley Brings 'Sit Down' by Union.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 28.—(AP)—A "sit-down" strike staged by members of the United Automobile Workers' Union halted all operations today in the Cleveland plant of the Fisher Body company, a General Motors subsidiary. Approximately 7,000 employés are affected.

"I'll bet that within 48 hours you hear the whole General Motors is shut down completely," said Louis F. Spisak, president of the union's local No. 45, in addressing a general meeting of employés.

"We're in this fight now and we're going to stay in it till we win. We've got strong unions in every plant. Our international office in Detroit knows what is going on every minute. They're back of us."

Starts in Metal Division.

The "sit-down" originated, Spisak said, in the quarterpanel department of the plant's metal division. Union men refused to work, he said, when notified the plant management had postponed a conference scheduled for this morning with the Union's Grievance committee.

Spisak claimed the department employés had protested that wages ranged from $35 to $50 a week on three assembly lines and the union sought to obtain what it termed equitable adjustments.

Spisak said the "sit-down" spread rapidly to the machine, tool, and dye makers' department and other divisions "until about 2,500 were involved and operations were stopped."

Night Men Stay Out.

Night shift employés assembled at plant entrances late in the afternoon but did not enter. Idle day workers called to them from open windows.

Night workers gave their lunch kits and packages to those inside the factory. Upper floor employés lowered boxes suspended on twine or rope and into these many fellow workers placed food.

Spisak would not disclose the union membership among Fisher body employes—"but we have enough to close the plant down," he said. He added that Homer Martin, International president, told him over the telephone from Detroit he was "in sympathy" with the "sit-down."

The local president said demands to be made of the management at the controversy included rehiring of men laid off during the last two weeks, reduction of hours, payment of double time for holiday and Sunday work, and payment of the basic rate for the time consumed by union representatives in negotiations or arbitration.

Admits Plant Is Tied Up.

Lincoln R. Scafe, general manager of the plant, said in a prepared statement tonight:

"About 200 strikers still are in the production department, they are sufficient in number to tie up all operations.

"I am ready and waiting for a call from President Spisak of the union. Naturally, we are very much interested in getting the men back to work. This difference will have to be settled right here. I'm the one who will have to straighten this thing out in line with the general policy laid down last week by Vice President Knudsen in Detroit.

"We never dreamed that a postponement of this morning's meeting would cause a strike. Frequently the union and the management have postponed conferences without any difficulty. I had another conference scheduled at 10 a. m. which prevented me from meeting with the union."

Pull Fires at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Ill., Dec. 28.—[Special]—Fires were pulled under three glass making furnaces of the Libbey Owens Ford plant here today and indications were that other furnaces will be allowed to cool the latter part of the week. When fires are pulled three or four weeks are required before glass making can be resumed. Since Dec. 2, 1,300 employés have been engaged in a strike.

Keep Furnaces Hot.

Toledo, O., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company officials said today that no more furnaces in the plant here would be shut down for several days pending further negotiations with the Federation of Flat Glass Workers.

David H. Goodwillie, executive vice president, said that three of the 12 furnaces of the Charleston, W. Va., plant and two of the three furnaces of the Shreveport, La., plant have had their fires pulled on account of the strike.

Company officials indicated they favor closing down of all furnaces if a long period of inactivity faces the plants.

100,000 PEIPING OPIUM ADDICTS FACE EXECUTION

Corean Salesmen Blamed for Spread of Habit.

PEIPING, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Almost 100,000 drug addicts in Peiping faced possible death tonight because Corean dealers refuse to stop selling narcotics to them.

Mayor Chin Teh-chun estimated this number would be affected by the government edict to "be cured by New Year's or die." He added, however, first executions might involve only a few hundred.

The Corean dealers—who are Japanese citizens—are responsible for the tragic spread of drug habits in this northern Chinese city of 1,500,000 inhabitants, officials assert.

Salesmen Defy Police.

The salesmen openly defy police, even attacking partroimen who attempt to halt the drug trafic. Sometimes the dealers, with an eye to future business, harbor addicts away from official surveillance.

"The world may condemn us for what may be a wholesale execution of drug sufferers," said one high Chinese authority, "but since we cannot reach the real cause of the evil here—namely, the Corean dealers, our only recourse is to make the use of drugs so dangerous that people simply will not dare to take up a habit punishable by death."

Opens "Treatment Centers."

At the start of its campaign, the government opened numerous "treatment centers," some of which have been largely attended, but others of which have received only a few cases.

To back up its threat, officials ordered a large number of coffins constructed by Peiping manufacturers. The first consignment of 2,000 already has been received and placed on public display as a grim warning of prospective killings.

As police awaited orders for the start of the roundup, Mayor Chin conferred with Japanese consular authorities in an effort to obtain their cooperation in the fight against the Coreans.

The little black book was found yesterday.

It belongs to George L. West, an ambulance chaser who told an amazing story of the fake personal injury racket Sunday. The lether bound notebook is supposed to contain a list of fraudulent accident suits in which West claims he acted as agent for crooked lawyers. The prosecutors hope to find corroborative evidence for the book which will enable them to smash the fraudulent ring.

The next few days will be spent by Assistant State's Attorneys Irwin Clorfene and Thomas Dillon in calling into the state's attorney's office for questioning lawyers, physicians, and litigants listed in the book as being involved in the cases, which West confessed were faked or magnified in order to mulct transportation corporations.

Witness Promises a Postscript.

West promised the prosecutors last night to make a supplemental confession today and to interpret the notations in his record book if given a chance to rest and refresh his memory. The book as it stands is of no use to the prosecution without being interpreted although it does contain numerous names and dates.

West, who is 55 years old and who lives at 1406 Roscoe street, was was brought back Sunday from Kalamazoo, Mich., where he said he was was sent by lawyers to hid until the "heat was off" the investigation of the personal injury racket here.

The record book was found in the home of West's sister, Mrs. Nancy Freshman, 1220, 150th street, Hammond, Ind., after West had told the prosecutors that it would corroborate his 31 page confession, which he signed yesterday.

Hunt Bruising Machine.

Detectives searched in vain for the so-called "bruising" machine, which West said was used by those in the fake accident racket to make it appear that an accident victim was severely hurt. The machine, he said, was more or less painless to the victim, although it created bruise marks, which would fool even a skilled physician.

West told the prosecutors that the only time he saw this machine was when it was used to mark up a fake accident victim, who fell into the path of an automobile driven by a lawyer as prearranged. The lawyer, whose name was suppressed, was covered by liability insurance.

Prosecutors admitted that some parts of West's story appeared fantastic and that it would be next to impossible to gain indictments or convictions unless corroborative evidence is obtainable.

More Evidence Is Sought.

It is because of this situation that further grand jury action will be held in abeyance until records are searched and alleged crooked lawyers, litigants, and physicians are questioned in search of additional bits of evidence to bolster up the story of the confessed ambulance chaser.

The prosecutors discovered that before his venture into ambulance chasing, West was general manager of an organization known as the Magistrates, Justices, and Constables Association, Inc. Last August two men and three women, who were soliciting funds for a magazine which the association was reported to be planning to publish, were arrested and questioned by the police.

At that time Charles C. Roe, a former assistant state's attorney who was secretary of the association, denied that he knew the solicitors were posing as police commanders to get contributions.

Grand Jury Hears Policemen.

The December grand jury, which probably will disband Wednesday afternoon, heard evidence in the ambulance chasing investigation yesterday. Six policemen appeared and denied they had taken money from lawyers to flash accident reports to them. The policemen's names were found among papers obtained by Lieut. John Howe when he arrested eight persons suspected of being involved in the accident ring. These persons were later discharged for lack of evidence connecting them with the ambulance chasing racket.

Those called before the jury were Sergt. Thomas Kelleher of West Chicago avenue; Sergt. Thomas McManigal Cragin; Patrolmen James J. Brady, Warren avenue; Paul Schultz, Sheffield avenue; William Barcal, East Chicago avenue, and Ralph Millerr, West Chicago avenue. They told the jury they could not understand how their names or telephone numbers happened to be among the papers.

Battles Staged on New York and Jersey Docks in Strike

New York, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Disputes over picketing in the east coast "rank and file" maritime strike developed today on both the New York and Jersey City waterfronts.

Police broke up heavy picketing at a north river pier here as trouble threatened between striking seamen and longshoremen opposed to the strike. Several were injured in a fight at the Jersey port where strikers defied Mayor Frank Hague's ban on picketing.

An attempt to win strike support from 8,000 truck drivers engaged in transport of ship cargoes began on the New York waterfront. These are members of local 807 of the Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers union.

Seamen led by Joseph Curran, insurgent strike leader, picketed the pier where the trans-Atlantic liner American Trader was being loaded, urging truckmen not to enter. Police ordered a group of longshoremen opposing the strike to "move on" and forced the seamen to reduce their picket line.

Claims Ryan Runs Police.

When police moved the seamen away, Curran sent telegrams to Mayor La Guardia and Police Commissioner Valentine stating:

"Joseph P. Ryan [president of the longshoremen] is standing on the waterfront directing police to break up mass picket lines. We cannot accept the procedure any longer."

Seamen claimed 27 truck drivers refused to pass through the picket line, but Ryan and Michael J. Cashal, vice president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs, ridiculed the assertion.

Cashal admitted, however, that newly elected officers of local 807, the waterfront drivers, "are committed to support the strike."

Although results of the attempted "rank and file" truck drivers sympathy movement were disputed, the American Trader's scheduled sailing was postponed from today until tomorrow.

Negotiations Wrecked.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP)—The question of preferential hiring for union members—which deadlocked previous maritime strike peace conferences—wrecked renewed negotiations today between shipowners and licensed deck officers and precipitated what one federal official said was a "crisis."

T. G. Plant, chairman of the shipowners' committee, reiterated a previous stand that employers would not surrender their full rights in selecting deck officers.

Shortly after the meeting adjourned Assistant Labor Secretary Edward F. McGrady informed Secretary Perkins in Washington that "this is the first real crisis since the strike began."

It was understood the masters, mates, and pilots' organization had offered a compromise whereby union members would be given preference in selection of third and fourth mates, leaving choice of masters, chief officers, first and second mates to the employers.

Settle Sun Strike.

Chester, Pa., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Employés of the Sun Shipbuilding company returned to their jobs today, terminating a strike of three weeks during which 1,200 men refused to work.

ENDS LIFE; JOB HOPE TOO LATE.

Christian E. Harle, 40 years old, a jobless world war veteran from Akron, O., committed suicide yesterday by taking poison in his room at the Y. M. C. A. hotel, 826 South Wabash avenue. In his morning mail, which was unopened, was a letter offering hope of a job.

ERIC DELAMARTER AND NURSE ARE MARRIED IN EAST

Eric Delamarter, former associate conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and Miss Margaret Healy, 36 years old, of Covert, Mich., were married in New York on Christmas eve, it was learned here yesterday.

Miss Healy, a nurse, attended Mr. Delamarter's late wife in her last illness and more recently cared for him during a serious sickness at Palisades Park, Mich., where he now lives.

The marriage was performed by Dr. N. L. Seibert, pastor of the Rossville Evangelical church, Newark, N. J., in the New York city marriage bureau.

U. S. to Start Moving Gold to Kentucky Soon

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Secretary Henry Morgenthau reported today that the movement of the government's gold to the new Fort Knox, Ky., repository will start shortly after Jan. 1.

BULLET REMOVED FROM KILLER OF TOTH FOR TESTS

An operation was performed yesterday to remove a bullet from the side of Frank [Doc] Whyte, paroled convict who, with Stanley Marowski, also a parolee, confessed killing Policeman Michael Toth. Because Whyte was shot at the time Toth was slain, Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan said he would have the bullet examined to determine whether it came from Toth's gun or from Marowski's.

The paroles granted to these slayers who had long previous records as criminals led to an investigation of the entire parole system on orders of Gov. Horner. The order for the investigation was accompanied by the ouster of George T. Scully from his position as head of the parole supervision department and the governor is said to be considering the removal of six members of the parole board.

The operation on Whyte, which took place in the House of Correction hospital, delayed presentation of evidence against him and Marowski to the grand jury. It is expected that the grand jury will inquire into their paroles when it hears the evidence on the Toth murder.

Mother of 10 Confesses Slaying Man in Her Home

Logan, W. Va., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Police Chief Jeff B. Watts said today that Mrs. Emily Watkins, 44, the mother of 10 children, confessed she shot and killed Ben Gayhart, 57, at her home at Dingess, Mingo county. With two other women who had driven over the mountains from her home, Mrs. Watkins walked into Watts' office. She said Gayhart was an unwelcome visitor, and that when he refused to leave, she armed herself with a pistol. She said there was a scuffle during which the pistol was discharged.

TINY ELECTRON OPENS UP VAST ERA IN SCIENCE

New Wonders Shown at Atlantic City Gathering.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—From the stone age to the electronic age, which mankind is now entering, is the thrilling story that may be found in the various sections of the ninety-ninth meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science along Atlantic City's famous boardwalk this week. The sessions opened today, with about 3,000 scientists from universities and commercial laboratories in attendance.

The electron, the smallest energy unit known to man, which can be studied only by its effects and may be seen only in the trails that it leaves across controled gas chambers, was made the keynote of the opening general session in an address by Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and retiring president of the association.

Opens New Horizon.

It was also the high point of interest in Exhibit hall in the Atlantic City auditorium, where it had been captured for observation and where many of its special uses were demonstrated. It opens a new horizon to mankind which promises greater results than synthetic chemistry's control of the molecule, which has deluged the world with new products.

Electrons are so small that a billion billion of them cross a section of an electric light filament. The Radio Corporation of America has them on exhibit, or rather the path that they have crossed, in tubes. Their paths of green light may be observed as they spiral to their destinations, colliding with atoms of gas in flight, producing cloudy trails like sky writing airplanes in miniature.

Or in another tube they enter in bundles and are drawn to a focus at the opposite end of the tube, where they permit a microscopic examination of a subject insect. It makes no difference whether it be visible light or invisible. The invisible light produces the clearest image.

Practical Uses Shown.

As an indication of a few new uses of the electron, there are models of a new trap for automobile speeders. If the speed is over the legal rate, the light turns red for the waiting officer ahead. There is no argument over "I wasn't going fast, officer."

There also is an electric eye to make a "fool proof" camera, and a simple little device which throws a protective area around a safe, so that a burglar could not even approach the area without setting off the alarm.

It is the study of the electronic behavior, however, that opens new doors on the structure of the universe and on the understanding of the electrical nature of the life energy. Reminding the scientists that it was only a little more than 30 years that the electron had been known to them, Dr. Compton said:

"The history of science abounds with instances when a new concept or discovery leads to tremendous advances into vast new fields of knowledge and art whose very existence had hitherto been unsuspected.

Tiniest Thing in Universe.

"No such instances is so dramatic as the discovery of the electron, the tiniest thing in the universe, which within one generation has transformed a stagnant science of physics, a descriptive science of chemistry and a conventionalized science of astronomy into dynamically developing sciences fraught with intellectual adventure, interrelating interpretations and practical values.

"Out of this research have come the following things which all can understand and appreciate: A growing business in manufacture of electronic devices which now amounts to 50 million dollars a year in America alone; a total business of some hundreds of millions of dollars a year which is made possible through these electronic devices; innumerable aids to health, safety, and conveniences, and an immense advance in our knowledge of the universe in which we live."

Tells How They're Captured.

Dr. Compton told how electrons had been snatched out of their ordinary habitat in atoms by boiling them out of metals, exploding them out by X-rays and bombarding them in regions of high voltage, how they were caught on drops of fog like flies in a cage, how they were detected by fluorescent light or unloaded on tiny drops of oil. From these experiments their basic properties were discovered.

"Every bit as remarkable as these discoveries and interpretations have been the practical uses to which electrons have been put," he said. Beginning with the Fleming valve and the Coolidge X-ray tube, we now have an enormous variety of tubes for radio sending, detection and amplification, electric power control or diversion, sensitive ionization detectors, lighting devices, sunshine meters, oscillographs, etc."

The use of electrons to determine the fertility of soil is shown in an exhibit of the United States department of agriculture. Samples of finely divided soil are suspended in a liquid through which electrons, traveling at energies of 45,000 volts, are shot. The electrons form diffraction patterns which differ with the substances contained in the liquid. The soil constituents are thus quickly determined. The department has on display two models of atoms on the diffraction patterns made by the electrons.

Science Finds Drinks Double Kick at 15,000 Foot Altitude

Liquor Potent High Up

"Immediate" memory slows down and drinks "last" for hours, Dr. R. A. McFarland, psychologist, reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science today. His studies were made with the international high altitude expedition of Harvard in Chile last year at 15,000 to 20,000 feet.

A cocktail, he said, has an extra kick for the new arrival in high altitudes. Its most noticeable effect is the long time the alcohol stays in the blood. The "morning after" 50 per cent of the alcohol will still be coursing through the blood.

After a person has become acclimated the effects do not last so long. The "immediate" memory loss showed up in computations. Dr. McFarland took pulse beats at 15 second intervals for periods of two minutes. That meant eight sets of pulse beat counts. He said he could not remember the eight sets. At sea level remembering them all is easy for him, he added.

A new treatment for the "perpetual emotional drunk" which causes severe migraine headaches was described before the association by Dr. Milton B. Jensen of Louisville, Ky.

Emotional Control for Headache

The treatment, he declared, consists principally of treating sufferers to exercise control of their emotions and particularly to avoid tightening the muscles at the back of the neck.

Tightening of these muscles, he added, "interferes with the circulation of the blood to the brain and of the fluid in and around the brain. This stretches the walls of the blood vessels in the brain and causes headaches."

Medical treatment of migraine, the psychologist said, is generally aimed at relieving the intense pains, while the new treatment tends to eliminate the cause of the condition.

A summary of how man has "turned the tables" on some insects and converted them from enemies into providers of healing medicine was given by Dr. William Robinson of the United States department of agriculture, who told of cases in which insects have been won over through man's scientific research.

Insects Made Useful

One of the newest developments, he said, is the discovery that surgical maggots, used for many years in the treatment of bone infections, produced a rare chemical known as allantoin, which has been used with considerable success in the bone disease known as osteomyelitis, on ulcers, running sores, some infections and burns.

The mosquito which transmits malaria to human beings is now rather widely used intentionally to produce malarial fever in persons suffering from the advanced stage of syphilis known as paresis.

Use of the venom emitted by honey bees when they sting is proving of considerable value in treating some cases of arthritis, Dr. Robinson said.

Use of high flying clouds as storm warnings was urged on weather forecasters by Prof. Charles F. Brooks of the Blue Hill observatory of Harvard university.

Weather Forecast in Clouds

European meteorologists make greater use of clouds in forecasting the weather than do American weather men, he declared, and, while daily airplane flights in this country provide a great deal of data, the clouds provide additional information from the region above the "ceiling" of aircraft.

Clouds give a moving picture preview of the weather, Prof. Brooks said, their sequences and association indicating how a storm is advancing and whether it is getting stronger or weaker.

Slow activity of the thyroid gland in the neck was advanced today as an explanation for the inability of many children to keep up with their school work or take part in childhood play.

Thyroid Fault in Children

Prof. Paul A. Witty declared that a number of such children have been observed at a psychology clinic at Northwestern university in the last two years and all have shown symptoms of "dullness, slowness, and lack of typical child interests."

The simple treatment of administering small portions of thyroid glands of animals has been used in each case, he added, and resulted in improved work and return to normal activities.

The physician who tells his patient, "Stick out your tongue," and then looks at it routinely without seeing anything was declared by Dr. Barnard Conroe of Philadelphia to be overlooking one of the best indicators of disease in the body.

"Stick Out Your Tongue"

Too many practitioners of medicine today rely almost entirely on laboratory tests to diagnose disease, he asserted, and neglect the simple and effective procedure of carefully examining the tongue.

"By careful routine inspection of this organ manifestations of many systemic diseases may be encountered," Dr. Conroe added, such as scarlet fever, Addison's disease, syphilis, congenital heart disease, diabetes, allergy, dysentery, hyperthroidism, and chorea.

A new "artificial artery" which duplicates the action of the blood vessels of the human body was demonstrated by Dr. Noel C. Little of Bowdoin college, Brunswick, Me.

Artificial Artery Studied

The artery, which was developed as an assignment to provide a simple method of instruction for medical students, consisted of a coil of special rubber tubing filled with mercury, which was said to transmit a pulse exactly as a human artery transmits a pulse from the heart.

"The artery is caused to beat as if alive and the measurement of the speed of the pulse wave is merely a matter of knowing the length of the artery and the rate of the pulse," Dr. Little said.

Palo Alto, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover denied tonight that he is negotiating for, or is interested in, any property at or near Philadelphia. Hoover said through his secretary, that he never has heard of Cornelius McGroarty, Philadelphia real estate tgent, who stated there today he was negotiating with the former president.

Sjoblad and three friends jumped from the car to safety when it stalled on the tracks.

ROOSEVELT JR. BETTER, REPORT FROM HOSPITAL

Boston, Mass., Dec. 28. — (AP) — Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., the President's son, today was reported "very much improved in every way" in a brief bulletin issued by the Massachusetts general hospital, where he is recovering from a streptococcus throat infection and a sinus operation.

A bulletin last night said:

"Moderate nasal hemorrhage occurred Saturday p. m. which was readily controled. A blood transfusion is not considered. Condition is satisfactory."

Temperature Rises Above Normal 9th Straight Day

For the ninth consecutive day yesterday the temperature rose above the normal maximum of 32 degrees for this time of year, as southerly winds prevented the usual winter cold. The high yesterday was 37 degrees, where the mercury stayed from 1 p. m. to 4 p. m. Forecaster C. A. Donnel predicted rain and warmer weather today.

ECONOMISTS KNIT THEIR BROWS ON MONEY PROBLEMS

Professors Trade Views in Meetings Here.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Beetling brows were corrugated by the American Economic association last night over managed currencies and the public debt. Prof. Alvin H. Hansen of the University of Minnesota, said that business talk of inflation as inevitable was "utter nonsense." Some other savants seemed not quite so sure about this. They said it depends upon what one means by "inflation."

International action on the world's monetary problem was called for by Prof. John H. Williams of Harvard university, who added that he was "not sanguine" it might come about. Earlier in the day Prof. Simeon E. Leland of the University of Chicago, advocated retirement of the federal debt by imposing the largest possible amount of taxes which can be collected and still allow business expansion.

3,500 Attend 13 Meetings.

The occasion was the joint gathering, to last three days, of thirteen leading associations in the fields of economics, sociology, statistics, and allied matters. More than 3,500 are in attendance. In 70 separate meetings at the Stevens and Congress hotels and at the Palmer house, a program of some 220 addresses was presented.

Bewildering in scope and variety, it covered as many of the problems of 1937 as the talent could list. The gold standard came in for more discussion than it did at Cleveland by the platform makers of the Republican national convention.

"Different kinds of countries require different kinds of monetary systems," said Prof. Williams in a paper expounding the gold situation. "There are grounds for thinking we do not need or want any single pattern of compromise in all countries, such as the gold standard was before the war.

For More Efficient Control.

"The best prospect for stability in individual countries and in the world as a whole, so far as it can be achieved by monetary means, lies in more efficient monetary control within the major countries, especially the United States and England, coupled with coöperation between them."

A great financial crisis, Prof. Williams said, was the international counterpart of a run on a bank, to be met by use of reserves.

"In our present state of monetary development," he said, "at least in the larger countries with strong central banks, there is no reason why internal gold reserve requirements for notes or deposits should be allowed to impair a country's ability to withstand a run against its currency. Its entire gold stock should be put in its front window and specifically labeled as an international reserve."

Calls Inflation Not Inevitable.

In the course of an exposition of the gold situation relative to world currencies, Prof. Hansen held that forecasters who say it is bound to come are wrong.

"Inflation," he said, "is inevitable only if we make it inevitable, and nothing has occurred thus far to make it so. Every country can prevent both inflation and deflation by unilateral action if it will, but at much greater cost than would be the case were such action taken through international collaboration."

Prof. Leland held that retirement of the federal debt by high taxes is essential. He said:

"Unless the debts incurred in the recent depression are extinguished before the next severe economic crisis takes place, the probability is that the nation will be cumulating rather than decreasing its public debt. Each succeeding depression could be expected to add its portion of debt to the total.

"The result would be a permanently mounting debt, accompanied probably by a progressively lower credit rating for the government.

Would Allow for Production.

"The policy which the state should adopt is to impose the largest possible amount of taxes for debt repayment which can be collected and still allow a reasonable rate of increased production, or, as it may be termed, 'business expansion.'

"The emphasis should be placed primarily in direct taxes on income and wealth. The maximum rates of the inheritance, estate, and gift taxes cannot be moved upward, at least for some time to come. Extensions of the base and upward graduation of rates in the lower and middle brackets should be contemplated. The corporate surplus tax should be strengthened to make more effective personal income taxation."

Discusses Budget Balancing.

The present status of the United States debt was discussed by Prof. Joseph B. Hubbard of Harvard university. On budget balancing to head off possible inflation, he remarked:

"The treasury is in a strong position to effect a balanced budget. It has certain resources, such as are present in the stabilization fund, its current balance, and the arrangement now provided for the old age reserve account under the national security act. It has furthermore the prospects of increased collections from present taxes as business becomes more prosperous."

AMERICAN HUSBAND IS STILL BOSS AT HOME, SOCIOLOGISTS LEARN

Friend husband is still "boss" in most American homes, and what is more, the wife prefers him that way, the American Sociological society was told yesterday at its opening meeting at the Congress hotel. More than 500 are attending the three day convention.

"Subordination of the wife still appears to be the accepted status in American marriages and what the majority of women want and expect," reported W. P. Meroney of Baylor university. "Feminine domination must be more subtle."

He explained domination as one solution for family conflicts, but said the "most socially desirable" solution is through reconcilation, which he called characteristic of all successful marriages. Clubs owe their existence to the desire of individuals to escape from domestic conflicts and throw their energies into outside social contacts, he explained.

American schools fail because they do not create personalities strong enough to withstand the shattering effect of modern industrial and urban life, the assoication was told by Dr. Haridas T. Muzundar of New York, friend and biographer of Mahatma Gandhi.

FAVORS EXPERTS ON TAP, NOT ON TOP IN GOVERNING

Thos. H. Reed Addresses Political Scientists.

"Experts should be on tap not on top" in government affairs, according to Thomas H. Reed of New York City, director of the consultant service of the National Municipal league.

Mr. Reed spoke last night at a session of the thirty-second annual meeting of the American Political Science association in the Palmer house.

"We have had several demonstrations in our government," said Mr. Reed, "where trained adminstrators stepped into the rôle of political leadership to the detriment of the cause of expert service to government."

Trends in Government Surveyed.

No identification of these experts was given. It was left to his listeners, who appeared to be appreciative of the remark, to supply the names from their knowledge of what has been taking place in governmental administration in the United States.

In general sessions and in sectional meetings earlier in the day, the country's professors of political science surveyed various trends and problems of government.

Reviewing and federal administration of public works, Prof. Arthur W. MacMahon of Columbia university predicted that the federal administration would have little success in returning those employed on public projects to employment in private industry.

Warns Against Curbing Courts.

In another sectional meeting, Attorney Arthur A. Ballantine of New York city said that removal of the power of judicial review of acts of congress would subject the essential liberties of the people to "passing legislative whims."

He said that criticism of the power of judicial review frequently is the "easy" alternative to the rigorous task of considering realistically what is the substance of the constitution.

Powers of state and federal prosecutors have increased in recent years to the point where greater discretion is imperative to avoid abuses. This warning was sounded yesterday by Brien McMahon, assistant United States attorney general in charge of federal prosecutions throughout the country, in an address to members of the Illinois State's Attorneys' association in convention at the Morrison hotel.

"Crime surveys made in the middle '20's marked the beginning of the present swing," said Mr. McMahon. "The public was made aware of our antiquated methods of selecting personnel in the field of law enforcement, and of the inadequacy of our substantive criminal law to reach new types of crime.

"In the next few years our legislatures in many states enacted laws defining crimes which bore no resemblance to the common law felonies. And in 1934 there was enacted by congress the so-called twelve-point crime program.

"Thus, great powers were given to those charged with law enforcement. The discretion which a state or federal prosecutor must exercise today is equivalent to that which was the privilege of a sovereign two centuries ago."

The state's attorneys will close their meetings tomorrow afternoon with a report by the resolutions committee which is expected to recommend improvements in the parole system.

ANTIQUITY HAS ITS DAY AGAIN IN SHOP TALK OF SCHOLARS

Scholars on vacation talked shop yesterday as the Linguistic Society of America, the American Philological association, and the Archæological Institute of America began their annual meetings in conjunction at the Morrison hotel.

Typical of the subjects at the Philological association was that of E. H. Sturtevant of Yale university, "Latin and Hittite Substantive i-stems with Lengthened Grade in the Nominative." The archæologists talked about things like, "The 'Capaneus' Relief of the Villa Albani," by Prof. A. D. Fraser of the University of Virginia.

Among the speakers on the linguists' program were Dr. Harry Hoijer of the University of Chicago, who spoke on "The Southern Athapascan Languages," and Prof. Harold D. Rose of Bowling Green university, whose topic was, "An Experiment in Semantics." The meetings will end tomorrow.

LIFE PROCESSES TO BE SHOWN BY HEAVY OXYGEN

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—A scientific advance which will add greatly to the oportunity of biologists and biochemists to study the life process and particularly the exact effect of oxygen on various body functions was announced today by Dr. Harold C. Urey of Columbia university.

Dr. Urey, who won the Nobel prize for his work with "heavy water" and "heavy hydrogen," announced that in collaboration with Dr. John R. Huffman of Columbia university he had succeeded in obtaining "heavy oxygen" in sufficient quantities to permit its experimental use.

By fractional distillation, the scientists in thirteen days have produced about ten ounces of water containing a concentration of heavy oxygen.

Dr. Urey predicted that the heavy oxygen could be used in much the same way as heavy hydrogen has been found helpful in research.

FORECASTS HUGE SPENDING FROM OLD AGE TAXES

Banker Envisions U. S. Use of New Billions.

Accumulation in the federal treasury of a huge old age pension reserve fund, which it has been estimated will reach 47 billion dollars by 1980, will force federal investment of billions of dollars either directly in private industry or in public works, E. B. Schwulst, first vice president of the Bowery Savings bank of New York, said last evening. He spoke before a session of the American Economic association at the Stevens hotel.

Mr. Schwulst predicted radical changes in the American economic scheme, particularly as regards savings and investment, as a result of the accumulation of the reserve fund under the provisions of the present social security act.

Up to Federal Officials.

He also pointed out grave dangers which may come from the fund. As a safeguard against such dangers, he said, it will be necessary principally to trust the intelligence and good faith of congress and federal officials.

The secretary of the treasury is required to invest the fund, collected by pay roll taxes, in government obligations yielding at least 3 per cent interest.

There are four methods of making such investments, Mr. Schwulst pointed out. The money [through the medium of bond purchases] may be used for current government expenses. It may be used to buy up the existing government debt. It may be invested in outside enterprises, or it may be held sterile, earning no interest, in the treasury or federal reserve bank.

But the most important effect of the fund, Mr. Schwulst said, will be to force the government to seek new fields of investments, since the reserve, by 1980, will exceed the present federal debt by some 14 billion dollars.

Huge Sum for Investment.

"In the absence of unconscionable extravagance, which no one anticipates in view of the probably early balancing of the federal budget," said Mr. Schwulst, "the treasury will either have to hold this sum idle in its vaults or it will have to invest it. The effect on trade and the interest loss to the public if funds were held idle rule out the alternative.

"Therefore we are faced with the prospect of the investment by the treasury of this huge sum either in industry or in public works and conservation projects. It is not likely that the treasury will buy into established enterprises. It is doubtful that congress would authorize this.

"Therefore it is probable that other things being equal, we shall find the government using funds in the development of large scale public works and conservation projects. This activity could and should be undertaken in coöperation rather than competition with private enterprise.

Would Increase U. S. Wealth.

"Unquestionably carefully planned and productive public works and conservation projects would be economically beneficial to the whole country. If undertaken in the right spirit and with a view to supplementing the work of private enterprise, they might very well go a long way toward defraying, through their capacity to increase the wealth of the country, the expenses of the social security scheme."

The accumulation of the reserve fund is fraught with dangers, but all of them may be avoided, Mr. Schwulst believes. He does not believe, however, that the pension scheme will kill individual thrift.

Congress must be watched to prevent misuse of the fund, he said. Beneficiaries of the fund must also be educated against demands for payments of increased benefits, which would eventually bankrupt it. And it will be necessary to trust the intelligence and good motives of public officials to avoid government use of the fund to compete with private enterprise and its unfair use in the money market.

Reserve Plan Defended.

Before another of the social science groups which are holding their annual meetings this week in Chicago, the reserve fund was defended yesterday as the only means by which younger workers, who carry the heaviest tax load under the social security act, may be sure of getting their pensions when they retire. The defense was made by Dr. Edwin E. Witte, professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin, at a luncheon of the Tax Policy league.

Dr. Witte made a vigorous attack on the alternative "pay as you go" plan, which he termed a misnomer. Under it only sufficient taxes would be levied to meet pension disbursements of the current year.

Under such a plan, Dr. Witte said, initial taxes would be low, but it would be necessary to boost the tax to 10 per cent of all pay rolls in 1980 to pay the pensions due in that year. The present reserve plan tax stops at a level of 6 per cent, which it reaches in 1949.

PETRILLO UNION BARS TEACHERS' HOTEL CONCERT

Forces Convention to Go to Another Hall.

Prominent musicians attending the 58th annual convention of the Music Teachers National association at the Palmer House complained bitterly last night of an action taken by the Chicago Federation of Musicians.

The delegates say a federation ruling has the effect of barring from the hotel a concert of honor students and university teachers of music, under the auspices of the Phi Mu Alpha [Sinfonia], a national musical fraternity.

Strictly Amateur Presentation.

This concert scheduled to be given tomorrow night in the fourth floor lounge of the hotel, according to leaders of the fraternity is strictly an amateur affair. It is given at each convention to acquaint leaders in the profession with the latest developments in teaching at leading musical schools of the country. None of those taking part in the concert are professionals, or members of any musicians' union.

This point caused the contention with the Chicago union, which holds a contract with the Palmer House providing that only union musicians perform there. Any non-union musician who wishes to perform must pay a fee of $10 to the union treasury for the privilege, according to the contract, which is similar to those between the union and most of the large hotels.

Appeal to Union Chief.

Informed of this clause in the contract yesterday, members of the fraternity communicated with James C. Petrillo, head of the Chicago Federation of Musicians. Mr. Petrillo referred the matter to Al Rackett, secretary of the federation.

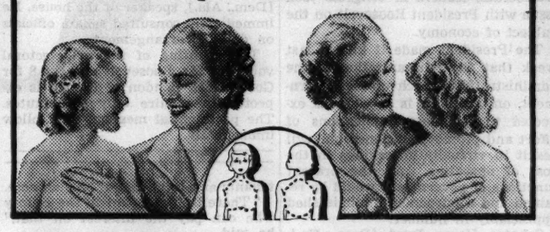
"Rackett told us that it was too bad, but the federation would not change the rule," said a member of the fraternity. "He insisted that we pay $10 for each performer.

"There were twelve young men and women and nationally known professors of music who were to give the concert. Each had paid his way here, or had it paid by the school, because of the great honor. The fraternity and the performers did not feel they could afford this fee of $120.

As a result the concert has been moved to a seventh floor auditorium of the Lyon and Healy building. The federation does not have a contract with this building as in the case of the Palmer house.

Among the distinguished delegates attending the musical conventions are: Dr. Earl V. Moore of the University of Michigan, president of the teachers' association; Dr. Howard Hanson, director of the Eastman School of Music at Rochester, N. Y.; Dr. James T. Quarles of the University of Missouri, president of Phi Mu Alpha fraternity; Dr. Otto Kinkelday of Cornell university, Dr. Charles E. Lutton of Chicago, Dr. Rudolph Ganz of Chicago, and Dr. John W. Studebaker, United States commissioner of education.

Here's the Modern Way
To Help END a Cold



The 3 Minute VapoRub Massage

Massage VapoRub briskly on the throat, chest, and back (between and below the shoulder blades). Then spread it thick over the chest and cover with a warmed cloth.

Almost before you finish rubbing, VapoRub starts to bring relief two ways at once—two direct ways:

1. Through the Skin. VapoRub acts direct through the skin like a poultice or plaster.

2. Medicated Vapors. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in for hours—about 18 times a minute—direct to the irritated air-passages of the nose, throat, and chest. This combined poultice-and-vapor action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation—eases the cough—helps break congestion.

Avoids Risk of Stomach Upsets

This safe, external treatment cannot possibly upset the stomach, as constant internal "dosing" is so apt to do. It can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child.

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

THE CALENDAR'S CASE

By CALEB

OUR year 1936 is waning. It will be four more years until another Leap Year rolls around. It will be 164 years before a year divisible by four is not a Leap Year. There is much of trouble behind this arbitrary arrangement.

There have been occasions when men of the earth struggled with difficulty to make years come out right—when nature and the sun wouldn't conform to man's ideas of the months and the years.

About half a century before Christ, Julius Caesar—who was willing to tackle anything—decreed that every fourth year should have 366 days, their months to have alternately 31 and 30 days. All other years would have 365 days, February's 30 being reduced to 29. Even then, every year, as man figured it, was some 11 minutes shorter than the period required for the earth to complete a circuit of the sun.

In the year of the Council of Nice —325—the vernal equinox fell on the 21st of March as it should. In 1582, because of the 11-minute discrepancy noted, the vernal equinox fell on March 11. To correct the error, Pope Gregory decreed that October 5 that year should be reckoned as the 15th! Then to keep the calendar right, he ordered that every centurial year that could not be divided by 400 would not be a Leap Year (1700, 1800, 1900, 2100, et cetera).

Catholic countries adopted the decree readily. Protestant countries continued on the old basis. Thus, for many years, correspondents in two countries abiding by different times dated letters with both dates, as March 10-20 or September 1-11, 1596.

England adopted the "new time" by Act of Parliament in 1752, by which time the discrepancy had come to be 11 days.

Meanwhile, the Roman Emperor Augustus had changed the name of Sextilis to Augustus—for himself. In order that his month should have 31 days like July—named for Julius Caesar—he took one of February's days and gave it to August.

No individual, now, is influential enough to change the calendar or the number of days of any month.

It is the way of things that problems of the past be soon forgotten. Once solutions have been found, we turn our attention to things unsolved.

There are always so many problems remaining for men to face it is hard to realize that the world has been courageously solving problems since the time when men first fashioned crude clothing, learned to kindle fires, and to construct rude shelters.

PARTY LEADERS URGE ECONOMY ON ROOSEVELT

Byrd and Buchanan Will Force Issue.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The first rift in the Democratic lute appeared today when several Democratic leaders in congress took issue with President Roosevelt on the subject of economy.

The President made it known last week that the reorganization of the administrative branch of the government, on which he is at work, is expected to eliminate duplications of effort and promote efficiency but will result in virtually no savings in the cost of operation. All the present functions of government would be retained and a burocracy undiminished appreciably in number.

Senator Harry Byrd [Dem., Va.], it was learned today, is preparing a statement of views wholly at variance with those of the President. He initiated the reorganization move with which the President fell in line during the presidential campaign. He expects reorganization to be productive of a substantial curtailment of the burocracy and a marked reduction of expense.

Texan Hopes for Slash.

Representative James P. Buchanan [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the house appropriations committee, said he would be "fearfully disappointed" if the administration did not bring in a reorganization plan that would entail a saving of as much as 100 million dollars a year. Both Buchanan and Byrd are prepared to make an issue of retrenchment in the forthcoming session of congress, even at the risk of a breach with the administration.

Congressman Buchanan struck another blow at the New Deal with the assertion that he would fight the continuation of the entire rehabilitation loan program of the Resettlement administration which he pronounced utter folly. He said the discontinuance of the rehabilitation loans alone would save 200 millions.

The Texan is in a powerful position to register his opposition when RA comes before his committee, for a 30 to 50 million dollar deficiency allotment to continue its work in the present fiscal year, and again when regular appropriations are asked for next year. RA will run shy of funds Feb. 1.

Says Initiative Is Stifled.

"The farm tenant who is receiving rehabilitation loans and is farming on land furnished by the government takes no pride in it, and is deprived of the consciousness that he is doing something himself to support his family," Buchanan said.

"Let him find his own tract, and tell the government how he can pay for it, before any aid is furnished. That won't cost half as much. The government shouldn't go in with an autocratic hand and relieve him of his responsibility. He ought to have impressed on him the consciousness of being a free born American citizen."

Buchanan, who also will oppose farm tenant legislation of the Bankhead variety, unless it is greatly modified, said that under present policies the Resettlement administration aided only those tenants "who have so lived that they can obtain no credit elsewhere," discriminating against those who have saved. He said the government "won't loan a good tenant anything."

Calls Half Improvident.

"I know this tenant business," said the Texan, who started life with a tenant farm and a yoke of oxen. "Probably I wasn't a very good tenant. I had to move every ten years. When I later started law practice I had to pick cotton to pay my way.

"You can't get away from the fact that a certain percentage of farm tenants—I'd say about 50 per cent—are shiftless and improvident, who never have and never will earn anything more than a hand-to-mouth existence. To keep lending them money is throwing it away. They have their pigs and their garden patches to keep them in food. People don't starve in an agricultural community."

Buchanan said feed and seed loans to tenants enabled them to get a foothold, provided additional incentive, and brought additional aid from landlords who share the benefits of a good crop.

Fears Permanent Problem.

"If these rehabilitation loans keep up," he said, "those tenants who are working for farm landlords will gradually quit the landlords and go over to the government, and leave us with a permanent problem."

Buchanan said Resettlement recently bought a tract of land in Harris county, Tex., for $40 an acre, improved it, and subdivided it for tenants at a total cost of $200 an acre.

"There isn't a tenant in the county who can pay the interest on that," he said.

On the other hand, Buchanan argued, repayments on feed and seed loans range from 80 to 100 per cent in the cotton section. He admitted feed and seed loan repayments were lower on an average for the country as a whole. He said he anticipated passage of a feed and seed loan bill at this session.

Plans New Program.

The Resettlement administration, forced last season to curtail rehabilitation loans to provide additional drouth funds for direct grants in the west, recently announced plans for expansion of the rehabilitation loan policy in coping with the load of about 250,000 drouth families being transferred from WPA.

ROOSEVELT MESSAGE TO CONGRESS, JAN. 6, WILL BE BROADCAST

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's annual message to congress, expected by congressional leaders to set up sign posts pointing to major legislative goals, will be delivered a week from Wednesday.

Capitol officials today arranged a joint session of house and senate—the afternoon of Jan. 6—for the dual purpose of counting presidential electoral votes and hearing the President deliver his message in person.

Mr. Roosevelt will speak at about 1 p. m., Chicago time, and his remarks will be broadcast.

Word of when Mr. Roosevelt would deliver his message was sent to Representative William B. Bankhead [Dem., Ala.], speaker of the house. He immediately consulted senate officials on detailed arrangements.

The counting of the 523 electoral votes for Mr. Roosevelt and the 8 for Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas is expected to require only 45 minutes. The presidential message will follow immediately.

MALONE POSTS A $25,000 BOND IN COURT HERE

William H. Malone, former chairman of the state tax commission, who is under indictment on a charge of evading $59,574 in income taxes for 1929 and 1930, appeared yesterday before Judge John P. Barnes in Federal court and posted $25,000 real estate bond for his appearance for trial.

The property was scheduled by Malone's brother George. The new bond takes the place of the $5,000 bond posted by Malone Thursday in New York City on his arrival there from Germany.

It is expected his case will be called early next month. District Attorney Igoe announced he would instruct assistants to press for an early trial. Malone again reiterated that the indictment is based on a mere honest difference of opinion between the government and himself.

POLICE ARREST ARMY DESERTER ON HONEYMOON

The honeymoon of Charles P. Huck, 24 years old, and his bride of a week, Genevieve Ragusea, didn't last long. Policewoman Helen Bowden of the East Chicago avenue station arrested him at Oak and La Salle streets early today as an army deserter from Fort Sheridan.

Huck was a member of Company A, 2d United States infantry. He deserted less than two weeks ago, police said, and soon afterward married Miss Ragusea, whose parents live in the neighborhood of Oak and Sedgwick streets. After marriage the newlyweds moved to 1126 North La Salle street. Mrs. Huck said she didn't know her husband was a deserter.

Chief Justice Michael McKinley of the Criminal court heads the list of judges and lawyers who are to attend Stenhouse, born in Scotland, came to this country after he had enlisted in the United States navy.

PARLEY BRINGS SYPHILIS FIGHT OUT INTO OPEN

President Indorses Drive on Human Scourge.

whereas a minimum of 11 cents per capita has been set as the average needed.

Free Drugs Are Needed.

Free drugs for treatment of the disease are a necessity for a successful battle against syphilis, several speakers declared. Yet only three states provide free drugs, regardless of the financial condition of the patient, although 37 states will provide the drugs for the needy patient.

How a modern city can best combat the scourge of syphilis was outlined by Dr. Walter Clarke, director of the bureau of social hygiene of New York City.

"The modern city program should be built up in three main divisions—education, case finding, and treatment," said Dr. Clarke. "Educational activities are concerned with the rallying of public support for the city's fight against syphilis and gonorrhea. All the modern methods of conveying information to the public are useful and can be employed with satisfactory results, provided reasonable skill and discrimination are used."

Free Laboratories Urged.

The health department not only should discover cases of syphilis through its own official services but should aid physicians and institutions to find such cases by providing free laboratory services to all doctors, hospitals, and clinics, Dr. Clarke said.

Not merely the establishment of more and larger clinics by the health department will aid in the battle, he added. An important service which can be rendered by health departments is in the providing of free drugs to private physicians and clinics regardless of the economic status of the patient. Many physicians will accept cases of syphilis for very small fees, he declared, if the drugs are supplied.

Ample hospital facilities for the care of infectious cases requiring hospitalization must be provided by the city, Dr. Clarke said.

Hospital Care Needed.

"Every patient with syphilis, having infectious lesions, should be hospitalized until temporarily noninfectious," he declared. "After which ambulatory treatment suffices if a follow-up is provided to see that the patient does not lapse from treatment."

There are three sources of funds for a city venereal disease control program, Dr. Clarke pointed out.

First, the city budget; second, social security funds obtained through state department of health, and, third, WPA funds obtained through special projects.

It was the American Public Health association that set the requirements for combating syphilis and gonorrhea at 11 cents per capita, and this strictly as a minimum, he added.

The extent of the venereal disease campaign was reported upon by Dr. Vonderlehr. A survey shows, he said, a wide variation in the measures instituted by various states.

About 1,000 free or part pay clinics for the treatment of venereal diseases now exist in the United States, he reported.

Some Urgent Needs.

Dr. Vonderlehr said the national report showed an urgent need for adoption of the following measures in the campaign:

1. The appointment of a full-time venereal disease control officer in every state department of health.
2. A much more liberal policy with regard to free distribution of antisyphilitic drugs.
3. Greater persistence on the part of health officers in the attempt to obtain reliable mortality reports.
4. The development of an increased number of facilities for the provision of treatment.
5. The adoption of reasonable standards of efficiency by state health departments before formal recognition is given to clinics for the treatment of syphilis and gonorrhea.
6. A much more liberal allotment of funds for direct expenditures in the control of venereal diseases.

EVANSTON CONSIDERS PLAN FOR REOPENING ITS SYPHILIS CLINIC

The Evanston city council at its next meeting will consider a plan to reopen the suburb's social hygiene clinic. The annual cost would be $2,000.

Mayor Charles H. Bartlett placed the matter on the books last night after Ald. Edwin Jourdain Jr. called attention to a lack of adequate clinical care for syphilis cases in Evanston.

"Since the clinic was closed in 1933," Ald. Jourdain declared, "there have been twenty-eight children born to couples who were treated at the clinic for some venereal disease. It is foolish to call Evanston the safest city in the United States as long as this condition exists. It is impossible to control this situation as long as we have no clinic to look after these people."

CRIMINAL COURT.
Caldonia Powell and Clementine Miles, colored, manslaughter, sentenced to 1 to 14 years each in the woman's penitentiary at Dwight by Judge Peter B. Schwaba.

Rufo Swain, 27 years old, colored, a former college athlete who was convicted last Nov. 27 by a jury in Criminal court for the murder of Mrs. Mary Louise Trammell, 24 years old, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Rudolph Desort to die Feb. 19 in the electric chair at the county jail. The court denied a motion for a new trial in his behalf.

Mrs. Trammell was found beaten to death last Aug. 16 in her room at the State hotel, 553 South State street. Her body was discovered by her husband, Thomas, a dining car steward, when he returned from one of his regular train runs. Swain surrendered to police after he was linked to the crime by a note book found on the fire escape.

Later he confessed he had killed Mrs. Trammell when she surprised him prowling her room. During his trial, however, he repudiated the confession and charged police had beaten him. His attorneys announced yesterday they would appeal the death sentence.

FOUR SHOTGUN BLASTS FAIL TO HIT TWO ON SPOT

A gang of gunmen with faulty aim fired four shotgun blasts at close range at two men in front of Stein's restaurant at 3253 Fillmore street early today. Both men escaped unscathed, although the hat of one was pierced by several slugs.

The two intended murder victims were Nathan Treger, 37 years old, of 3710 Leland avenue, and Sam Krakover, 28, of 3716 Sunnyside avenue. Treger served a term in the Stillwater, Minn., prison more than ten years ago on a charge of abduction, and not long afterward was sentenced in the Chicago courts to Joliet penitentiary for a term of one year to life for the killing of Sam King. In June, 1935, he was arrested in connection with the murder of Frank Noto, a petty gambler, who was shot in front of 901 South Halsted street. Krakover runs a handbook.

The pair were about to get into their parked car in front of Stein's restaurant when the gunmen fired at them. The first hail of slugs passed over their heads. Treger's hat was riddled. Both men fell to the sidewalk as three more bursts came at them. The killers, three or four men, sped away. Treger and Krakover said they knew of no reason for the attack. Treger recently came from Detroit. His car bore a Michigan license. He said he is in the fur business here. Police said they would investigate the possibility of an alcohol racket motive.

KIDNAPED BOY'S FATHER TOLD TO USE AD 'CONTACT'

Ransom of $28,000 in Old Bills Is Demanded.

for the release of the Weyerhaeuser boy.

Irvin York, operator of a Seattle hamburger stand, said he waited on a man this morning who answered "to a T" the description of Tacoma's latest kidnaper. The man gulped coffee hurriedly while reading of the Mattson boy's abduction, York said.

"He kept one foot on the floor as if ready to run, and read the paper as he drank," the proprietor said, "When some customers came in, the man got up immediately, paid his bill and walked out."

As a result of this information, Seattle police looked for finger prints on the dishes the man used and watched for a tan coupé like the one York said the suspicious person was driving.

The widespread search being conducted by state police and authorities of several cities, in addition to the federal sleuths, included a careful check of highways and side roads in the vicinity of the doctor's $50,000 residence.

Privately owned boats also nosed through inlets of Puget sound on the chance the kidnaper might have secreted the boy on one of the dozens of islands or in a secluded cove.

It was considered possible that the kidnaper had a boat beached below the Mattson home ready for his getaway. The residence overlooks the waterfront, which is about two blocks away and 300 feet below the house.

Residence Near Wild Area.

On shore, officers combed ravines and wooded sections near the Mattson home. The residence, surrounded by moderately expensive homes, is only a few blocks from numerous wild ravines and a "cut over" section of wasteland within the city limits. One of the ravines begins at the edge of the five acre plot surrounding the Mattson home.

The description given police by the three young people at home when Charles was taken listed the kidnaper as of dark complexion, with a heavy beard, slightly built, middle aged and poorly dressed.

The state's kidnaping law, one of the most drastic in the country, provides that any one convicted of abduction with intent to extort money shall be put to death or given life imprisonment. A jury to decide. The Tacoma boy's abductor left a ransom note, placing the case clearly in this category.

ECUADOR MINISTER'S SON KIDNAPED BY 3 IN CAPITAL; RELEASED

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The state department was apprised today of the kidnaping and robbery of Almedo Alfaro, 15 year old son of Señor Colon Eloy Alfaro, minister from Ecuador to this country. The boy was held for a short time Christmas night and robbed of $20.

According to the youth's story to his father, he was forced into a car by three men near the Army and Navy club about 10 o'clock on Christmas night. They threatened him and forced him to ride around with them until 3 o'clock in the morning, young Alfaro declared.

The boy also said that the trio forced him to smoke a cigaret which he thought contained a drug. Released finally near the capitol, young Alfaro found a telephone and called his father. The minister came after his son and took him back to his hotel apartment.

ELECTRIC UNION GIVEN PAY RAISE BY ARBITRATORS

Wage increases of from 12 to 30 per cent for 1,200 central Illinois electrical workers, retroactive to last June 1, were recommended yesterday by a joint arbitration committee meeting in the Morrison hotel. The board was considering a wage dispute between local 702 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Utility Operators' association, bargaining agency of the Illinois Power & Light corporation.

Under terms of the report, which both sides are pledged to accept, linemen will be paid $175 a month instead of $135, bus and street car operators will receive 62½ cents an hour instead of 53½, and the hourly rate for laborers will be increased from 44 cents to 62½ cents. The new contract will run for 3½ years.

The company and the union will share equally in the cost of absorbing labor surpluses created by labor-saving machinery.

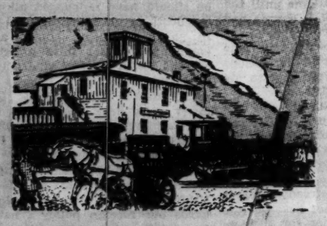
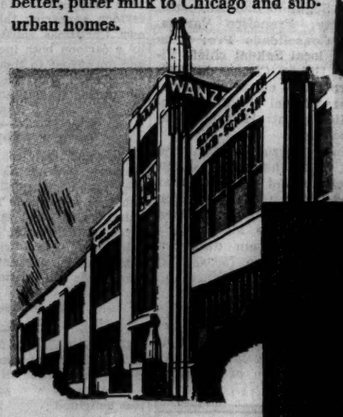
Highlights IN THE HISTORY OF CHICAGO'S OLDEST MILK COMPANY



Four generations ago when the first milk ever to reach Chicago by train came in over the old Galena Railroad, Sidney Wanzer was at the station to receive it. This notable achievement meant fresh country milk from green pasture herds for Chicago families — instead of milk from cows kept in city barns.

Several years before the pasteurization of milk was required by law in Chicago, Sidney Wanzer & Sons were pasteurizing every bottle of milk being delivered to Wanzer customers. This is typical of the pioneer spirit which has motivated Wanzer's for 80 years in supplying better, purer milk to Chicago and suburban homes.



This is the famous Wanzer Sunlight Milk Plant on Garfield Boulevard at La Salle Street. As new and better scientific dairy equipment is developed, it is installed in the Sunlight Milk Plant—constantly maintaining it as one of the finest in the whole world. From the time milk is received until it is sealed in Wanzer-crested bottles, it comes in contact with nothing but shiny nickel and stainless steel.

Visitors are welcome every day. We hope you'll pay us a visit...for Wanzer's Sunlight Milk Plant is truly one of Chicago's impressive show places.

GET TO THE BOTTOM OF IT.

The removal of parole officials under fire, even when they are politically influential and flagrantly unfaithful to their duty, contributes nothing permanent to parole reform. The effect soon fades away and the fundamental cause of maladministration remains. That cause is political control.

The Marowski scandal should not be permitted to result in a mere removal of lax or corrupt individuals. The ouster of a few job holders and the substitution of more reliable men is, of course, desirable, but it is not enough. If we are to have a real reform of parole there must be a thorough disclosure of the influences that procured the release of such a criminal as Marowski, for only by such disclosure will the public be informed of what is the matter with parole. The hue and cry that follows every serious outrage has never had important results. Neither have the repeated investigations. The force of public demand has never been canalized deeply enough to reach the real obstructions to honest and efficient parole administration.

It is time to understand why parole is persistently abused. The Marowski scandal is only the latest of its kind, but if squarely faced and thoroughly exposed, regardless of who is hit, it should show the public what is wrong and what it must demand to correct it.

SAFETY IN AVIATION.

While abridging distance is perhaps the greatest accomplishment of mankind, nature has been particularly cruel to those who have advanced the science. The waters always have taken their toll, and this was particularly true after steam driven vessels appeared to promote speed and reliability. The railroads were able to improve their condition only after years of hard work, and automobile safety is probably the greatest of civilization's present problems, rendered difficult by the fact of individual operation.

The airlines, operating in a thinner element and defying gravity, have made safety a major objective from the first because only through the establishment of passenger confidence could they hope for patronage. With extreme care aviation has taken its place alongside other forms of transportation, but its situation is precarious because of novelty.

Despite two way radio systems, lighted airways, vastly improved weather service, and better equipment, there will continue for a number of years a zone of chance bridged by human judgment. On the one hand is extreme caution—and loss of prestige and revenues. On the other there is the patronage value of unbroken schedule maintenance plus the inclination to depend on fortune. Three accidents in two weeks would appear to indicate that some sections of the industry are leaning toward the second and perhaps more natural alternative—"crowding luck," in the language of the street.

As a rule, passengers seek airplane service as a convenience, but seldom, if ever, rely upon it as a sole means of transportation. The public will condone cancelations in anything but the best of weather. Better lean in the opposite direction until aviation produces more efficient flying machines.

CUBAN FASCISM.

Although the expulsion of Gomez from the Cuban presidency by impeachment proceedings was plainly the climax of an attempt to get a man, the suddenly removed head of the Cuban state has thus far been allowed not only the freedom of personal movement but the freedom of expression. At least he was allowed to denounce the army rule which had thrown him out, even if the newspapers would not print what he said.

Later Batista may find it inconvenient to have his political enemy around, or Gomez may find it better for himself to get away. There was almost the color of constitutional processes in the methods used, although if Americans ever proceeded to press similar charges against one of their Presidents and made it a habit, a house of congress would virtually take over the executive department.

In our one impeachment of a President, that of Andrew Johnson, the charges against him were for the most part merely means to an end, which was to remove a man whose program for reconstruction did not satisfy men who wanted to make the south yield to drastic measures. The charges against Gomez were patently inconsistent with the facts. He was accused of exercising undue and unconstitutional influence in congress to block popular measures, although the assembly not only passed them but passed them over his veto, proving he couldn't influence the legislators at all.

For the present Cuba must accept the ill-concealed fact that it is governed by the army and extract whatever satisfaction may be possible from the other fact that the proceedings were kept within some sort of frame of order and that the violence was confined to infractions of the intent and purposes of democracy and did not extend to persons.

Batista, the army chief, says that Fascism in the island will have to be adapted to local needs. It must be à la Cubana. For three years he has been enlarging, fostering, and favoring the army, trying to impress the people with its efficiency and its usefulness. Army press agents are the busiest in Cuba and the colonel at its head aims to be the idol of the masses.

There have been other American dictators, but Batista seems to be studying modern European instances and trying on hats from abroad. There are several complete methods for his observation.

THE FRENCH CONCESSION TO PEACE.

The Blum government of France has made the first conciliatory peace proposal to Germany involving on the part of the proposer what could be regarded as a sacrifice of self-interest. France, on certain conditions, all of them looking to the maintenance of peace, will return the German colonies of Togoland and Cameroon seized as spoils of war.

Heretofore the European powers have been trying to satisfy Germany's appetite for overseas dominion by offering smaller nations' possessions, not their own. They were prepared to do something handsome with Belgian or Dutch colonies if a dicker could be made.

The whole peace was an act of folly and stripping Germany of its colonies was a part of it. It is conceded that the victors had been terrified and they had despaired of the success which came to their side. They had not expected mercy if defeated and they intended to give none. In such a state of mind they sought their future security as well as their revenge by binding the German people to perpetually humiliating conditions. In doing so they destroyed the German republic and produced Hitler, now their chief menace.

The French offer will require concessions from Germany, but nothing in which the other nations will not join. Premier Blum does not need to be a pacifist to know that peace in Europe is worth more to France than these bits of Africa which were once under the German flag. Peace in Europe might be worth all of Africa to all of Europe.

Whether more for pride or more for profit, Germany has been demanding colonies. Unless a European nation has some such possessions, even if they cost more than they bring in, it holds itself underprivileged and deprived of its rights.

Blum may get in trouble at home, although in times past colonial possessions were swapped back and forth to end wars or prevent them on the rare occasions when they were not being fought. At least the French have recognized that peace is worth a price.

THE WARD INCIDENT.

On Nov. 20 the American Pioneer Line announced sailing cancellation of the motorship Ward. As schedule interruptions had been quite frequent during the longshoremen labor difficulties, no particular press comment was made at the time. Now it appears that the case of the Ward was different. The vessel was in need of repairs, but Baltimore yards refused to bid on the job because the American Pioneer Line, which has a United States mail contract, is being operated under conditions written into the ship subsidy act of 1936. One clause in this law provides for government supervision of construction and repair contracts, so that any shipyard that may work on a subsidized vessel must open its books to the maritime commission and submit to certain regulations. One of these is a salary limitation of $25,000 to any officer of the shipyard, and another is recapture of profits in excess of ten per cent.

According to political plans, the United States will construct a subsidized merchant marine much larger and more modern than our present abortive effort, capable of carrying at least fifty per cent of our overseas commerce. Such a program must also envision the modernization of our present shipyards and the construction of several new ones. How will it be possible to interest capital in such hazards? Obviously, the navy yards must assume the burden, but how can these be expected to produce an American ship of which we will be proud with not one cent allowed for research, the very thing that this down-at-the-heel industry needs worse than anything else?

Maritime architecture is dormant because the industry lacks the genius and spirit of get-up-and-go that characterizes the automotive field. It is sadly in need of Ketterings and a Pullman company. Our legislators have sterilized their own program through their inability to appreciate the archaic condition of maritime activities. They are not only undernourished, but are sadly in need of a major operation.

Editorial of the Day

A DIET OF STEEL.

[Peoria (Ill.) Transcript.]

Nazi propagandists are attempting to console the people of Germany for their material hardships, notably deficiencies in diet. The public must be kept happy despite the butter shortage, meatless days, and general rationing, and the Nazi appeal, as usual, is to patriotism and national pride.

The Angriff, organ of Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels, appeared recently with a full page photograph of an aged New York woman, clad in rags, giving thanks for a handout at a Bowery mission. The caption read: "Bread! Meat! Vegetables! Even an apple! It's been months since she's had such a meal, and afterward, back into the street to disappear like thousands like her, until pity again brings her to a warm fireside."

The paper carried other pictures of American breadlines and sought to show that conditions in America are worse than in Germany; that Germany takes care of her people while America allows them to starve.

Another Goebbels trick is to divert attention from stomachs by pointing to the great advance in the reich rearmament program. The submarine fleet today is twice as strong as that of 1914. General naval strength is growing rapidly. A new, large motorized army has been built up almost overnight. A strong air force is ready to carry the fight to enemy territory. The stomachs may be empty, but Germany has something to show for them.

The huge expenditure for armaments is one direct cause for the shortage of food. Germany cannot produce enough to feed her population and therefore must import foodstuffs. But the Nazis are unwilling to devote their precious foreign exchange to food when war materials are needed.

"What, you are hungry, Fritz? Here, have another submarine."

THE KINDLY CRITIC.

Ma Green, who lived in the White Oak country in my boyhood, was a great stickler for proper pronunciation, but gentle in correcting mistakes. Once, when one of her kids used the expression "wash boiler," she said: "Bless little Pete's heart; he's talkin' about a wash biler." Bin F.

"SO I HAVE shamefully followed you in order to sincerely await punishment."—Marshal Chang, after flying to Nanking (quoted by ye TRIBUNE). Perhaps; but we suspect the marshal wanted to get to a spot where a split infinitive was sure of world-wide distribution.

SIR: Four year old Gene became very positive when we urged him to tell what he craved from Santa Claus. "A new suit of underwears," he cried; "and I want end gates in 'em." W. B. M.

READING THAT a ring of ambulance chasers was equipped with a bruise making machine, our first guess was that it had been stolen from the collector of internal revenue. This theory was discarded when the second paragraph related that the device operates painlessly.

LIGHT ON THE SPINNING WHEEL.

On the spinning wheel a lamp
Spreads a starlike beacon light
Through a window down the road
Guiding journeymen at night.

When they see the spinning wheel
Streamers float and all are gay,
Dance and hum a minuet
And go merrily on their way.

On they go to Hillmaron
Lovers, artists, sonneteers,
Praising lamp and spinning wheel,
Symbol of the pioneers.

Your "Blowing the Critic's Horn" persuades me to take up the career of mistake pointer out for the radio industry. Here are a few bursts of my bombs: We are invited to "beat the missus at the Home Arts killed." A certain ex-monarch travels incogkneetoe, but the empire is still cohairent. The Furor and the Deuce are invited to take part in plans for mediation in wartorn Spain. Butter we buy from the diary is artificially colored; and did you know that your family wash has strepticockeye? The announcer said it had been that way for decayeds. Once upon a time Tito was only the Skeepa, but now we're told he's the whole Shipa. Here's looking at you over the waves. J. E. B.

SIR: Weep with me. Pretty tough, I'd say, to wait all these months for my lucky night and then have the naughty policemen confiscate the first and only screeno prize I ever won.

SIR: The persistent bachelor, asked why he had not married, replied testily: "I am investigating a possible bride. But I'm firm about it. Unless she can run a can opener there'll be nothing doing." A. H.

STEAMBOAT DAYS.

One of the most beautiful and distinctive sounds ever produced through man's efforts is the chime voice of the river steamboat whistle. It is different from other whistles, because it is four of them in one; four notes that blend into a chord. First is the bass pipe, whose voice is as deep as distant thunder; then there is the high note, of clearest soprano. Between these come the mellow baritone and a jazzy, jolly blue note. When the pilot steps on the whistle treadle there is a great gurgling just above the pilothouse; hot water splashes down about the windows. Presently you hear a hoarse grumbling, as though a weary giant were clearing his throat. Then, suddenly, the trap valves are free of water and the majestic bass booms out, joined by the soprano. Now the baritone blends in and, last of all, that lilting blue note. An unforgettable symphony goes rolling out across the bottom lands. . . But these four notes—in the old days there were sometimes as many as eight—must be pitched and harmonized as deftly as was ever a chord for the piano.

They still talk about a fiasco that involved the ferryboat Mocking Bird on the Ohio in the '80s. Its whistle had been designed to imitate the golden throated songster for which the boat was named. The six pipes were cast of solid bronze. A great crowd was on the levee to hear the tryout. But when the pilot "turned her loose" there burst forth the most blood freezing roar of discords ever heard in those parts. Children ran shrieking to their mothers; strong men paled and clutched their women protectingly. Before the sun had set the mocking bird whistle was, by common consent, at the bottom of the Ohio.

WATER DRINKING IN WINTER TIME.

DURING the summer, when we are perspiring freely, a huge quantity of water is excreted from the skin and thirst demands that we replace it. But in colder weather, when we exercise less and perspire but little, the loss of water drops substantially. As a result we are likely to take too little fluid.

When we understand that the blood is 90 per cent water, the muscles 75 per cent, and that even the bones contain a considerable amount, we realize how dependent we are upon this chemical. Practically every organ needs it and life can continue for but a short time without it. It is the substance by means of which the interchange of the products of digestion and the distribution of food elements are affected. The transference of oxygen and carbon dioxide in the blood takes place in its presence. Note the exhaled breath on a cold day. The cloud represents moisture expelled from the lungs.

While we may not observe beads of perspiration on the surface of the skin during the winter months, nevertheless constant evaporation is occurring. Sometimes if the air of the home in which we live is very dry, that is, lacking in humidity, evaporation may proceed at a rapid rate and be responsible for a harsh skin attended with certain types of irritation.

On the average, each adult loses between four and five pints of water each day, indicating the amount that must be replaced to maintain an even balance. We cannot preserve health on less, as the cells of the various organs cannot function if they do not hold their normal saturation.

Ordinarily we gauge the amount of fluid that we take by what is called thirst. We all know how this varies from time to time. If we use an abundance of salt with our food, water is needed for its dilution. When the tissues get about so full, thirst ceases, that is, the stimuli from the mouth and the back of the throat stop.

On the whole many of us use too little liquids. This habit may have come about because years ago a great crusade swept the country against using fluids with meals. We were warned that the practice would dilute the stomach juices and hence digestion would fail.

This was before accurate experiments had determined the fact that digestion would not be interfered with if food were mixed with a considerable quantity of water. A. C. Ivy proved that from 12 to 25 ounces taken with meals increases the amount of acid in the gastric juice, although the emptying time of the stomach is somewhat delayed. A glassful before each meal and another during the meal in addition to a cup of tea or coffee or an equal allowance of milk are quite within the bounds of propriety.

There is considerable danger, however, in excess water drinking on the part of elderly persons whose arteries are less elastic than when they were younger. All the fluid taken by mouth must pass through the heart and the blood vessels. The effect is often that of swollen ankles and a puffy skin. Most of these individuals learn that a certain ration is desirable, but beyond a given amount they should not go.

We are fortunate that water is both cheap and abundant. Society owes a great debt to sanitary engineers, who have pointed the way to safe methods of domestic water distribution. Eternal vigilance is essential, however, as wells, streams, lakes, or reservoirs may become contaminated. Health authorities have learned how to treat water with liquid chlorine so as to destroy disease producing bacteria.

No one can tell about the purity of water from its appearance. It may be cool and sparkling, and yet contain typhoid organisms. It is only by careful bacterial tests that its safety can be gauged.

While we are about it, a word of caution should be dropped that very cold or very hot drinks are "shocking" to the delicate mucous lining of the stomach.

STAIR CLIMBING.

I. O. writes: I am a perpetual stair climber. Is this type of exercise harmful or helpful?

REPLY.

Stair climbing, particularly if more than one flight must be scaled, may prove unduly fatiguing. It requires the same expenditure of energy to go up 5 ordinary steps as to walk 60 feet on the level. Many authors state that climbing stairs is 15 times as fatiguing as walking. Shortness of breath observed at the top of a flight may be the first sign that calls attention to the heart. A certain amount of stair climbing is unavoidable and even those with heart muscle difficulties can indulge if the movements are slow and deliberate, pausing every third or fourth step. One can rely on the banister for help. As far as possible the leg and thigh muscles should be used. This means rising with each step on the ball of the foot. The body will need to be bent forward but slightly. As a form of exercise for those who are obese, stair climbing is useful. The number of steps, however, should not be large until it has been determined that the heart muscle can stand the load.

VITAMINS.

H. B. writes: What are the elements in vitamins D and F? What benefits are derived from them?

REPLY.

A chemical formula [structural] of vitamin D that has been proposed shows 28 atoms of carbon and 45 of hydrogen. This vitamin controls absorption and metabolism of mineral elements, such as calcium and phosphorus; prevents rickets; is essential in pregnancy and lactation; increases bony resistance; prevents dental caries. Foods rich in it are: egg yolk, salmon, butter, oysters, and cod liver oil.

Vitamin B1 or F is the anti-neuritic or anti-beriberi vitamin. It stimulates appetite, promotes growth, and prevents beriberi or polyneuritis. Foods rich in this vitamin include whole cereals, wheat, corn, rice, oats, peas, egg yolk, yeast, spinach, carrots, cauliflower, celery, lettuce, onions, potatoes, cabbage, tomatoes, beans, cheese, liver, banana, nuts, oranges, peaches, pineapples, prunes, dates, and grapefruit.

X-RAY PLATE FIRST.

J. A. writes: In case of suspected empyema is it safe to make a needle test for pus or fluid without an X-ray, or should the latter be made?

REPLY.

I would advise that an X-ray plate be made first. This will disclose the position of the abscess [empyema] and drainage by needle or trocar can then be carried out accurately.

IF WE COULD ONLY LOAD HIM DOWN WITH SOME OF THE WORLD'S PET NUISANCES

From Across the Sea

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA.—Two days after the celebration of the first anniversary of the creation of the Philippine commonwealth, featured by the largest "independence" parade ever held here, there was staged another meeting attended by 800 delegates who openly aired grievances against the new government and its so-called "Quezon policies."

The protest meeting was attended by communists, Sakdals [radical party], socialists, representatives of various labor unions and dissenting political groups. It was held openly in the Manila Grand Opera house.

On the day of the meeting, President Manuel L. Quezon issued a proclamation conditionally pardoning 32 prisoners sentenced to terms ranging from six to ten years for sedition. Most of those pardoned were Sakdals who took part in the armed uprising against the government after the national election two years ago. The remainder included two Moros and six who had been involved in a strike of cigar workers.

Considerable surprise was expressed that the authorities permitted the meeting to be held in view of the government's recent moves to curb radical activities by enactment of sedition and censorship laws and the creation of a state police system.

The Red "open forum" adopted resolutions attacking five administration projects, including the sedition law. In addition an attack was launched on the creation of the state police, daylight saving regulations, postponement of elections to 1938 and proposed increase in taxes on imports and exports.

The character of the organizations participating in the meeting indicated that the soviet conception of the "united front" apparently has reached the Philippines. The speakers included Segundo San Augustin, Socialist party; Francisco Varona, Nacionalista Consolidado Pro; Celerino Tiongco, local Sakdal chief; Vicente Sotto, Union Civica de Filipinas; Severo Daba, editor of a communist paper; Miguel Halili, Nacionalista Consolidado Anti; Hermenegildo Gonzaga, Socialist.

Tionco scored Quezon's administrative policies, called the new president a virtual dictator and predicted that "one of these days he will proclaim himself king of the Filipinos." Daba ridiculed Gen. Douglas MacArthur's national defense program, declaring that the 16,000,000 peso [$8,000,000] appropriation was "extravagance and waste."

Varona traced the history of the Philippines through the Spanish and American régimes and alleged that what is happening now is "colonization by a small group of Filipinos over the great mass."

CO-SIGNER OF NOTE.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—"A" borrowed a sum of money from a loan company. "B" is the co-signer. "A" defaulted. The loan company confessed and procured judgment against "B" without his knowledge. "B" has lost his position but has furniture, etc., which was not put up as a chattel for this loan. Can the loan company attach this furniture without first giving "B" an opportunity to file a debtor's schedule? W. R. R.

No. If the chattel mortgage is validly recorded, the lien would be ahead of the judgment and in addition the judgment debtor would be entitled to an exemption of $100 worth if he is single or $400 worth if he is head of a family.

TENANTS IN COMMON.

Oak Park, Ill., Dec. 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A, B, C, and D hold property as tenants in common. A and B are now dead. If the property is to be sold how shall it be conveyed to the new owners, since the original deed with the names of the two deceased owners has never been changed? J. A. K.

The heirs or devisees of the deceased co-owners would have to join in the deed and probate of the estates of these co-owners would be necessary in order to produce a technically merchantable title.

THE ORIGINS OF THE ANGLICAN CHURCH.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—The cartoon which you published in last Thursday's TRIBUNE maliciously reviving the myth that Henry VIII. founded the Church of England is an insult to all Anglican Catholics—and your comments with respect [or I should say disrespect] to the archbishop of Canterbury are of the same order.

The church was established by Jesus Christ. When William the Conqueror came to England in 1066 he found the church flourishing there and became a convert. When the Roman pope, Gregory VII., asked William to do homage to the Romans who had broken away from the church established by Christ, William refused in these words:

"I have never done so and will not do so now, and I find that my predecessors never did it to yours."

It is true that from this time until the reign of Queen Elizabeth the church had to continually fight the encroachments of Romanism. But she never at any time succumbed to them—nor did the actions of Henry VIII. have anything to do with her fealty to Christ.

When ignorant persons speak of the archbishop of Canterbury in derisive terms they forget, or do not know, that the church created the British empire and forced King John to sign the Great Magna Charta in 1215 to give the world the first democracy of freedom it ever knew. The church cannot have one rule for the poor and another for the rich. Kings, princes, and paupers all look alike to her. Surely she should be admired for that.

The church does not condone divorce and never has. The Romans and the Greeks commendably follow her in this. The world would be a lot better place to live in if those of self-appointed authority did likewise. JAMES ASHTON GREIG.

AFFRONTED.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—THE TRIBUNE would have done well to add to the McCutcheon cartoon appearing this morning that its own Christmas spirit was being shown by a cartoon both incorrect in statement and an affront to thousands of Anglicans and members of the Protestant Episcopal church of America.

ROBERT MACDONALD.

FINE REPRODUCTIONS.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 21.—I want to congratulate you on the fine appearance of the colored reproductions which you published in yesterday's TRIBUNE of the four paintings included in our twentieth anniversary exhibition. They were beautifully done, and I wish you would also extend my compliments to Mr. Lundberg, who made the photographs.

Publicity Secretary, the Cleveland Museum of Art.

TAXES.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—I would like to know when we are to expect the 15 per cent reduction on our 1934 taxes for illegal levies? Those who took their reduction out before paying are just so much ahead of the poor sap who paid in full. Are they? M. H.

DID KING EDWARD DESERT?

Elgin, Ill., Dec. 22.—For thirty-two years I have given you an opportunity to talk to me through your editorials and I never had reason to go purposely around the block to avoid you, although we radically differ in our attitude toward England. This disagreement establishes a healthy relationship.

I presume that it is your right to "cato" whenever you feel like it and ask for the destruction of the British caste system, but when you try to use the abdication tragedy as a means to renew your attack I take exception.

King Edward, better than anybody else, knew what was expected of him after he would have taken charge of what you call the British institution. During the many years as heir apparent he gave ample evidence of not being in sympathy with what would be his daily work and immediate surroundings, and he should have renounced all claims at the death of his father instead of trying to go on accepting honors and large emoluments under false pretenses. As commander in chief of all British forces, he deserted the empire in days that it is sorely pressed from without. Officers of lower rank have been court martialed and cashiered for much less offense.

At this moment of writing I just finished reading your today's editorial, "The U. S. in the Pacific," and I recognize therein my old friend of some 10,000 mornings, whose opinion as regards our foreign policy I have mostly found to be eminently sound.

G. A. F. RALAND.

A COURAGEOUS POLICEMAN.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—Is there an award for outstanding acts of bravery by policemen? If there is I have a candidate for that honor. He is John Belskey, star No. 645, who risked his life for a woman and her child. The woman and child were crossing the street, unaware of the oncoming car, when Officer Belskey, realizing the situation, rushed out into the street, blowing his whistle and standing in front of the oncoming car in order to protect the woman and the child. The car finally stopped, but it was just a few inches from the courageous officer. A scene such as that which I have just described makes me proud of our police department.

CROSS-WORD COMPLAINT.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—In the campaign of proper English and correct wordage I believe you should include the editor or writer of your cross-word puzzle in the Dec. 21 issue.

A synonym for the word "steal" in slang in five letters [No. 5 horizontal] was quite a sticker. According to the usual vernacular as acquired in my travels, the following are slang synonyms for steal, snitch, snatch, lift, hook, etc. The synonym given was mooch, which in the vernacular means to "bum."

700,000 PUT IN DARK FOR FIVE HOURS BY FIRE

Everything Is Halted as Power Ceases.

Newark, N. J., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Modernized activity in this city and in nearby Elizabeth, Irvington, Kearney and other places came almost to a dead stop tonight when electric service was cut off by a fire. It was an eerie experience that 700,000 persons likely will not soon forget.

Street, office building, department store, theater, and hospital lights went out. Office building elevators were stalled. Department store escalators were halted. Police and other radios were silenced. Industrial plant machinery was stopped. The great lighting system at the Newark airport, one of the most important fields in the world, was darkened. Automobile traffic strangled in the black streets.

Paralyzed for 5 Hours.

The paralysis lasted for more than five hours. Newark resorted to heroic means to bring light out of darkness. Hospital operations were performed in candle or emergency lighted rooms. Emergency flares were brought to the airport. Newark's entire police force of 1,285 men was called out and went around to stores and restaurants and banks and advised them to close up.

The accident that caused all the trouble occurred in the Essex substation of the Public Service Electric and Gas company. Fire of unknown origin broke out in a generator buss which conveys power from the plant to be distributed to six substations in the area. The flames ate the insulation and oil for three and a half hours; only chemicals could be used against them.

Meantime, rush hour trafic had been completely paralyzed. Thousands of people were stranded on the upper floors of skyscrapers. Of Newark's 15 principal tall buildings, only a few, these having their own power, escaped the blight.

Form Guide Lines.

Some of the larger stores closed business, employés forming lines to guide customers through the lanes to the exits. Some smaller stores also closed, largely through fear of looting.

The situation in some hospitals was acute. The Newark Eye and Ear infirmary had to do without heat as well as light. At St. James hospital, doctors operated on Frank Zarler, suffering from a skull fracture, by means of emergency lights.

In another hospital, where elevator service was disrupted, four interns placed an emergency patient on their shoulders and carried him up four floors to the operating room.

Street stop and go signals went out. At the "Four Corners," Market and Broad streets, trafic became snarled until police used acetylene torches to illumine the scene. Further up in Market street two youngsters did a rushing business by carrying lighted lanterns and guiding pedestrians across the thoroughfare at 5 cents a trip. The trolley system, operating under its own power, was able to function.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

ROME, Dec. 28.—Countess Edda Ciano, daughter of Premier Mussolini and wife of the Italian foreign minister, has suddenly postponed her trip to the United States. Countess Ciano plans to make the trip late in March. The reason for the change is that it is both Mussolini's and his daughter's wish that she be here for the wedding of her elder brother, Vittorio. The date of the wedding, though still uncertain, will be some time in February.

60 Killed as Spanish Rebel Bombers Raid Santander

MADRID, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Madrid's defense reported today the death of 60 persons in an insurgent air raid at Santander, northern coastal city.

The British charge d'affaires, George Ogilvie-Forbes, disclosed he had received orders to move the British embassy to Valencia, to facilitate communication.

It was believed many of the 220 British nationals still in Madrid would seek to leave with the embassy staf probably Thursday. Transportation arrangements had not been completed, however.

Defense advances at the western, southwestern, and northeastern edges of Madrid were claimed simultaneously. Militiamen seized insurgent trenches and houses from the Fascist besiegers at the edge of the Western usera district, an official announcement stated.

Capture Two Positions.

Government troops claimed capture of two stragetic positions on opposite sides of the capital. A communique said a socialist force had routed Fascists in El Basurero, near the highway southwest from Madrid to Estremadura, and in the Taracena sector about two miles from Guadalajara, to the northeast.

A Fascist aerial attack on Madrid early today inflicted heavy damage on several buildings in El Reloj and El Gato streets.

Gen. Jose Miaja, commanding the forces defending Madrid, asserted today there now are about 20,000 Germans fighting in the Fascist insurgent armies under Gen. Francisco Franco. Many of them are on the Madrid front, he said.

The general added, however, that the "tense unity of action" of the insurgents has "prevented us from capturing any Nazis. German tactics have not changed since the world war. They mass their troops on the point they wish to attack and capture."

Spite Leads 81 to Death.

AVILA, Spain, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Spanish Fascist commanders tonight asserted 81 government militiamen were killed in insurgent trenches they stormed yesterday out of resentment because all recent fighting has been given to the foreigners in the international column serving the Madrid government.

They said the Spanish militiamen apparently wanted to show what they could do as they launched a sudden attack yesterday morning south of Madrid. The insurgent commander ordered his men to let the enemy approach as near as possible. Then a wave of machine gun and rifle fire cut down many before they could retreat.

enthusiasm for a Mediterranean pact, which the British government desires at least as much as Italy. Whether it is or not, it is generally agreed that Italy would rather make up with Britain than maintain a Fascist front with Hitler at the risk of serious trouble with both France and Britain.

One point emphasized here is that Mussolini knows he must play second fiddle in any alliance with Hitler.

Another line taken by the British is that a "dependable" agreement with Britain seems better for Mussolini than tying up with Hitler, who in the past never hesitated to scrap any agreement that interfered with any of his plans. Consequently, London believes that if Hitler continues to defy efforts of Britain and France to promote a hands off Spain policy he will find himself facing them alone.

BLAST FOREIGN PRESS

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—A salvo of denunciations and vituperations was fired at the foreign press in Nazi newspapers and over the government controled radio today.

The campaign represented an effort to discredit all reports coming from foreign countries about the activities of Germans in the Spanish civil war. The reports aroused both the displeasure of Nazi officials and the deep concern of the population.

Most Germans learned of the events in Spain from relatives of Germans fighting in Spain, or from relatives of those who were killed or wounded in action. They also heard about them from deckhands who loaded steamers for Portugal and South America with arms for Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel chief, and from foreign radio stations. Therefore, the campaign against the foreign press failed to arouse as much popular resentment as was expected.

Cabinet Meets Thursday.

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and his aids are studying Franco-British suggestions of a new six power pact for neutrality in Spain. They will be discussed by Hitler and the cabinet Thursday.

[An Associated Press dispatch from London said British officials were considering a six power naval patrol designed "to keep volunteers and arms out of Spain." Germany, Russia, Italy, and Portugal may be invited to join Britain and France in forming the coastal patrol, the dispatch said.]

The foreign office is preparing a list of conditions under which Germany will consider participation in a new neutrality pact. Gen. Wilhelm Faupel, German chargé d'affaires accredited to the Burgos government of Gen. Franco, is in Berlin and will take part in the discussions of the Spanish war.

The Nazi government, after learning of assertions at Bilbao, Spain, that the German steamer Palos which was seized by Spanish loyalists was loaded with arms and ammunition, ordered a 6,000 ton cruiser to sail for Bilbao.

The cruiser has been in Spanish waters for the past week. The ship was expected to arrive off Bilbao sometime tonight. The nature of the naval demonstration planned before Bilbao was kept secret.

Insist Duce Backs Hitler.

Italians in Berlin declared emphatically that Premier Mussolini is siding with Hitler in the crisis over Spain.

The Italians are encouraging German "volunteers" to continue to go to Spain and fight on the rebel side and the Germans are doing so.

NAZIS TO SELL IRON ROSES TO RAISE FUNDS FOR WINTER RELIEF

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Iron roses will symbolize Germany's "Spartan approach" to the problems of 1937—including the shortage of foodstuffs. Nine million tiny blossoms will be cast and sold to the public as buttonieres, to raise funds for winter relief. Officials said the roses would require 500 tons of cast iron.

U. S. LIFTS BARS ON PLANES TO BE USED IN SPAIN

Grants License for Sale of Ships and Parts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Professing considerable embarrassment, state department officials today announced that they had issued a license for the export of $2,777,000 worth of military airplanes and engines to Bilbao, Spain, presumably for the communist government forces.

The state department took the view that the issuance of the license to Robert Cuse, president of the Vimalert Company, Ltd., of Jersey City, was mandatory under the terms of the neutrality act of 1936.

The act prohibits the export of arms, ammunition and implements of war for the use of belligerents in the case of a war between or among two or more countries, but does not prohibit such exports in the case of a civil war.

Quote License Provisions.

Another section provides that "export and import licenses shall be issued to persons who have registered as herein provided for, except in cases where the exportation of arms, ammunition, or implements of war would be in vain of this section or any other law of the United States."

Officials said they had been unable to find any other law prohibiting the export of arms to Spain.

Repeated requests for export licenses have been made to Joseph C. Green, chief of the arms and munitions control division of the state department, it was said, with the applicants hoping to reap huge profits from sales to the Spanish factions.

Mr. Green heretofore has been able to convince applicants that such exports would be embarrassing to the government and the applicants refrained from submitting formal request for licenses.

Spurns U. S. Arguments.

It was stated that Cuse, a marine broker and dealer in airplanes and parts, called on Mr. Green and stated that he had considered the representations made to him, but had decided nevertheless to apply for the license.

Licenses were issued for the shipment of 18 second hand airplanes, with a total value of $720,000, and 411 completely assembled engines, with replacement parts, having a total of $2,057,000.

An assailant fired three shots at Senator Grove as he was entering his home here after midnight. None of the shots struck him. The assailant fled. He wounded one police officer before being cornered, when he attempted suicide.

DUTCH OIL KING GIVES $5,400,000 TO AID FARMERS

Urges Them to Send Products to Germany.

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Sir Henri Deterding, Dutch oil magnate, today placed a sum estimated at 10,000,000 guilders [about $5,400,000] at the disposal of Dutch farmers in a two point move to lessen their distress and facilitate the export of agricultural produce to Germany.

Deterding, chairman of the Royal Dutch Petroleum company, is a native of Amsterdam and is regarded as a leading friend of the new Germany.

His scheme has the special consent of the Netherlands government. It is outside the scope of the clearing agreement existing between the Netherlands and Germany.

Here's How Scheme Works.

Under the plan quantities of greenstuffs, fruit, and cattle, which Dutch farmers have been unable to sell, will be bought with the money by an organization made up of persons named by Deterding. The organization will pay the farmers in guilders and the produce will be bought by Germany, which will pay the organization in marks. The scheme was described as wholly nonpolitical and exclusively humanitarian.

Deterding himself is in Germany, where he purchased a house near Berlin following his marriage to a German woman, Charlotta Mina Knaack, last June 2.

Dispatches from Berlin received in London said the oil magnate refused to comment on his philanthropic gesture.

Germany Mobilizes Bees.

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Even the bees will wear a figurative swastika in Germany's four year drive for economic independence.

Mobilizing these busy workers, officials said today they planned to increase the bee population of the fatherland by 170,000 swarms a year and thus achieve during the period of the drive a 200,000 hundredweight increase in honey production.

Beekeepers, rabbit farmers, poultrymen and other farm producers were rallied at Essen recently to the importance of raising "at least one more" this year.

Chicken raisers were told it was possible to increase the average egg laying by German hens by 40 eggs annually. That would mean 400,000,000 more eggs on Germany's breakfast tables.

Mexico Orders Agents of Spanish Rebels to Leave

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Ramon Maria de Pujadas and Miguel Teus, ordered out of Mexico because of "illegal political activities" as diplomatic representatives of the Spanish insurgent junta, packed their bags tonight to leave tomorrow for Spain. Pujadas resigned as counsellor of the Spanish embassy here several months ago to become the Fascist insurgents' ambassador and Teus resigned as embassy secretary. The Italian minister, Count Alberto Marchetti di Murriagolio, gave an informal farewell dinner for Pujadas Saturday night.

ORDERS SOVIET INDUSTRY TO BE AMERICANIZED

Moscow Launches Drive on Burocracy, Waste.

MOSCOW, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The soviet union's highest industrial authority today demanded immediate reorganization of Russian industry according to American methods and standards to eradicate inefficiency and waste, officially admitted to exist here.

Gregory K. Orjonikidze, commissar for heavy industry, began a drive against burocracy in the factories by citing the report of a Russian mission just returned from the United States which found that 600 American workers produce what it takes 1,700 to make in Russia.

Decentralization of manufacturing also was recommended by the commissar in announcing an efficiency campaign which may have far-reaching effects on the admittedly wasteful production methods of the soviet union.

Three Bosses for Each Worker.

Orjonikidze's attack centered on the Kalinin machine tool factory in Moscow, where the government discovered there were three office workers, supervisors, or bosses for each skilled worker.

The mission to which Orjonikidze referred reported that whereas in the soviet union only 30 per cent of factory employés are engaged in productive labor, 75 per cent of those on American factory pay rolls are skilled workmen actually engaged in production.

Taking up the commissar's crusade, the newspaper Industrialization said that mere imitation of American industrial technique would not be sufficient. The soviets, the publication declared, must follow American methods of organization, cut down the useless burocratic overhead, the checking, rechecking, supervision, and inspection, all of which merely multiply the unit cost of production.

Fail to Learn Efficiency.

It was pointed out that the soviets have brought thousands of American engineers here in recent years to install machinery and teach the Russians how to run it, but they have neglected to learn American factory methods. Mission after mission has been sent to the United States to learn the secret of America's industrial efficiency.

But until now, said Industrialization, those missions foolish enough to speak frankly and point out that there were too many useless nonproducers and politicians in the soviet factories found their reports disregarded and themselves in trouble. This was because putting their recommendations would have resulted in dismissal of thousands of politically influential but unnecessary office workers.

DEATH OF BROTHER OF CHIANG HALTS ACTION ON CRISIS IN CHINA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 29.—[Tuesday.]—The death of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's only brother interrupted today the processes leading up to punishment of Chang Hsueh-liang, rebel marshal who held the virtual dictator of China captive at Sianfu, Shensi province, for thirteen days.

Gen. Chiang prepared to leave Nanking at once for Fenghua, Chekiang province, his birthplace, where his brother, Chiang Hsi-hou, died suddenly. Chiang Hsi-hou was 63, thirteen years older than Gen. Chiang, but was comparatively unimportant in national affairs.

That Gen. Chiang chose to leave Nanking indicated the crisis caused by his kidnapping is passing and that any action concerning the fate of the "young marshal," Chang, will be delayed a few days. Chiang has been receiving daily medical attention as the result of his experience at Siangfu.

Marshal Chang is still detained in the home of T. V. Soong, brother-in-law of Gen. Chiang, but it is now believed that since the dictator has recommended leniency for him, he will eventually get back to Sianfu in command of his troops.

AID OF HITLER TO "WATCH OVER" GERMAN SOULS

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—(AP)—German fundamentalists redoubled their vigilance today to see that Nazi subalterns obey Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's recent orders forbidding attacks on the Christian church and faith.

Ministers were alarmed by plans of Dr. Robert Ley, the reich's leader for the political organization of Nazidom, to become the "seelsorger"—literally soul caretaker—of the German people, as reported in the Berliner Tageblatt. The title heretofore has been reserved to clergymen.

Dr. Ley has issued orders to make his precinct captains spiritual mentors for their neighborhoods.

$200,000 ESTATE DIVIDED IN WILL OF FLORA LASKER

Nine Relatives to Share Personal Property.

Mrs. Flora Warner Lasker, wife of Albert D. Lasker, Chicago advertising man, left an estate, entirely in personal property, valued at more than $200,000. This was revealed yesterday when her will, dividing her property among nine relatives, was filed in the Lake county Probate court. It was admitted to probate by Judge Martin C. Decker. Mrs. Lasker died in New York City on Dec. 19, at the age of 56 years.

After specific bequests totaling $145,000, the residue is left in trust to Mr. Lasker, a wartime member of the United States shipping board who is president of the Lord & Thomas advertising agency.

The largest personal gift, of $50,000, is made to a brother, Louis E. Warner of Sacramento, Cal. Gifts of $10,000 each are made to two nieces, Suzanne and Frances Cohen of Buffalo, N. Y.

Five Given $5,000 Each.

Bequests of $5,000 each are made in the will to five relatives. These are: three sisters of Mr. Lasker, Florina and Loula Lasker and Mrs. Etta Rosensohn, all of New York; a brother-in-law, Julius Y. Cohen of Buffalo, and a sister-in-law, Henrietta E. Warner, 1209 Astor street.

Mystery surrounded a provision of the will that Mr. Lasker be given $50,000 of the estate "for certain purposes already agreed between us."

Mr. Lasker, as sole trustee of the estate under a personal bond of $600,000 which was approved yesterday, is to divide all his wife's personal effects among their three children. The children are: Frances, a senior at Vassar college; Edward of Greenwich, Conn., an official of the New York office of Lord & Thomas, and Mrs. Gerhard Foreman, 1255 North State parkway.

Mrs. Hillman Leaves $200,000.

The will of Mrs. Jennie S. Hillman, leaving an estate of more than $200,000 to an only child, Edward Hillman of the Blackstone hotel, was admitted to probate in the Cook county court yesterday. Mrs. Hillman was the widow of Edward Hillman, former department store owner who died in 1927. She died last Wednesday.

Another will admitted to probate was that of Fred Buchholz, a retired farmer who died on Oct. 26 at the age of 89. It leaves his $35,000 estate to five children: Rose, with whom he lived at 5817 Rice street; William of Douglas, Wyo.; Mrs. Emma Reider of Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Alvina Reth of Delhi, Ia., and Fred Buchholz of 2414 East 47th street.

An estate of $25,000 is divided among four relatives and the Fourth Presbyterian church by the will of Mrs. Sarah Leach Gray, widow of Andrew Gray, which was also admitted to probate. Mrs. Gray died on Oct. 18 at the age of 60 years.

File Claims on Stevens Estate.

Claims totaling $541,361 have been filed against the estate of James W. Stevens, former hotel and insurance executive, which was estimated at $200,000 when Mr. Stevens' will was admitted to probate on June 12. This was revealed yesterday when Probate Judge John F. O'Connell announced that he would hold a hearing on the claims on Jan. 11.

The largest of the claims is one for $244,076, made by the Reconstruction Finance corporation on a judgment assigned by the receiver of the Central Republic Trust company. Next in size is the $235,801 claim of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, allegedly due on Mr. Stevens' note for $590,000.

Other claims are: Department of internal revenue for additional income tax for 1930 and 1931, $42,368; Mr. Stevens' first wife, Jessie, unpaid alimony from March 1, 1933, until his death on May 14, 1936, $15,600; T. C. Fetrow, an insurance man, $250; Cities Service Oil company, $165, and Dr. James C. Gill, $100.

ROBBED OF $6,345 IN SUITE

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Son Gives Clew

Harold Shapiro, 23 years old, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Shapiro, were robbed of $345 and $6,000 in jewelry by two masked robbers in their apartment in the South Shore View hotel at 7100 South Shore drive yesterday, told Grand Crossing police last night of a possible suspect whom he had seen around the hotel.

The robbery was brazenly executed. The two gunmen went directly to the Shapiro apartment, and rapped on the door. Mr. Shapiro, who is president of the Allied Manufacturing company, was in bed. Mrs. Shapiro was up and dressed, and awaiting a friend to go on a shopping trip. Hearing the knock on the door, and thinking her friend was there, she opened the door.

The robbers strode into the living room, tied her to a chair, and then went into Mr. Shapiro's bedroom, and tied him to a couch. Young Shapiro was sleeping unnoticed in another room. The gunmen then made a systematic search of the apartment, and picked up all the money and jewelry in sight. Because the robbers were masked, police could not get accurate descriptions. During the day they questioned Donald Medlevine, 23 years old, of 1304 South Peoria street, but witnesses exonerated him.

Surving are his widow, the former Hope Whipple Northup; two children, John, and Jane, and his mother, Mrs. Frederick W. Peterson of Ann Arbor, Mich. Funeral services will be held at 2:45 p. m. tomorrow at the home.

STRANGER KILLED BY DETECTIVES IN GUN BATTLE

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 28.—(AP)—An unidentified man, 25 years old, was killed and two city detectives wounded in an exchange of shots here tonight.

The officers went to the scene in downtown St. Louis after receiving a call that a man resembling Claude McGee, escaped southeast Missouri murderer, had been seen in a tavern.

Detectives Troy Ferber and Charles Beckmann said they saw a man in an automobile at the curb. As Beckmann turned the handle of the car door and said "We're police officers," the man took a pistol from inside his overcoat and opened fire. The officers returned the shots and the man slumped over under the wheel.

Ferber and Beckmann were grazed with shots on the arms and legs, but their injuries were not serious.

A card bearing the name of Maurice Wolkomir, probation and parole officer, Milwaukee, Wis. [429 Commerce building], was found in the dead man's clothing.

A police examination disclosed the man's finger prints not to be of the same general classification of McGee's.

Also found in the man's pockets was a warrant for the sale of a used car from a St. Louis automobile company to "Larry Leland of Joliet, Ill." The car bore a Missouri license plate.

THOUSANDS PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO ARTHUR BRISBANE

Body Placed in Vault on New Jersey Estate.

Allaire, N. J., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Arthur Brisbane, noted journalist, was given the burial of a country squire today.

His body was placed in a vault on the highest knoll of his 5,000 acre estate. Watching the last rites from the six story tower on the hill were members of his family. Deer grazed on the big lawn below it.

In the tower, with its view of the deserted village of Allaire, which Brisbane restored to life as a Boy Scout camp, and with its sweep of the Manasquan river to the sea six miles eastward, the former editor once loved to study and write.

Few Visit Estate.

Although Brisbane traveled widely, the estate and its huge mansion had been his sanctuary in life. Few persons ever passed through the gates.

So, too, in death. Five automobiles accompanied the herse which brought the body from New York, and they carried their passengers away 25 minutes after they entered the estate. In them were pallbearers who included W. R. Hearst, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York, Walter Chrysler, Alfred Knudsen, Senator A. Harry Moore, and W. Warren Barbour, Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York, and others prominent in finance, business, politics, and journalism.

Services Are Simple.

The only other mourners at the burial were the family, a few old friends, and a dozen veteran servants. The Rev. Dr. C. W. Kidd of Lakewood read the Presbyterian committal service.

The public paid its tribute in New York, where more than 2,000 persons filled St. Bartholomew's church and as many more thronged Park avenue outside during the funeral earlier today. There was no euology as the Rev. G. P. T. Sargent conducted a simple service.

REVEAL $100,000 RICHES LEFT BY ATTIC RECLUSE

Hassett was once a professional baseball player. A number of baseballs were found in his room. Detectives assigned to investigate when a bank book showing deposits of $3,000 was found in Hasset's room, also found a key to a bank safe deposit box. Armed with an order from the public administrator, they opened the box and found ten bank books showing deposits aggregating $67,000.

Hassett's landlady said she never knew him to do anything except peddle fish from door to door on Thursday and Friday each week.

During his last illness, when he refused to go to the hospital, she told him, she said, that if he would give her the money she would buy a chicken and make him some soup. Hassett said that if she would buy the chicken and cook it he would pay her 10 cents a bowl for the soup.

RUSH FOR MARRIAGE LICENSES HERE SETS RECORD; BIRTHS FALL

Chicago's birth rate is smaller this year than in 1935, but officials say there are two good reasons to believe the city is not facing serious depopulation.

Issuance of marriage license No. 43,120 here yesterday to Warren J. Brown, 1112 Thomas street, and Miss Dorothy Smith, 22 years old, 705 Marion street, both of Oak Park, broke the all time record in Cook county for licenses issued in a single year.

Also, Dr. Herman Bundesen, president of the board of health, revealed that as an offset to the lower birth rate, the percentage of first born children among the birth returns was increasing. More than 46 per cent recorded this year fall into that class, although the total of all 1936 births will fall about 1,200 behind the 49,425 in 1935.

"It would seem that newly married couples are not hesitating to have children," Dr. Bundesen asserted. "The decline in the total would indicate, however, that possibly the economic stress of the past few years has decreased the size of the individual family."

L. KENNEDY, 55, N. Y. BANKER AND ENGINEER, DEAD

For the last ten years Kennedy was a business partner of William F. Carey, former president of Madison Square Garden corporation and now New York City's commissioner of sanitation.

Kennedy recently was associated with the stock brokerage house of Hayden Stone & Co. and was a director of Curtiss-Wright corporation, the Zonite corporation, and the Rye Trust company at Rye, N. Y., his home near New York City.

Trafic fatalities in the Chicago area during the Christmas holidays mounted to 26 yesterday with the death of Albert F. Kasper, 75 years old, 9732 South Hoyne avenue, a retired druggist. Injuries incurred on Sunday when he was struck by an automobile as he was crossing 95th street near Western avenue caused his death in the Little Company of Mary hospital.

Contractor Is Killed.

Henry C. Schramm, 62 years old, 2104 Grant street, Evanston, a plastering contractor, was killed as he was crossing Touhy avenue at the North Western railroad tracks in Lincolnwood when he was struck by a car driven by Jane Cobb, 16 year old school girl who lives at 9240 Keating avenue, Niles Center.

John J. Kenny, 42 years old, 7604 South May street, died in St. Luke's hospital from injuries incurred Saturday night when he was struck by the automobile of Bert Mason, 22 years old, 1319 Oak avenue, Evanston, at Michigan avenue and South Water street.

Mrs. H. S. Llewellyn, 74 years old, 208 West Harris avenue, La Grange, died in the Berwyn hospital of injuries received on Dec. 19 when she was struck by an automobile near her home.

Peter Pelczj, 41 years old, 6511 Komensky avenue, was fatally injured when he was struck by the automobile of Irving Rodman, 23 years old, 1412 South Kolin avenue, in front of 6410 Pulaski road. Police held Rodman for the inquest when witnesses said his car swerved out to pass another machine, swinging into the gravel fill between the street car tracks where Pelczj was walking.

Driver Held After Accident.

Fritz Stumps, 28 years old, 911 North Keeler avenue, whose car struck and killed an unidentified man at Dickson street and North avenue early Sunday, was booked by the Racine avenue police on charges of manslaughter, driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident. He will be arraigned in the Felony court today.

Edward Yunkers, 18 years old, 1612 South 8th avenue, Maywood, a student at the Riverside Military academy, was injured seriously when his automobile collided with a truck at North avenue and the River road, north of Melrose Park. He was taken to the Westlake hospital in Melrose Park.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 1,051 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 788 were killed in Chicago. In the same period 19,805 were injured in trafic accidents within the city.

JAIL 7 DRIVERS; MANY FINED IN BUSY COURT DAY

Judge Calls Attention to Tribune Warning.

Judge Charles S. Dougherty in Safety court yesterday sentenced seven automobile drivers to county jail for reckless or drunken driving. More than twenty others were fined on less serious trafic charges in a court call made unusually heavy by the Christmas holidays.

Ten day terms for driving while intoxicated were given to Howard Wyer, 45 years old, 819 East 41st street; Albert Dunn, 30 years old, 2355 West Lake street, and Alex Rosey, 34 years old, 5822 Calumet avenue, colored.

Three other drivers were sentenced for reckless driving. They are Arthur Williams, 30 years old, 211 East 44th street, colored, five days; Ernest Reuben, 34 years old, 3210 Indiana avenue, colored, two days, and Stanley Pasek, 27 years old, 1479 West Superior street, five days. Oscar Ringstad, 34 years old, 2016 North Albany avenue, was given three days for leaving the scene of an accident.

Both Judge Dougherty and Judge John Gutknecht in Trafic court called attention of offenders to the double page of photographs of trafic victims and the article, "The Massacre of 1936," in the graphic section of last Sunday's CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

In Trafic court eleven college students home for the holidays appeared for speeding. Judge Gutknecht instructed most of them to visit trafic victims at the county hospital and county morgue.

Among them was Edward Bacon, 16 years old, 446 Briar place, a student at Phillips Exeter academy. His case was continued so that his parents might appear in court.

The case of Bowen Blair, 18 years old, of Lake Bluff, son of William McCormick Blair, was set for today when he failed to appear.

POLICE TO CAUTION DRIVERS OF AUTOS WITHOUT LICENSES

A drive on motorists who do not have their city vehicle license stickers will be started Saturday, City Controller Robert B. Upham said yesterday. Friday [Jan. 1] is the legal deadline for purchase of the stickers.

"Police will be asked to stop motorists who do not have stickers and warn them that they must get the license immediately," Upham said. "I don't know yet whether or not we will order arrests on Saturday."

In Springfield Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes warned all Illinois motorists that there is no provision in the state law permitting extension of time for the purchase of state license plates beyond Jan. 1. City and state officials both reported that sales of motor licenses were lagging behind expectations.

SALINE COUNTY GIRL, 13, IS BEST IN SPELLING BEE

She Misses 12 Out of 200 Hardest.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Euline Dallas, 13, of Saline county today won the state spelling contest held in the state senate chamber. She spelled correctly 188 out of 200 words. Miss Dallas is an eighth grade pupil of Dallasania school, named after ancestors who were early settlers in Saline county. Her teacher is Ray B. Harris.

Barbara Zick of Ford county was second, spelling 183 words correctly. Eva Pellock of Macoupin county and Mary E. Mellott of Fulton county tied for third place and in the spell-off Miss Pellock won. The others finished in the order named: Irene Wenstrom, Knox county; Carol Getz, Tazewell county; Marie Dugas, Vermilion county, and Fay Hood, Perry county.

46 Start in Contest.

Forty-six girls and eleven boys participated in the contest. The winners received their wards this evening at a banquet given by the county superintendents who are attending the state teachers' meeting.

The twelve words missed by the winner were: Ascetic, exacerbate, hirsute, ostracize, virile, zeros, phenomena, timbrel, fiduciary, halcyon, knickknack, and harangue.

The first state dictionary contest, also held in advance of the meeting of the teachers' association, was participated in by 19 contestants.

Jean Boyle Wins First.

Jean Boyle, Saybrook school, McLean, won first honors. William Burrow, Ardmore school, Villa Park, was second; Harold Lee Martin, Franklin county, third; Nancy Jones, Sangamon county, fourth; Dorothy Wernex of Lincoln and Gerald Luse of Maywood tied for fifth place.

The contest was conducted by Elmer W. Cavins, Normal, Ill. It consisted of two forms, including seven distinct uses of the dictionary. These uses are: Definition, synonym, spelling, pronunciation, plurals, syllabification, and parts of speech.

DICTATOR METAXAS OF GREECE MAKES QUICK SHAKEUP OF CABINET

ATHENS, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Gen. John Metaxas, diminutive iron man of Greece, strengthened his firm hand over the country's destinies today with a quick cabinet shift.

He installed M. Mayakos as provisional minister of the interior, succeeding George Skylakakis. The official announcement said Skylakakis had resigned, but informed sources asserted it was undoubtedly at the dictator's request.

Despite the recent arrests of several politicians for an alleged attempt to overthrow his dictatorial régime of less than five months [since Aug. 4] under the restored monarchy, the general remained firmly in the saddle today.

Recently he ordered compulsory arbitration in all labor disputes, shortened hours, restrictions on capital leaving the country, and price fixing for certain commodities.

SUGAR TAX BILL IS PASSED IN CUBA OVER GOMEZ VETO

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The house of representatives today overrode by a vote of 115 to 13 former President Miguel Mariano Gomez's veto of the army's sugar tax bill, opposition to which cost him his office. The veto already had been overridden by the senate.

The measure provides all sugar manufactured in Cuba will be taxed 9 cents for each bag of 325 pounds and the revenue, estimated at $1,500,000 a year, will be used by the army to establish and maintain rural schools.

POLICEMAN'S SON GETS A YEAR TO LIFE AS ROBBER

Policeman Kerry Kamber of the Woodlawn station, who has an enviable record of twenty years on the police force, stood with bowed head yesterday as he heard Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley in Criminal court sentence his son, George, 20 years old, to serve one year to life in the penitentiary on a charge of robbery.

"Please be lenient with him," the father pleaded. "He is not to blame, there is something wrong with him mentally." The younger Kamber was first arraigned on Dec. 16 after he had been identified in several robberies here, but the case was continued until yesterday to permit a mental examination. Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, head of the county behavior clinic, reported the youth an unusually brilliant student but a dubious parole risk.

At the previous hearing Policeman Kamber termed his son incorrigible. He told how the youth had run away from home in 1934 and was sentenced to the Elmira, N. Y., reformatory for a robbery in Binghamton, N. Y. On Dec. 22, 1935, he was paroled to his father.

LITTLE CALUMET DREDGING BEGUN BY CREW OF WPA

Work was started yesterday on a $65,000 WPA project to dredge the Little Calumet river from the Indiana-Illinois state line to Indiana avenue, a distance of about four miles. There are similar projects in Indiana to increase the flow of the river.

In recent years progress has been made in eliminating sewage from the river. These efforts are being continued by the state, which sponsored the present project, and it is expected the stream will be clean by 1938.

About 75 men went to work on the project yesterday and this number will be increased to several hundred shortly, according to officials of the Works Progress administration. Machinery is being used for dredging, while the men level off the spoilage on the river banks by hand.

Rob Widow of Insurance Left by World War Hero

Mrs. Carie Johnson, 2134 North Harlem avenue, a widow, was robbed of $340 and $300 in postal savings certificates and a watch last night by two armed men at Neva avenue and Dickens street. The watch belonged to her son, killed in the world war, and the money represented insurance paid on his life by the government.

'Tired of Working for Kin'; Tries Suicide Third Time

Saved from her third attempt at suicide because she was tired of working "as a drudge" for relatives, Miss Elaine Pearson, 16 years old, 2206 North Maplewood avenue, was recovering last night in the County hospital from poison taken Sunday night. Miss Pearson said she took the poison after her uncle, Roy Pearson, with whom she lives, chased from the house a young man who called on her. Left an orphan at the age of 2 years, Miss Pearson said she had spent her life working for relatives.

Japan and Russia Sign Temporary Fishing Pact

MOSCOW, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Diplomatic representatives of Japan and Russia today signed a temporary, stop gap agreement to permit Japan to continue fishing in Siberian waters during 1937. The accord was completed after lengthy negotiations during which Japan sought extension of the fishing privileges for seven years. The existing agreement expires Dec. 31.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Less Feed 'Burned Up'

December 28, 1936.

CLARENCE THUROW, manager of THE TRIBUNE'S Yorkville Experimental farm where more than 200 beef cattle are being fattened for the market, says the steers require much less feed this winter than last.

"We have reason to believe that we are getting much more economic gains this winter than we did last because of the unusually mild fall and early winter weather," he said. "Last winter at this time our cattle were 'burning up' great quantities of feed to keep their bodies warm during the extreme cold weather.

"This year we have been able to keep some of our cattle out in the pastures and stalk fields much later than we did last year. This has given them a chance to do a thorough job of gleaning the stalk fields and to graze on the grass along the fence rows. Even our steers in the dry lots require less feed."

Blue Grays on Full Rations.

The six blue gray steers, produced by the ten pure bred Aberdeen-Angus cows crossed with a white Shorthorn bull, are now on full feed at the Yorkville farm. They are expected to be ready for market in about three months.

Manager Thurow estimates that the steers will average approximately 850 pounds. He expects them to weigh about 1,000 pounds each when they are sold as baby beeves.

The youngest of the six was born Christmas week a year ago. The oldest one was dropped Aug. 21, 1935. The five older steers are all about the same age and weigh approximately the same.

They were started on feed when quite young. As calves, long before they were weaned, they ran to creeps where they had access to ground oats and shelled corn. When they were weaned they "bellowed little for their mothers," because they already had become accustomed to a good growing ration and did not need milk.

Dry Lot Procedure.

Since weaning, the calves have been kept in a dry lot and not allowed to run on grass. For about two months after weaning they were kept on a growing ration and given plenty of alfalfa hay. Since then they have been getting mixed timothy and clover hay along with grain.

When the hay was changed from alfalfa to a mixture of timothy and clover, ground oats were taken out of the ration. At that time the allowance of corn was increased until each animal was given about 16 pounds daily. A liberal helping of corn sirup was poured over the crushed corn fed in a bunk or trough. The allowance of mixed hay was reduced to encourage the animals to eat more of the concentrated feeds.

About the first of December the corn and corn sirup were supplemented with two pounds of linseed oil meal provided for each steer daily. This ration of mixed hay, crushed corn, corn sirup and linseed oil meal will be continued until the steers are sold.

Wide Interest in Experiment.

From the time the blue gray beef animal test was started at the Yorkville farm in 1934 corn belt feeders have displayed an interest in the experiment. Many farmers make frequent visits to the farm to check up on the progress of the steers resulting from the Angus-Shorthorn cross which is popular among breeders in Europe.

FIX THAT COLD

And Fix It Right—Depend on No Mere Half-way Measures!

A cold neglected may be a cold regretted!

Many a "slight" cold has ended in flu and pneumonia.

A cold also calls for internal treatment, for a cold is an internal infection.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is what you want for a cold. First, it is a cold tablet, made expressly for the treatment of colds and nothing else.

Here's what it does:

First, it opens the bowels, an advisable step in treating a cold.

Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital step.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

These four effects make a real cold treatment and in Bromo Quinine you get them all in the form of a single tablet.

Bromo Quinine tablets now come sugar-coated as well as plain. The sugar-coated are exactly the same as the regular, except that the tablets are coated with sugar for palatability.

Be prudent, be careful! At the first signs of a cold, go right to your druggist for a package of Bromo Quinine. Begin taking the tablets immediately, two every four hours.

That prompt treatment will usually stop a cold in 24 hours and that's the speed of action you want.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. Get these famous cold tablets at any drug store, and insist upon getting what you ask for.

Hands Require Gracefulness This Season

Current Fashion Places Them in Limelight.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A little extra talking about hands these days is in order, since the party season is going to make you doubly uncomfortable if you don't look after your pretty digits. You just must, or you'll have to abandon the jingly Christmas gift bracelets, the rings and the polishes that arrest the eye. If you're going to use such measures to call attention to your hands then you owe your audience some reward for looking. As said before, there's no sense wasting time telling about manicure and nail protection needs, because you're perfectly familiar with all the answers.

But here is something you may not have noticed as I have who must turn a professionally watchful eye on what's going on. I notice how hands are being used. How much more American women, with nice hands, are adopting the foreign woman's way of talking with her hands, and how beautifully, too, our women are doing it. I don't know whether some of our women are slipping off and taking lessons in "Attitudes" [was not that what the Victorians called them?]. We'd call them gestures. But whether they're taking instructions or not it doesn't matter. Women's hands are talking with a charming grace in circles that I have frequented of late.

The other afternoon I had tea with a well known literary light whose hand gestures were expressively fine. Those lovely curved gestures, not overdone, are fascinating to watch. And it doesn't require a perfect hand for them either. In fact, an imperfect hand can be made a thing of beauty with the developed gesture grace, as expressed in one well known pair of stage hands whose own mother never could call them beautiful.

I'm just suggesting that you make a study, too, of that sort of thing in your own group. Or watch the women on the stage, or on the screen, where you see the slow motion so necessary to hand grace. Study how it is done. In the privacy of your own boudoir, try out hand graces. This is the expected hand presentation publicity, anyway. And you can acquire this hand grace just as expertly as you have managed the perfect nail color and the soft, smooth skin.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Hair treatments, whether the home effort or the professional type, should be a part of every woman's beauty routine. If scalp health is cared for every permanent will be successful and the hair itself will have life and luster.

Each year we hear more and louder laments from women about the state of their hair. It's always dry, with split ends, and permanents are not so successful as they used to be.

Flitting from one beauty shop to the other in search of a better permanent isn't the solution when hair has reached this state. Don't blame the beauty operator. Blame yourself—and the modern custom of indifference to hair care. The drab, brittle hair didn't get that way overnight; the condition is the cumulative effect of hasty shampoos, hasty dryings under extreme heat, and consistent lack of attention to scalp stimulation.

We must admit that more and more women are realizing the benefit of treatments that have no other purpose than to improve luster and scalp health—but the percentage is still 'way too small. Professional treatments that include brushing, massage, and whatever preparations are indicated, aren't so expensive as some women seem to fear. It's much better, really, to have needed treatments than a permanent if you must make a financial choice between the two.

And, of course, there are always home treatments. The greatest and simplest of these is brushing. It would be impossible to overemphasize the value of vigorous, regular brushings. The scalp is stimulated, the hair cleaned and polished. Women are unwilling to wield the brush because they believe it's hard on the carefully set waves; this is really an erroneous idea. Proper brushing actually enhances the beauty of the wave. And for hair that's of dull and uninteresting color, brushing that revives luster, bringing out all the high lights and undertones, is a thousand times better than risky experiments with tints.

Child Who Is Unhappy May Lie and Steal

Often Less Favored One in Family Group.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Several letters concerning little boys or girls who take money and objects not their own have come in recently. The following is typical of these:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: Yesterday my 7 year old daughter shocked me by taking a package of candy from a grocery store and later a small toy from the dime store. I have tried so hard to teach her to be truthful that it made me heartsick. We nearly always have candy in the house, and she frequently has money to spend, but no regular allowance. Do you think that would help?

"We also have a 3 year old girl whom every one seems to like and who receives a lot of attention. Our 7 year old seems to resent this.

"We recently moved here from another state and the latter has had to adjust herself to a new school and new friends, which may have something to do with the case.

"I made her return both the candy and toy, and the dime store manager and I talked to her about what is done to people who take things. And her daddy spanked her, the first real spanking he has ever given her. Last Saturday she took a dime from my purse and another time a nickel. She always says she 'finds' them; but after quite a talk Saturday she admitted taking it, and we reasoned with her and thought we had made some impression on her until this happened."

The little child who, while out marketing with his mother, walks off with some object that takes his fancy is not stealing. But the 7 year old does know the difference between mine and thine. When he takes something not his own there is a motive quite different from that of the small boy or girl who likes something he sees and calmly annexes it.

The 7 or 8 year old may long for something and just take it. But he or she may do this for a less direct reason as, for example, to make up to himself or herself for an imagined or a real lack of love or attention at home. A younger child who has lost the center of the stage, or who is more attractive and more noticed by relatives and friends may be a factor in the case. New home and school surroundings might also be a cause.

It is inevitable, almost, that lying and stealing be tied up together. Their causes are similar.

Prints Arrive for Distinctive Spring Clothes

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Now is the time to buy unusual prints, for the first showings are undeniably the best finds. The procrastinating shopper always looks in vain three months hence for the dazzling new things that are so plentiful now. Whether silk, cotton or linen, these current attractions are well worth buying now, to be made into smart, distinctive clothes early in spring.

Printed silks are breath-taking. The all-silks flaunt some irresistible designs—for instance, the 54 inch stuff, in black dull background with the now famous bowknot design in bright satin contrast spaced reasonably close all over the dull contrast, or the delightful tapestry effects, with beautiful yellows, madonna blues, flattering greens and dull raspberry reds against the dark background.

More and more clever fingers are sewing this year than ever before, printed silk dresses are simple of silhouette, need no trimming and fulfill the desire for something bright and colorful to revive a jaded winter wardrobe.

Likewise the newest yardage prints in linen or cotton, the best ring dot designs in white against the good greens and rare raspberry reds are now plentiful, but try and find them in a few months. Nautical designs are better then ever, with some brand new excitement in band borders this season that are so effective one wonders why they weren't thought of long ago.

Thin cool linens that make the smartest of summer daytime clothes are featured, and surprisingly new are a lot of gray tones and prints with gray backgrounds. A gray that is warm, soft and effective will be found in these first showings. The trick is to make yourself buy the stuff now. Veteran shoppers profit by experience. The best prints are in the first showings!

Warns Professors of School Hazard in Government Funds

Richmond, Va., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Dean M. M. Willey of the University of Minnesota told the twenty-third annual meeting of the American Association of University Professors today that the depression curtailed interest in studies leading to professional careers, but aroused greater enthusiasm for vocational and technical training in fields not greatly affected by economic conditions.

He warned that, as a result of federal expenditures for educational programs outside of colleges and universities, institutions of higher learning would find themselves competing with schools "of whose presence before the depression they were scarcely aware."

He also asserted the appropriation of federal and state funds to institutions of higher education "opened the way" for the exercise of political influence in the management of schools and "increasing pressure from various political agencies and groups who will seek to bend institutional purposes in some degree to their own ends."

Woman's Aid Party.

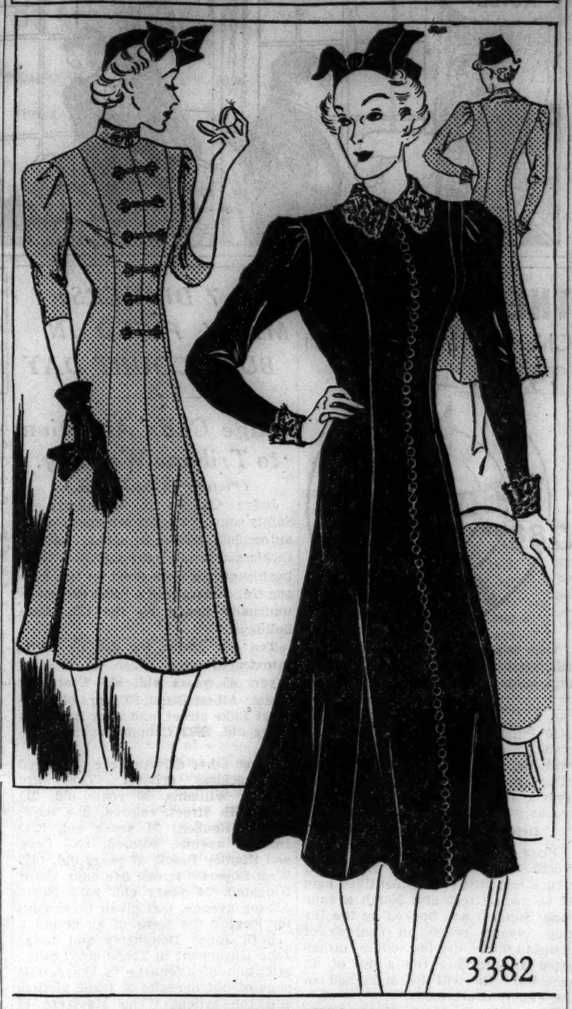
One Pattern for Two Frocks



WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

This one simple pattern creates two widely different frocks. Both have princess lines but there the similarity ends. At the left is a dress which goes deep into military tradition for its styling. The original is fashioned of dark green woolen, soft and pliable for the puffed sleeves and flaring skirt. The frogs are of gold braid. This is a divinely young dress, with a stand-up collar and a smart double breasted effect. Any soft woolen in either dark or bright shades will make up well, with the frogs in a contrasting or harmonizing shade.

The dainty dressy frock at the right is strictly a princess dress, its lines Victorian. The original is made of black velvet, always glamorous, always flattering. The buttons which run the entire length of the frock are covered with the velvet, and the collar and cuffs are of lace. The shoulders of this dress are puffed, too, and the body of the garment fits the figure like a glove, except below the hipline, where it flares gracefully.

Any of the novelty silks and rayons will be an excellent choice for either of these models, too.

Style No. 3382 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Libraries Find Public Turning to Nonfiction

Convention Here Hails Better Books.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The sharp increase in reading of nonfiction by library patrons together with the small increase and, in some cities, falling off in the demand for fiction has set librarians to talking at the midwinter conference of the American Library association in the Drake hotel. The convention ends tomorrow. Several hundred librarians from over the country are attending.

In thirty-one of the largest cities in the United States during a five year period ending in 1935, borrowing of nonfiction increased 21 per cent while the demand for fiction went up less than 1 per cent, according to association headquarters.

"Many of us librarians used to be guilty of intellectual snobbery, but that is definitly on the wane," said Ralph Ulveling, associate librarian of Detroit, one of five librarians interviewed to explain the change in reading tastes. "We have now learned to respect the intelligence of ordinary persons."

He finds that a better supply of nonfiction has caused library users to change their reading tastes. Publishers have recognized this widespread thirst for knowledge of science, philosophy, psychology, and history, he said, and recent books in these fields have had the popular approach without being cheap. An actual decrease in fiction circulation was recorded this year in Detroit, but circulation of books on biography, philosophy, and economics boomed.

"When you see a stenographer come in and ask for a Greek drama, you are bound to respect the taste of average persons," said Miss Ruth Hammond, librarian of Wichita, Kas. "Her grandmother probably went to bed shortly after twilight set in, after a day of toil. The stenographer may have had a long day, too, but she reads because she likes it."

"The depression sent a lot of new readers to us seeking vocational books or for an answer to economic and personal troubles," reported John Chancellor, assistant in adult education at the association headquarters here. "In general it made persons read more seriously."

Newspapers, the radio, and motion pictures are giving their patrons more informative and stimulating knowledge than formerly, said R. R. Munn, librarian with the TVA, at Norris, Tenn., as he waved a pipe to emphasize his point. "No newspaper reader could escape getting an eyeful about English history from reading about Wally. Allusions like this send many to histories for more knowledge."

Not only is more nonfiction being read, but the fiction which has a wide audience nowadays is better than best sellers of previous years, said Mr. Munn. Much fiction now popular is a "wonderful field for improving factual knowledge," he said, pointing out the historical accuracy of "Gone with the Wind."

Asked what they thought of that most popular fiction book of the year, Miss Hammond said hesitantly, "Well, I finished it."

"I didn't read it," said Mr. Chancellor, a note of pride creeping into his voice. "I don't believe you can get any one to say what he thought of it."

"I read parts of it, but not enough to say," hedged Mr. Ulveling.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Mme. Nazimova, the most eminent and active actress of Ibsen's dramas on the American stage during the last thirty years, brought to the Erlanger theater last night her interpretation of the Norse master's most detestable heroine—the quietly diabolical daughter of Gen. Gabler and bored bride of George Tesman, an insignificant scholar. If this play has ever perplexed you—and once upon a time it had a great vogue because Ibsen was regarded as too deep a thinker for the normal American mind—you need only to pay Mme. Nazimova a visit. You can learn all about Hedda from her, in spite of the fact that she is often hardly audible.

This performance is a penetrating and complete study of Hedda, revealing, in shadowy scenes, the heart, soul, and body of the woman whom Ibsen knew and undoubtedly hated. The characterization is simple of conception, as a masterpiece should be; it is not fluttery with neurotic byplay or cloudy with psychological theory. Nazimova has solved Ibsen's problem with the lucidity of a fine artist and rescued the old play from the pit of melodrama into which Eva Le Gallienne dropped it a few seasons ago.

The essence of Hedda's slinking deviltries is neurasthenia; therefore she is a loveless wife, a desperate anob, an erotic coward, an envious cat, a malign meddler in the destinies of others, an evil spirit for the unfortunate dipsomaniac, Eilert Lovborg. Therefore, also, she is bored, bored, bored. The chief symptom of neurasthenia marks every word she utters, even in her prurient flirtations with Judge Brack.

Nazimova does not seek to find any excuse for Hedda other than her nervous disease, which she reveals only by implication. She presents the character as a woman who hates herself, and whose listless malignity of soul can only end in suicide. That offstage shot of Gen. Gabler's pistol really makes a happy ending for the drama.

I would wish for more clarity of utterance, because Nazimova's speech, never completely naturalized, is here in its lightest, most mewing and whining manner. Her voice often sets a strange and difficult key for the other players, and some of the scenes are spoken in a curious tone of inaudible moaning, chirping, and whispering. I could ask, also, for more illumination, for I do not believe that the dark imaginings of Ibsen should be acted on a constantly dimmed stage. But I could not demand a Hedda Gabler more perfectly conceived and skilfully visualized.

Five Presented at Succession of Gay Parties

Debutantes to Get Rest from Dances Tonight.

Five young women were presented to society yesterday at a succession of gay parties from tea time until early this morning. Miss Barbara Bentley and Miss Rosemary Jane Sauer were introduced at a tea-dance given at the Blackstone by their parents, the Arthur Bentleys and Mrs. William Albert Sauer.

Early in the evening the debutantes and their escorts dined and danced at the Arts club as guests of Mrs. Frank J. Bersbach and Mrs. Allen M. Reed, who were presenting their daughters, Miss Joan Bersbach and Miss Nancy Reed, and later in the evening the Buckingham Chandlers gave a supper-dance at the Indian Hill club to introduce her daughter, Miss Celia Coit.

Miss Bentley and Miss Sauer presented a charming contrast as they received their guests, the former in blue taffeta embroidered in silver, and the latter in rose taffeta. Miss Bentley's gown was made with a square neck, short puffed sleeves and a bouffant skirt, and with it she wore a coronet of the same blue taffeta and carried tea roses.

The Arts club was lovely for the dinner-dance, with tall urns of white chrysanthemums set about the lounge and the small oval reception room, where Mrs. Reed and Mrs. Bersbach and the debutantes received. Miss Reed wore pale gold lamé fashioned on princess lines, and Miss Bersbach's gown was of pale blue moire with a full skirt and double shoulder straps. Both girls carried sweetheart roses.

For her party Miss Coit was charming in just-off-white net embroidered in iridescent sequins. Her shoulder corsage of green orchids matched her green slippers, and in her hair she wore a narrow wreath of gold leaves. Since there was not time for Miss Coit to attend the dinner-dance in town before receiving the first arrivals at her own party, Mrs. Chandler gave a dinner at home for her daughter.

It seems incredible that there could be an evening without a dinner-dance or a supper-dance in the heart of the Christmas holiday season, but that is true of tonight since Mr. and Mrs. Leeds Mitchell canceled their plans for a dinner-dance for Miss Margaret Mitchell.

The debutantes and their beaux have been attending parties at a merry clip for the last eight days so they ought to welcome an evening of quiet almost as much as their parents will welcome the opportunity to see their young people, especially those whose daughters and sons are away at college. The college-girl debutante does not see much of her family during her Christmas vacation, for as a rule she dances all night and sleeps all day, unless there is a luncheon or tea on the program.

Neither the Killian V. R. Nicols nor the Charles D. Freys have made plans to entertain following the teadances they are giving this afternoon to introduce their daughters, Miss Margery Ann Nicol and Miss Barbara Frey. And it is likely that Mr. and Mrs. Nicol and Mr. and Mrs. Frey are receiving a silent vote of thanks from the mothers and fathers of their daughters' contemporaries who thereby will have their children at home tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicol and their daughter will receive between 4 and 7 o'clock at the Fortnightly, and Mr. and Mrs. Frey and Miss Barbara will receive at the same hours at the Casino. Miss Frey, who studied at the Girls' Latin school and the Ethel Walker school before entering Sarah Lawrence college, has invited nine friends to assist her.

Miss Nicol attended Miss Weaver's school in Andrebrook, N. Y. Her brother, Hunter Nicol, is at home from his business in Canada for the holidays.

Miss Valerie Harris is giving a luncheon at home today for five debutantes, Miss Nancy Freund, Miss Caryl Nicolson, Miss Jean McWilliams, Miss Jean Kellogg and Miss Lily Fleming. Miss Nancy Bastien is giving a dinner and theater party tonight for Miss Mary Lyon.

Front Views and Profiles

A CHICAGOAN, a Lake Shore drive resident and hotel executive, owns some shirts on which the little pearl buttons once fastened gloves about the wrists of the queen of England. She wasn't queen of England when she wore the gloves—she was the duchess of York—and it happened like this: The Chicagoan and his wife went abroad and a personal maid was engaged in England to look after the wife, who had been in ill health. The maid's name was Leek, and she was on vacation from her regular job, which was wardrobe mistress to the duchess of York. Leek's idea of a vacation was to travel on the continent with an American lady. She brought her work basket and button box along with her, and in the button box were a quantity of pearl buttons saved from her majesty's—then her grace's—gloves. Leek explained that when her grace discarded gloves she always carefully buttoned the pair together, then Leek would cut off the buttons for her work basket. When the Chicagoan needed some buttons on his shirts Leek got out the button box and fixed him up with the queen's buttons.

IF you're still interested in those swans domiciled in the Rosehill cemetery ponds don't worry when it freezes again, for the swans are left out all winter by intent, not through neglect. One winter when the birds were housed during the cold weather eight of them drooped and died. There are five of them now and commuters on the Chicago and North Western will have to get used to seeing them sitting in the frozen cemetery lakes when the thermometer drops. Cemetery attendants keep a spot clear of ice for them to feed and drink.

DON'T use big words. . . . "In promulgating your esoteric cogitations, or articulating your superficial sentimentalities and amicable, philosophical, or psychological observations, beware of platitudinous ponderosity. Let your conversations and communications possess a clarified conciseness, a compact comprehensibleness, coalescent consistency, and a concatenated cogency. Eschew all conglomerations of flatulent garrulity, jejune babblement, and asinine affectations. Let your extemporaneous descantings and unpremeditated expatiations have intelligibility and veracious vivacity, without rodomontade or thrasonical bombast. Sedulously avoid all polysyllabic profundity, pomous prolixity, setaceous vacuity, ventriloquial verbosity, and grandiloquent vapidity. Shun double entendres, prurient jocosity, and pestiferous profanity, obscurant or apparent.

"In other words, talk plainly, briefly, naturally, sensibly, truthfully, purely. Don't use slang; don't put on airs; say what you mean; mean what you say, and avoid big words."

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

A Christmas tree wouldn't be much without its glittery tinsel and the holidays would be dull indeed without something sparkly and lightweight in the way of movie entertainment. "College Holiday" is just the sort of frivolous amusement the excitement-jaded film fan craves at the moment.

And will it go over big with the young folks!

It will!

The plot is a gay jangle.

A resort hotel is on its uppers. Business has been terrible and the owner—about to have his mortgage foreclosed—has nervous prostration.

His daughter, who, when the picture opens is discovered in the dewy dawn of a romance with a handsome fellow whom she dances with at a college party, but whose name she doesn't know, is summoned from the dance to Dad's bedside. . . .

She finds things at sixes and sevens and toppling into eights. And it seems that all the blame is being laid at the door of the hotel manager [Mr. Benny], whose bright ideas for making the place go have, one by one, proved N. G.

Now the lady who holds the mortgage is a nut. [Miss Boland]. She's forever enthusiastically taking up with some new ism or other. . . .

At this period she's floating around the country in flowing Greek garments as the disciple of a tiny professor, similarly garbed, whose fad is eugenics. Assisted by his cracked daughter [Gracie Allen] he endeavors to involve in matrimony those who should marry whether they want to or not. . . .

Long and short of it is, the lady and the professor are bamboozled by Mr. Benny into bringing handsome college students from colleges all over the country to the hotel for the purpose [they are told] of pairing them off eugenically. Real idea is to stage a new kind of entertainment which shall bring paying guests flocking to the hostelry. . . .

The students come. And great fun for the observer ensues. . . . The piece has many highly original and mirth provoking situations. At the moment I'm chuckling to myself over Gracie's chariot race. . . .

Gay dialog, delightful music, stunning ensembles now become the order of the play. . . .

The cast is alive with handsome young people who know their stuff. Mr. Benny, Miss Boland, Gracie Allen and George Burns are vastly entertaining as the comics. Eleanor Whitney and Johnny Downs present some swell dancing.

Zip is its middle name, and I recommend "College Holiday" to you for that tired feeling.

See you tomorrow.

Movie Photog Avers Legs Are Character Key

Two million legs, Bull estimates, have passed before his camera in the 12 years he has been portrait photographer at the major film studio.

From this wealth of experience he has picked up hints for judging feminine nature. They include:

Apollo Chorus Sings 'Messiah' for 80th Time

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Apollo Musical club, one of the oldest and most distinguished organizations of its kind in the country, crowded the stage of Orchestra hall last night for its annual performance of Handel's "Messiah." Besides the chorus, 250 strong, there were a sizable portion of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, the four soloists, and Robert Birch, organist. Edgar Nelson conducted.

Although this was its eightieth performance of the Handel masterwork in Chicago, the Apollo Musical club's approach to the deathless music still combines the reverence and the enthusiasm necessary to really good choral singing. One might easily object to certain features of the performance—its overcautious tempi, for instance, or those miscalculations in ensemble which occasionally permitted organ and orchestra to overwhelm the singers—but the basic qualities were all there.

These basic qualities, briefly, are precision of attack, solid beauty of tone, intelligent phrasing, and dynamic variety. The Apollo Musical club of today is a credit to Mr. Nelson, who succeeded to the place held by a long line of notable conductors and managed to preserve their ideals without submerging his own personality.

Of the soloists, Kathryn Witwer, soprano, and Mark Love, bass, are well known Chicago professional singers. Georgia Graves, contralto, and Theo Karle, tenor, came here from New York. Mr. Karle last sang with the Apollo Musical club twenty years ago.

The soloists approached the problems of oratorio singing each in his different way. Miss Witwer and Mr. Karle sing simply, allowing the music to make its own effect. Miss Graves and Mr. Love emphasized its dramatic values. Personally, I think that the former style is better in dealing with music of the Handel type, but would be hard put to it to muster reasons in support of what is, after all, an individual preference.

The Chicago park district groups and the Roosevelt High school symphonic chorus will sing Christmas carols beginning at 8 tonight on the Congress street plaza under the direction of Beecher Burton. The public is invited not only to attend but to join in the singing.

It's rather hard to keep little ones 3 and 4 years old from sitting on the floor. —Mrs. R. M."

Mrs. Townsend Opens Another Series of Musical Mornings

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—All ranks of official, diplomatic and resident social circles were represented in the large audience which attended this morning the opening concert given this season by Mrs. Lawrence Townsend at the Mayflower hotel.

Mme. de Laboulaye, wife of the French ambassador; Mme. Troyanovsky, wife of the ambassador of the U. S. S. R., and Mrs. Robert Violette were entertained in Mrs. Roosevelt's box by Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, her daughter-in law.

At this, her ninety, first musical morning, Mrs. Towsend presented Mme. Enid Zantho, contralto of the Vienna State opera, and John Charles Thomas, baritone of the Metropolitan.

A surprise addition to the program was given by Mr. Thomas, who returned after his last group of songs to give the audience a message from Miss Anna Case [Mrs. Clarence Mackay], and to sing by way of finale her song "Irish eyes of blue," composed as a birthday gift to her husband."

The Man on the Blue

[Copyright: 1936: By Luke Short.]

SYNOPSIS.

Shamrock Ireland wanted for shooting a town marshal in self-defense over a card game, reaches Arizona on his Blue, and saves the life of Sherif Lobell, who is about to be shot by a girl, Nancy Hyatt. The Hyatts—Nancy and her brother, Mayo—have lost their ranch, the Double Diamond, to the bank. Mayo has threatened to kill any man who serves him with a dispossess. Because Shamrock believes it was Mayo who betrayed the man who brought him up, he accepts the dangerous task of serving the papers. He confronts Mayo at his ranch and learns he has misjudged him, but Nancy scorns him. She tried to kill Lobell to save her brother, paroled on good behavior, from killing him. Shamrock bullies Lobell in appointing him deputy sheriff. He convinces the Hyatts he is with them, and persuades Mayo to leave the ranch with Nancy and Matt, the foreman, till they can investigate. Shamrock rescues Maginnis, a young stable boy, wanted, according to Lobell, across the border as a killer. The lad tells Shamrock that Lobell had conspired to have his father lynched because of a gold claim he'd found that Lobell was after. Shamrock sends the lad to Mayo's hiding place, then goes to call on the banker, Gillespie, for further information and finds him killed. Lobell has planted Hyatt's keys in the bank's vault. A posse is formed to capture Mayo as the banker's murderer. Shamrock gallops off to warn Mayo. He sends Mayo and Maginnis off and, not trusing Lobell, hides behind a boulder till the posse leave, ready to protect Nancy if necessary. Then he overtakes Mayo and Maginnis. Shamrock and Mayo piece together Lobell's villainy. Lobell wanted the ranch for water power to work the gold. Gillespie had double-crossed Lobell so Lobell murdered him. Shamrock trails two of Lobell's men.

INSTALMENT XXXVIII.

CAPTURED.

There, just down the slope is a small rincon formed by wind erosion where a lower ridge joined the hogsback at right angles, were Freed and his companion—dismounted. They were squatting together, a map laid on the ground before them. Harmer was the other man.

Shamrock smiled a little, but made no move. Freed was gesturing and arguing, when abruptly he pointed in Shamrock's direction. Harmer seemed to agree, and they rose. Harmer kept the map, while Freed turned, faced Shamrock and started walking as if counting his steps.

He was coming up the slope, headed so as to miss Shamrock by only ten feet. Shamrock drew his guns and hunkered lower behind the sagebrush.

Freed slogged up the hill head down, reached the hump and crossed it. Still he had not looked up and had not seen Shamrock a dozen feet away, nor Blue.

"The whippoorwill twins," he jeered quietly.

noise jerked Freed out of it with a start, and he looked over into the barrel of Shamrock's gun.

"Don't yell," Shamrock said softly. "Don't move either."

"Call him," Shamrock ordered.

"Harmer," Freed called. "Come here."

"Better unload," he told Freed, and Freed obediently chucked out his guns onto the rock.

Stepping out of the sagebrush, Shamrock holstered one gun, and keeping Harmer between himself and Freed, he walked over and flipped Harmer's guns out on the ground and kicked them away.

"The whippoorwill twins," he jeered quietly. "Step over here," Shamrock ordered Freed. Then he searched him and found a knife which he threw down with Freed's guns. A search of Harmer revealed nothing.

"Now let's go down and make medicine," Shamrock said.

"Where?"

"To the map. Isn't that it down there all spread out with rocks weightin' it down—or is that an oilcloth you aimed to eat on?"

Reluctantly Freed and Harmer went back down the hill. Shamrock first backed them against the wall of the rincon away from both the map and their horses.

"Now just turn around and look at the rock," he said grimly. "I'll be busy for a minute."

He walked over to the map, his glance on them both, then squatted and let his gaze fall to the map.

It was a blank piece of paper!

"Just get busy but don't move!" a voice commanded Shamrock from behind. Lobell's!

For a second he paused, cursing himself for falling into this simple trap, wondering if he could fight it out.

Freed and Harmer had turned around now and grinning they watched him.

It was hopeless. Before he could move Lobell would send a slug into his back. His face was hard and still as he flipped his guns to the ground.

Freed and Harmer pounced on them while Shamrock rose and turned. Lobell moved lazily down to Shamrock now, levering all the shells from his gun and tossing it aside. His walk was slow, stately, marred only by his gestures of reaching in his pocket for a peppermint drop, and slipping it in his mouth.

"That was good, boys," he said to Freed and Harmer, like a father meting out sober praise to his sons. "Mighty good. I almost believed it myself."

And now he regarded Shamrock with quiet curiosity. "You're a good head," he said slowly. "Trouble with you is you never give other jaspers credit for havin' the sense you got."

"They don't have," Shamrock said flatly.

The sherif smiled tolerantly. "Reckon you got the head to get out of this?"

"I'll get out," Shamrock said.

Deliberately Lobell drew a Colt and held it loosely in his hand. "Not unless you can dodge this slug."

"You won't shoot," Shamrock said. "Some one might hear it."

"That's right, too," Lobell said, holstering his gun. "You see, I got the sense to listen to other people. If you was to live twenty years longer, you might."

"I will," Shamrock said arrogantly.

Shamrock's lip lifted in a sneer.

"That's right," Lobell said. "Get salty. I like 'em that way."

"Just what did you think you'd find here on this paper?" the sherif asked casually. "What was you lookin' for?"

"A recipe for fruit cake," Shamrock answered.

Lobell walked slowly over to him and faced him. "Sonny, it's about time you got the edge took off you. Answer my questions."

Shamrock lighted his cigaret.

"Where's Maginnis and Hyatt?"

"You're huntin' 'em," Shamrock said.

"That roan came in," the sherif said amiably. "I found the two bodies. Maginnis was likely with Hyatt when we missed them up in the Notch. Where are they?"

"Didn't I tell you once I didn't like that face?" Lobell asked softly.

Skating Show Will Be Held at Winter Club

plans are being made daily for still more parties. A large group of post-debs and young married people, especially those who divide the seasons between Chicago and Lake Forest, have been invited to an apple toddy party at 1521 State parkway on New Year's day from 4 until 7 o'clock.

The party will be given by Philip S. Dalton Jr., Andrew Cooke, William C. Parke, Burke Williamson, Charles Newhall and Charles Bloomfield—all bachelors—who occupy the former home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Loring Reed. The Reeds are living in Dedham, Mass. In the summertime the bachelors usually take a house in Lake Forest.

Miss Sally Reed, daughter of the Reeds, has been spending the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. William J. Stenson of State parkway. Miss Reed will return home New Year's day. She is staying over for the Junior Assembly on New Year's eve.

Miss Reed, and the Stenson's older daughters, Miss Catherine, a student at Noroton-on-the-Sound, Conn., and Miss Elizabeth, who goes to the Girls' Latin school, are having a whirl at the subdebutante affairs. Last night they danced at the Saddle and Cycle club's annual young people's party, and tonight they will go to the Glen View club for a dinner and winter sports party at which Miss Meredith Manning, daughter of the Lucius B. Mannings, will be the hostess.

Tomorrow night the Stensons will give a dancing party at the Drake for Miss Reed and Miss Catherine and some of their former classmates at the Girls' Latin.

New Year's Luncheon at Chicago Club.

The Chicago club has sent out cards for its 67th annual New Year's day luncheon, a gay party when the members all eat in the dining room instead of in the club rooms.

Also out are the cards for the University club's New Year's day at home from 3 until 6 o'clock. The club serves a special punch on the occasion.

The Edward Arpees have issued cards to a housewarming on Saturday from 4 until 7 o'clock in their home at 442 East Illinois road, Lake Forest.

Miss Emily Larned, Mrs. Ralph T. Winston, and Miss Alice Gerstenberg are among those who will entertain large groups of guests at a luncheon of the American Opera society today at the Arts club. Henry Purmont Eames, the composer, will speak on "Adventures in Music in Japan and China."

Preceding the luncheon "White Enchantment," an operatic song cycle with music by Charles Wakefield Cadman, will be presented.

The speaker at the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations meeting today will be Bertil Ohlin, who will speak on "Sweden Emerges from the Depression." The luncheon will be held at the Palmer house. Mr. Ohlin is an internationally known economist. He recently returned from a visit to Sweden.

Wells college alumnae and students at home for the holidays will gather at a holiday tea the Wells club will give this afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock at Miss Honor Merrell's apartment, 20, Lake Shore drive.

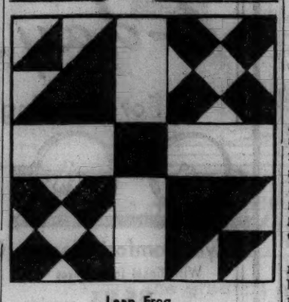
'Leap Frog' Quilt Is Design of a Colonial Settler



Leap Frog.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents. stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Ranking among the oldest of the old-fashioned pieced quilts is "Leap Frog," which was designed by one of the early colonial settlers, who combined two patterns and called it "leaf frog." As it became popular and grew older the original name was changed, so that it now is the title of a popular game preferred by young boys. The block is average in size, measuring 12¼ inches square, and is pieced in a combination of printed and plain materials. The entire quilt is composed of pieced blocks set together to form a charming and unusual all-over pattern.

Shrimps Are Mainstay of Clever Dishes

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1936: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The difference between the little gray green shrimp and the little pink shrimp which sit side by side in the market is this: The little pink shrimp has had a hot water bath. Before that he was a little gray green shrimp. In other words, the gray green shrimp is raw, the pink one has been cooked.

Fresh shrimp bought in bulk at the market or those which come tumbling from cans, wet or dry pack, may be included in dozens of food combinations. The intestinal vein should be removed from the back of each shrimp, and it's a good idea to wash them in cold water before they are tucked into the green pepper case or deep fat fried in a coating of eggs and crumbs.

Raw or cooked green peppers have an affinity for shrimps. Fresh cooked or canned shrimps which have been chilled in a highly seasoned cocktail sauce of mayonnaise, catsup, and chili sauce may be filled into chilled green pepper cases for service as a cocktail, or they may be baked in the pepper shell according to the following recipe.

Shrimp Stuffed Peppers

6 green peppers
1 can shrimps
1 tablespoon butter
¼ teaspoon minced onion
½ cup chopped canned mushrooms
2 tablespoons chopped fresh tomato
½ teaspoon minced parsley
1 cup soft bread crums
Salt, pepper

Cut off the tops of the peppers and remove the seeds. Precook them for 5 minutes in boiling water. Melt the butter and cook the onion and chopped pepper tops in it until tender. Add mushrooms, tomato, shrimps, and parsley and allow to heat through. Add bread crums, salt and pepper, and fill mixture into pepper cases. Place a small piece of butter in top of each. Place the peppers in a casserole dish with a little water in the bottom and bake at 400 degrees for about 10 minutes.

Curried Shrimps with Spaghetti

3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
Salt, pepper
1 can shrimps
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1½ teaspoons curry powder
Cooked or canned spaghetti

Melt the butter, blend in the flour and add the milk gradually, stirring to make a smooth white sauce. Add seasonings and shrimps and, when shrimps are heated through, add lemon juice, parsley, and curry powder. Place hot spaghetti on a platter, press an indentation in the middle and pour the shrimps over the spaghetti. Sprinkle paprika over the top and serve piping hot.

Shrimps Louisiana.

2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon chopped onion
⅔ cup cooked or canned shrimps, flaked
⅔ cup hot, boiled rice
⅔ cup heavy cream
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon celery salt
3 tablespoons catsup
Sprinkling of cayenne pepper

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

[Copyright: 1936: By Ely Culbertson.]

PARTNER'S COUNT OF LENGTH.

When the opening hand reverses at a higher level, partner usually can expect that the first bid suit is the longer. A reverse in the same round does not necessarily indicate that the first suit is longer. The suits may be of equal length.

South	North	South	North
1 club	1 heart or 1 spade	1 club or 1 heart	1 diamond 1 spade
2 hearts		2 diam'ds

South	North	South	North
1 heart	2 clubs or 2 spades	1 diam'd 1 spade	1 heart

Souths first suit is longer than his second suit unless the second suit is an unbiddable five card suit. [With ♠76532 ♥AQ ♦AK75 ♣AQ bid one diamond; over any response rebid in spades.]

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 spades	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 spades	Pass	5 spades	Pass
6 spades	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

The bidding was good, I think. North was correct in giving a slam try over his partner's rebid of spades; he already had shown the lack of one-plus honor trick, and correctly figured that his five trumps and singleton club might be slam material. West's double was not good, despite his profusion of honors. A player rarely is justified in doubling a slam bid by good opponents unless he holds at least one certain trump trick in addition to an almost certain outside trick.

West opened the heart king. Declarer won with the ace and took out the adverse trumps in two leads. Then, when a certain line of play figuratively should have "hit him in the eye," offering as it did both simplicity and certainty, he proceeded to wreck the contract.

He cashed the ace and king of clubs, discarding one of dummy's diamonds [as though one discard would do him any good!], then ruffed a club in dummy. Then, probably with a silent prayer, he tried the diamond finesse. Not unnaturally, considering West's penalty double, the finesse lost, and he still had to lose another diamond trick, thus going down to ignominious defeat.

One moment's thought should have pointed out the proper line of attack. After drawing two rounds of spades, declarer should lead a low club toward dummy's ten. It would not matter a tinker's dam whether West put up the queen or ducked. If the former, declarer could discard three of dummy's diamonds on the ace-king-jack of clubs, then ruff the two possible losers in diamonds in the dummy. If West did not put up the queen, obviously the ten would hold, and two of dummy's diamonds could be discarded on the ace and king.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Opponent on my right bid one club. I doubled with: ♠QJ10x ♥Axx ♦Axxx ♣Qx. What should be my partner's correct response with: ♠xxx ♥xxx ♦xxx ♣Jxxx?

Answer: You should not have doubled one club for a take-out. Your holding waranted no more than a one spade overcall. Since you did double, your partner's proper response was one diamond—the cheapest possible bid.

John Smithies to Wed Cuban Girl Tonight

In the romantic setting of a Cuban garden this evening John Tattersall Smithies will take as his bride Miss Gladys Fernandez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Fernandez y Casas of New York and Havana. The ceremony will take place at the fashionable Cuban hour of 9:30 o'clock in the garden of the Fernandez home in Havana.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank Smithies are in Havana for their son's wedding, and so are Thomas Holliday Smithies, who will be his brother's best man, and Miss Katharine Smithies, who will be one of the five attendants of her future sister-in-law. Arthur M. Wood of Highland Park is one of Mr. Smithies' five ushers.

There will be a civil ceremony this morning, and in the evening ceremony, according to Cuban custom, Mrs. Smithies will act as godmother to the bridegroom, and Mr. Fernandez as godfather to the bride.

After a honeymoon of several weeks on the Fernandez plantation in the mountainous region of the island near Santiago Mr. Smithies and his bride will live in Philadelphia.

The wedding of Miss Emilie Dreyfus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dreyfus, to Charles F. Haas, son of Mrs. William D. Saltiel of 73 East Elm street, will take place this evening at the Dreyfus home in Boston.

Only the families and a few friends will be present at the ceremony, and the dinner following.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Listen to This!

That's more than a suggestion; it's the title of the first sponsored show to be broadcast over the Mutual system tonight when it expands to transcontinental proportions. A gala four and one-half hour salute is planned from 9 p. m. to 1:30 a. m. tonight welcoming the Don Lee network of California and other stations which are joining the Mutual system to form the third coast to coast network.

But prior to that—at 7:30—the sponsors of Listen to This will put on their regular Tuesday evening session with the famous Burlington Liars club of Burlington, Wis., foregathering to select the year's champion prevaricator and announcing the choice over the air. Actually they will do more than that. They are bringing down a couple of carloads of actors of the Burlington Hayloft Dramatic society to put on the four biggest whoppers submitted to the club. Then O. C. Hulett, president of the club; Kib Karcher, vice president, and Laurie Stang, secretary, will pick the champion.

The winner gets a diamond studded medal . . . well then, an engraved certificate. And that, as Alexander McQueen, another WGN broadcaster, would say, is "nothing but the truth!"

Anning Prall, chairman of the federal communications commission, will read a message of congratulation from President Roosevelt shortly after 9 o'clock. W. E. Macfarlane, president of the Mutual network, and Alfred McCosker, chairman of the board, will welcome the incoming stations to the Mutual network. George M. Cohan is to be master of ceremonies for the gala program. [Details may be found in the adjoining program listings.]

Mutual will broadcast the opening of congress on Tuesday, Jan. 5; also the inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt for his second term as President on Wednesday, Jan. 20.

Eddie Cantor is offering a reward of $1,000 for information leading to the return of Oscar, the trained flea, that disappeared on his broadcast Sunday evening. Cantor will decide himself whether any flea located is Oscar . . . Bernice Claire, noted radio soprano, is busy these days, denying that there's a romance between her and Dick Merrill, the flyer. But she spent a lot of time at the hospital where he is recovering from his crackup . . . Paul Whiteman, "the dean of modern music," will conduct the General Motors Symphony orchestra next Sunday night in a program in striking contrast with its usual classical offerings. All the music will be contemporary American compositions, including the première presentation of Adolph Deutsch's "Kilties a-Whirl" and Rodgers and Hart's "All Points West."

Lon Breese's orchestra and Jimmy Garnett's band will provide the music at the new Casino Parisien opening tonight with broadcasts over WMAQ at 10:15 and WENR at 11:30.

From a letter from Fred Allen: "The racing season has opened in California. Fathers who didn't get cleaned out playing Santa Claus will lose what's left playing Santa Anita."

$200,000 LOVE SUIT INCLUDED IN DIVORCE BILL

Wife Says Rich Widow Took Husband.

Mrs. Alberdina J. Edghill filed a Superior court divorce suit yesterday charging that her husband, Fred A. Edghill, deserted her for his wealthy widowed employer.

In her divorce bill Mrs. Edghill, who is 41 years old and lives at 707 North Lotus avenue, incorporated a $200,000 alienation of affections suit against her husband's employer, Mrs. Lucy Rayner, 43 years old, 204 South Maple avenue, Oak Park. Mr. Edghill is also 43 years old. He lives in the Guyon hotel.

Uses Both Old and New Law.

Although a new law passed last year prohibits identifying co-respondents by name in the original divorce bills, Mrs. Rayner is named in Mrs. Edghill's suit, on the ground that alleged acts of misconduct took place before passage of the law.

The alienation suit is combined with the divorce action under the new civil practice act, which permits the joining of two related issues in the same suit, according to Attorney John J. Gorman, who filed the joint action.

Edghill, according to the suit, is manager of the Rayner Decalcomania company at 2106 Lake street, at a salary of $100 or more a week. Mrs. Rayner is described as the principal stockholder in this and five other companies for which she receives "vast sums in salary, earnings, and dividends."

22 Years of Married Life.

Mrs. Edghill's bill says she and her husband were married in 1911, and lived together until three years ago.

Since she and Edghill separated, the wife charges, her husband and Mrs. Rayner, who is the mother of two children, have traveled together in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Tennessee, New York, Kentucky, and California.

Two of the other companies of which Mrs. Rayner is alleged to be chief owner are the Rayner Lithographing company and the Rayner-Dahlheim Music company of 2100 Lake street. She is also part owner of the Durochrome company in Los Angeles, and of other companies in San Francisco and in New York state, according to the suit.

Mrs. Edghill asks a court division of the property owned by her and her husband, including their $10,000 home at the Lotus avenue address and their jointly held personal property of $5,800.

Mrs. Rayner is the widow of Arno P. Rayner, who shot himself to death in the Rayner-Dahlheim plant in 1932. Ill health was given as the motive for his suicide.

BELIEVES VILLA AT NICE SOLD TO DUKE OF WINDSOR

New York, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Sylvia Curtis, former wife of Alex Steinert, wealthy Boston Piano manufacturer, said tonight she had sold her Riviera villa to an unidentified American she believes bought it for the Duke of Windsor, former king of England.

She said sale of the estate, situated between Monte Carlo and Nice, was handled by a Nice real estate firm and that there were three bidders, one of whom she was "quite sure" was the former king, and another of whom acted for him.

Mrs. Curtis declined to disclose the price paid for the place and said her Paris attorneys had not told her the name of the American purchaser. The sale was completed Dec. 19.

She described the estate as comprising about four acres at St. Jean, Cap Ferrat, Alpes Maritimes, with an extensive beach, several tennis courts, hot houses and garages, with a main house in Italian architecture containing more than 30 rooms.

Britons Keep Up Hunt for Real Cause of King's Abdication

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 28.—The deep causes behind the abdication of King Edward VIII. of England are likely to be disclosed in full candor only by history.

Many explanations are given, and various Laborites, such as peppery Ellen Wilkinson, a member of parliament, are already pointing out that Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's explanation of the abdication and the versions to be heard in the lobbies of the house of commons differ as widely as black and white.

"Conspiracy of Silence."

One theory is that the conspiracy of silence in England's press was a Machiavellian and far sighted plot to lull the king to security over his affair with Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson until he was drawn into it so far and committed so deeply that he could not prevail and would be certain to be crushed when, all at once, the publicity was unloosed on him.

This theory, however, tends to break down on the fact that Edward himself sought all the publicity he could on the affair, deliberately taking Mrs. Simpson out as publicly as possible, notably on his Mediterranean yacht trip. And when Geoffrey Dawson of the London Times and other editors blue penciled Mrs. Simpson's name from the lists of those at social functions and other affairs, Edward hit upon the ruse of forcing them to put her name in print by inserting it himself in court circulars as early as last June.

Two Basic Facts.

The real explanation seems to hinge around two facts. The first is that Edward never wanted to be king very much and the second is that Baldwin and the representatives of the "solid classes" intended from the first that he should be given a tryout and stopped the moment he did not work out as the monarch they wanted.

One story is that during the illness and before the death of King George V., Edward told Baldwin he did not want to be king and urged that his brother, the duke of York, now George VI., be made king right away. Baldwin is supposed to have urged the king to try it for at least a while and Edward gave in on an appeal to him by George V. from his death bed.

Didn't Want to Be King.

According to this explanation, Edward quit when he did because he himself had no desire to remain any longer and had given every reason to Baldwin and the archbishop of Canterbury to show that he did not.

Bearing on the second aspect of reasons for the abdication is the fact that there was uneasiness in government circles about Edward's accession to the throne before he had hardly ascended it.

As foreshadowed at that time [last January], a knowledge of Edward's interest in Mrs. Simpson was in the background of this uneasiness. There were publicly expressed laments at the king's bachelorhood and at the absence of a queen. It may be remembered also that Queen Mother Mary, as far back as then, had been given a special place and did not retire as dowager queen as did Alexandra, after the death of her husband, King Edward VII. Queen Mother Mary, after the death of George V., still was called Queen Mary.

Differences Mentioned.

Divergencies between King Edward VIII. and his mother and Prime Minister Baldwin were spoken at that time.

This led to comment that Baldwin and the government even then could not make up their minds whether it was preferable to continue with some kind of joint sovereignty with the king assisted by his mother, or to arrange a suitable marriage for Edward at the earliest possible moment.

References in the press here to moves to curb Edward at the start of his reign would seem to support the other theory of abdication that Baldwin and other powerful leaders were determined to try out Edward and give him enough rope to hang himself.

3 MEN AND CHILD SLAIN IN MEXICAN WORKERS' BATTLE

ORIZABA, Vera Cruz, Mexico, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Three working men and a child of seven were killed here today when an old feud between two labor organizations flared into a gun battle.

Combatants barricaded themselves inside shops in the heart of the commercial district when members of the Confederation of Workers of Mexico [CTM] clashed with a group from the Regional Confederation of Mexican Workers [CROM].

GANDHI TOILS 18 HOURS A DAY AT INDIA CONGRESS

Boycotts of Coronation and War Voted.

BOMBAY, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The mahatma, Mohandas K. Gandhi, put himself on an eighteen hour working schedule to inspire Indians anew today amid the national congress' boycott votes on British war and British coronation pageantry.

Declaring his recent malaria attack had made a new man of him, the 67 year old champion of passive resistance delighted younger members of the congress by his activity.

Boycott Empire Wars.

Gandhi, who still is irked by the failure of leaders of past congresses to carry out his own British boycott programs, saw this congress vote to refrain from participation in any war in which the British empire might become embroiled and to completely boycott all Indian celebrations connected with next year's coronation of King George VI. of England.

The anti-war resolution proscribed both army enlistment and subscription to war loans.

Before the coronation boycott vote speakers urged the 60,000 delegates to repeat the 1921 campaign of resistance to manifestations of royal rule and charged such celebrations as the coronation durbar were "intended to strengthen imperialism."

However, it was believed only a few thousand politically minded Indians would actually refrain from participating in the projected royal visit and ceremonies.

Talks with Communists.

Gandhi, himself, seemed to be the busiest man at Faizpur, site of the 50th congress. He conferred night and day with political leaders of all classes, including Socialists and communists, apparently endeavoring to rally them for a new freedom scheme—nation-wide extension of his village uplift movement.

The mahatma moved to a tiny "heaven on earth," five miles from Wardha, this year, declaring he still would "lead India to freedom," but that he could not prepare his plans "surrounded by the artifices of modern civilization."

The village, which Gandhi says is typical of the "real old India," has been renamed Deogaon, or "God's own village."

NEW DEAL PLANS ONE BUREAU FOR PRESS HANDOUTS

Administration Denies Goal Is Censorship.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Establishment of a central press and publicity bureau through which the federal government would maintain its chief contact with newspapers, magazines and the radio, and disseminate "information" on the policies and performances of the executive departments, is being promoted by experts for inclusion in President Roosevelt's plan for governmental reorganization.

Under the proposal as now being discussed, press representatives of most of the governmental bureaus, with the possible exception of the state department and White House, would be subordinated to this new central agency, which at the same time would have the responsibility of seeing that the public is carefully supplied with intelligence regarding the operations of the federal government.

"Contacts" Not To Be Ousted.

None of the better known press representatives, those who act as "contacts" for cabinet heads and the more prominent administrators, necessarily would be displaced, but their activities would be more closely coördinated and the daily run of "handout" publicity from their departments would be "cleared" through the central authority.

In short, the scheme is directed at creating a centralized control of governmental publicity, not, according to its supporters, to impose any measure of censorship, but to give the president more immediate authority over the public relations of his administration and to furnish a single agency to which the average citizen may turn for information on the many activities of the government.

Final Decision Not Known.

Whether the President's committee on administrative management has dealt finally with the central press and information bureau proposal could not be learned today.

One criticism heard today was that on the average the source of information—the cabinet officer, the bureau head or other functionary—already has become too remote. One can even hear the complaint from correspondents that they have to buck through first line defenses of secretaries before they can even get to some of the present departmental "press agents." They undoubtedly would regard this new plan as removing them still further from the official sources of information.

Amnesia Victim Identified as Wealthy Packer's Widow

N. U. POINTS FOR IRISH

After two days of double practice sessions, Northwestern's basketball team will begin tapering off its drill today in preparation for Thursday night's game with Notre Dame at Patten gymnasium. A single workout today and another tomorrow will complete the program.

The annual New Year's eve game is expected to attract a capacity throng of 6,000. Tickets are still available.

Both teams are expected to be at top form for the game, which annually produces some of the biggest thrills of the season. Last year the teams left the floor thinking Northwestern had won, 20 to 19, but a checkup of the score later revealed that the game really ended in a 20 to 20 tie.

Irish Have Revenge Motives.

The contest was officially awarded to the Wildcats, since a basketball game cannot end in a tie. This is just one of the reasons why the Irish will be intent upon settling the matter all over again. Another reason is that the Wildcats administered a severe 38 to 19 drubbing to Notre Dame at South Bend earlier in the season.

Notre Dame has been handicapped with injuries and illness so far this season, but with two weeks in which to get back in shape the team is expected to be at top form Thursday night. Coach George Keogan plans to start a veteran five consisting of Johnny Moir and Ray Meyer, forwards; Paul Nowak, center, and Tommy Jordan and Tommy Wukovits, guards. All are lettermen.

McMichael Scoring Star.

Mike McMichael, who has averaged 15 points per game thus far this season, will lead Northwestern's attack. The rangy junior is setting a faster pace than last year when he placed fourth in the Big Ten scoring column.

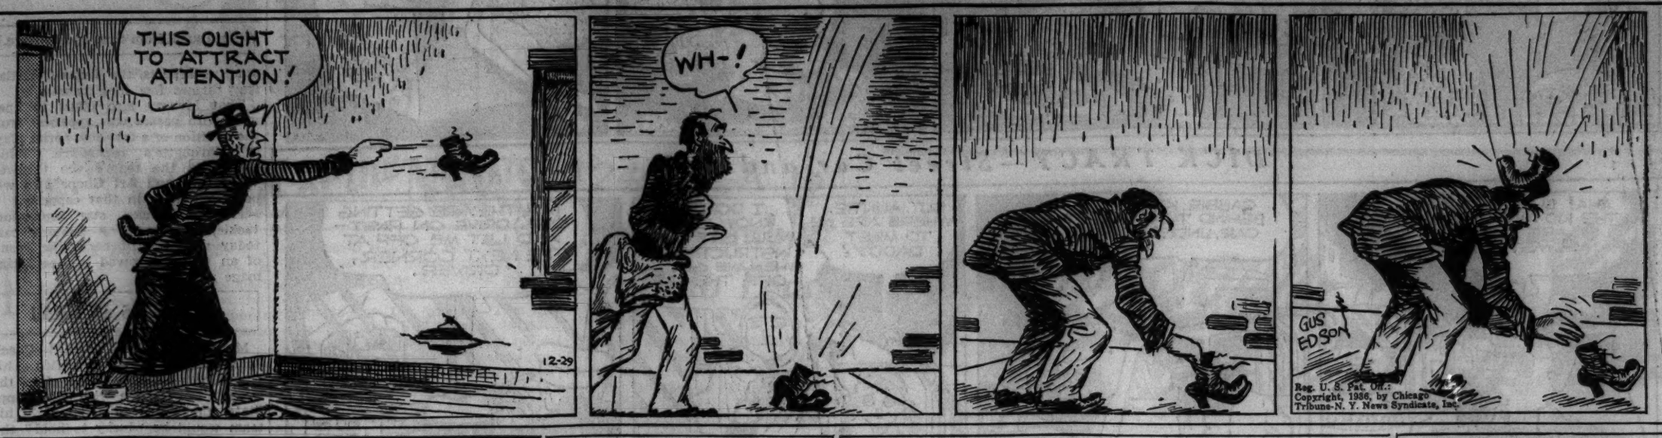
THE GUMPS—STREET SCENE



Remember Him?—

He was the greatest athlete of all time, the Red Terror of Carlisle—Jim Thorpe!

[This is the eighth of a series of articles on famous headliners of other years whose careers and contributions to sports have perhaps become obscured by time and the exploits of more widely publicized successors. All of them rank among the greatest in their respective fields.

BY ARCH WARD.

IN the fall of 1906 Jim Thorpe, a powerful, lanky young brave, enrolled at Carlisle, the federal Indian school at Carlisle, Pa., where he was destined to make football history under Pop Warner before government economy abolished the institution.

Thorpe, a Sac and Fox, was one of the greatest athletes of all time. His exploits on the gridiron, diamond, and track have made him better known to the average man than Crazy Horse, Sitting Bull, and Geronimo. Few persons will concede that he had an equal in football. He played major league baseball several years, although he never was able to hit curve ball pitching. And in 1912 he was the individual star of the Olympic games in Sweden.

Thorpe was born at Prague, Okla., on May 28, 1888. With his twin brother, Charley, who died at the age of eight from pneumonia, he laid the foundation for his athletic prowess by running up and down the foothills and swimming all day in Indian follow-the-leader games. At the age of 15 he was considered the best roper of wild horses in the Oklahoma territory.

Warner Puts End to One Man Indian War.

A powerful runner, shifty ball carrier and deadly tackler, he became the terror of eastern gridirons as soon as he had finished his elemental training at Carlisle. Walter Camp named him at half back on his All-American teams in 1911 and 1912. In 1911, his first year of varsity competition, Thorpe ran wild against Harvard and kicked four field goals, two of them more than 40 yards.

The same year he raced 80 yards through Pennsylvania for a touchdown as the Indians won, 16 to 0. In 1912, his last year at Carlisle, he scored 26 touchdowns and kicked 37 extra points and three field goals. He made all Carlisle's points against West Point that season, scoring by every possible means under the rules except on a safety.

True to his Indian origin, Thorpe had his occasional outbursts. After Carlisle's scoreless tie with Washington and Jefferson in 1912 he went on a rampage and when Warner found him in a café, Thorpe was saturated in fire water. Warner promptly seized the Red Terror and beat his head up and down on the floor. This incident made Warner the only man whom Thorpe ever held in awe.

When he had made a sweep of football honors Thorpe turned to the track. He won the pentathlon and decathlon in the 1912 Olympics, in which he was the individual high point man. The King of Sweden, in presenting him with a miniature Viking ship and a bust of himself, proclaimed Thorpe the world's greatest athlete. When the king invited Thorpe to dine with him at the palace Jim sent back word he was too busy. Upon his return he said he liked Sweden, but he was glad to be back near American bath tubs.

Swedish Star Refuses Jim's Olympic Medals.

Shortly after his return from the Olympics it was discovered he had accepted $125 from a little southern league, where he had played summer baseball in 1909 and 1910 for $25 a month. His trophies and medals were taken from him and awarded to H. Weislander of Sweden, the runnerup, whom Thorpe had defeated by 800 points in the decathlon. Weislander declined the trophies, saying they belonged to the greatest athlete in the world. "That man," he told the king, "is Jim Thorpe."

The loss of these cherished awards broke Thorpe's heart and he still cites the injustice of their seizure as an evidence of the white man's trickery.

As a track man Thorpe was able to throw the discus 125 feet, put the shot 42 feet, high jump six feet three inches, and run the 100 yard dash in ten seconds. From track he turned to baseball and spent some time with the New York Giants. His inability to hit curve ball pitching and his penchant for riotous celebrations finally led to his release, although he was considered a good outfielder.

He participated in professional football, playing with various teams throughout Ohio during the Canton Bulldog and Massilon Tiger era and also barnstormed several seasons with his own team composed entirely of Indians. One of the late Knute Rockne's favorite stories was about his first meeting with the inimitable Thorpe on a professional field in Ohio. After two plays around Rockne's end the former Notre Dame coach, nursing his bruises, took Thorpe's advice and stayed out of the way.

No longer his magnificent self physically, Thorpe retired from athletics entirely in 1925 and moved to Los Angeles, where he still lives with his second wife and their two sons.

Old Warrior Fights for New Braves.

In 1932 he slipped into the Coliseum at Los Angeles on a borrowed pass to see the opening of the Olympic games. The next day Vice President Curtis, hearing of Thorpe's plight, sent him his own pass for the rest of the meet.

"Had I known Jim was there," said the Vice President, also of Indian descent, "he would have been my honored guest in the presidential box at the opening ceremonies."

Curtis' esteem for Thorpe is shared by all sports followers. The night before the recent Notre Dame-Southern California game in Los Angeles, a group of former all-American players were invited to the annual Trojan dinner. Among them was Thorpe. The former Carlisle star received the greatest ovation ever given a football player on the coast. His reception by the assembled guests exceeded even those of U. S. C.'s own all-American heroes.

Thorpe, earning what he could as an extra in the movies, made an issue of white men playing Indian parts in 1933 and succeeded in extracting a promise from motion picture authorities that henceforth Indian rôles would be played only by redmen, except for the starring parts.

As a professional athlete Thorpe earned more than $100,000, but his liberal habits prevented him from providing for his later years, and since his retirement from pro football he has been reduced to day labor several times. His only regrets, however, are that he was unable to hit curve balls and retain his Olympic medals.

SILVER SKATES DERBY ENTRIES TO CLOSE SUNDAY

Eight Races Mark 20th Annual Event.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Six days remain in which you may enter the twentieth Silver Skates Derbies which will be sponsored by THE TRIBUNE at Garfield park Jan. 9 and 10. Even if the races are postponed because of weather, the eligibility list will be determined by the program which will be compiled after the deadline for entries at midnight next Sunday.

This series of eight races, from the 220 yard championship for boys under 12 years of age to the senior 2 mile race for men, and including three Derbies for girls, completes the first 20 years of Silver Skates. Founded in 1917 on the basis of competition for the skaters of playgrounds and parks with a 2 mile Silver Skates Derby for men, the competition was broadened in 1919 to include all amateur skaters in the United States and Canada.

Meet An Annual Event.

The meet has been held every year, occasionally under handicap of indifferent skating conditions, except 1932, when, after several postponements, the Derbies were canceled. Perhaps it might have been possible to hold the races that year except that when good skating weather finally reached Chicago the races conflicted with the Golden Gloves boxing tournament, which this winter will celebrate its tenth consecutive season.

Each year Silver Skates has grown until this winter, the intermediate girls' class for those 16 and 17 years of age, has been added, completing the eight division program. Nearly 5,000 boys and girls competed last year. The size of the field not only has made it necessary to hold the preliminaries in the boys' midget, juvenile, and junior classes on Saturday, so that the other preliminaries and all championships may be completed on Sunday, but Garfield park is practically the only site in Chicago where the contestants may secure proper facilities.

Record Prize List.

This year's prize list not only establishes an all time record for Silver Skates, but no other amateur event in the nation approaches it. There are 40 prizes, five in each age class. The eight champions will receive silver skates. The runners-up will be awarded plated silver skates, and the third place winners will receive bronze skates. Fourth and fifth place winners in each of the eight Derbies will receive silver and bronze medals, respectively.

This does not complete the prize list, however. Each contestant who reports for his trial race will receive a souvenir button. More important, each winner of a preliminary race will have a gold medal to prove his or her superiority. Last year 248 of these gold medals were presented. The team which scores the most points will have possession for one year of the Walter Eckersall memorial trophy. This now is held by the Catholic Youth organization. A silver trophy will be given to the club which has the largest number of entries appearing in the preliminaries.

Gold Medals Also Offered.

Gold medals also will be awarded in the three longest races—the girls' senior, boys' intermediate, and men's senior Derbies—to the skaters who lead the field for the greatest number of laps in these championships.

The qualifying races will be held at one-half the distances scheduled for the eight championships. The list of races and distances follows:

Boys' midget	110 yards	220 yards
Boys' juvenile	220 yards	440 yards
Boys' junior	440 yards	Half mile
Boys' int'm'diate	Half mile	One mile
Men's senior	One mile	Two miles
Girls' junior	220 yards	440 yards
Girls' int'm'diate	440 yards	Half mile
Girls' senior	Half mile	One mile

Individual entries may be made on the blank which is printed daily in THE TRIBUNE sports pages. Team entries may be submitted in a group if the age divisions are listed separately and attested by the captain, manager, or coach of the organization.

Here's Solace, Hawk Fans! Karakas Is Leading Goalie

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

It must seem highly incredible for the best goalie in the National Hocky league to be a member of the losingest team in the organization, but such is the case of Michael Karakas of the Chicago Blackhawks. Mike will have another chance to distinguish himself this evening when the Hawks meet the Montreal Canadiens at the Chicago stadium.

For a team which has lost nine of its seventeen games to have the standout door man of the league appears to be a trifle extraordinary, but the skinny young man from Eveleth, Minn., is extending himself to a point where the fans of the league are beginning to wonder if Mike is not going to wind up with the Vezina trophy.

Kerr Presses Mike.

That trophy is named after Georges Vezina, the Chicoutimi Cucumber himself, who once starred for the same team which will battle the Blackhawks tonight. Vezina was rated without peer among goalies until the late Chuck Gardner came along, and now it appears that Karakas is about to duplicate the feats of these two net minding geniuses. He has allowed only 30 goals, one of them being a puck which young Mac Colville pushed by him Sunday night to give the New York Rangers their ninth victory of the year, together with possession of the league leadership.

Right upon Mike's skates, however, is Davie Kerr, the Ranger goalie who blanked the Hawks Sunday night. Dave has permitted opposing sharpshooters just 31 goals. Mike's foe tonight, Wilf Cude, has suffered 42 pucks to go by him. Aside from Karakas and Kerr, no other goaltender in the league is even close with the exception of Normie Smith of the world's champion Detroit Red Wings, who has yielded 35 goals.

Faces Old Men.

Facing Mike tonight will be a forward trio which has proved itself as amazing as Karakas himself. It consists of old Howie Morenz, once of the Hawks, and now back with his former outfit; Johnny Gagnon and

LEAGUE LEADER

MIKE KARAKAS.

Aurel Joliat. Despite their ages [Joliat is 37, Morenz 35, and Gagnon 32], the three have become the highest scoring line in the league.

The Canadiens have met the Hawks twice, winning each time. It was 2 to 1 when they played at the Stadium, and 4 to 1 when they engaged each other at the Montreal Forum. The Canadiens did not rely on the Morenz line for these two victories, for there is a trio of sprouts named Joffre Desilets, Rod Lorraine, and Toe Blake who made themselves quite useful.

ALL IS CALM AS MICHIGAN MEN HOLD LUNCHEON

No Sport "Situation" in Evidence at Meeting.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

One hundred and fifty supporters of the University of Michigan Club of Chicago, the largest holiday gathering of this group in years, attended the weekly luncheon in the Green room of Mandel's yesterday. About 50 of this number were undergraduates home for the holiday vacation.

It is a newspaper axiom that a negative story is not a strong story—that something which didn't happen is much less important than something which did happen. Yet this yarn is of something which didn't happen, or it is no yarn at all.

This writer was present as a guest, supposedly to hear the explosion, to be near the scene of action if the bomb was touched off. Usually when graduates of a college or university accustomed to winning football elevens gather after a disastrous season, there are rumblings, a few sincere moans, many hearty growls, and even demands of "Fire the coach!" That's what made this gathering unique. Not a rumble, not a moan, not a howl, not a single voice for any major change in administration of athletics.

Judge Dunne Chief Speaker.

Judge R. Jerome [Duke] Dunne, captain of the 1922 Michigan football eleven, was the principal speaker. For fifteen minutes he talked of Michigan and its place in education and athletics. He stressed the importance of Chicago's Michigan men, past and present, knowing one another, even to the formation of a Chicago club among students at Ann Arbor. He told of Michigan's high requirements for entrance and high scholarship standards after entrance. He referred vaguely to their effect on athletics, particularly football, and ended with an admonitory warning, in a sentence, on a subject many had expected to hear earlier, "Under such circumstances alumni should consider well before attempting to interfere with a cry of 'Fire the coach.'"

Otherwise football was mentioned only casually because John Smithers and John Jordan of the Michigan varsity were present in the company of Ross Fuog, former center. With characteristic Michigan spirit, even more calm in defeat than in victory, the Wolverines present appeared to regard 1936 as one year in a cycle which ultimately would swing back to the other extreme when Michigan football teams were "Conquerors of the West," as one of the Wolverine songs goes. It was refreshing to a sports writer who often has been assigned to cover meetings at which the language was of gunfire and sulphur under somewhat similar occasions.

Express Loyalty to Yost, Kipke.

In the rôle of reporter, however, the writer sought personal opinions from those present. Among both alumni and undergraduates, sentiment was practically unanimous in loyalty to Director of Athletics Fielding H. Yost and Head Coach Harry C. Kipke. Indeed, many of those interviewed did not consider there was even a "situation" at Ann Arbor.

SWITCH BACKS TO SAVE CAIN FOR RELIEF ROLE

Both Squads Drill in Rain.

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—A shift was ordered in the University of Washington back field today as the Huskies took their first workout here for Friday's Rose Bowl game against the University of Pittsburgh eleven before the largest crowd ever to see the post-season contest.

JIMMY PHELAN.

Jimmy Cain, Washington's all-purpose back, was dropped from the new combination as Coach Jimmy Phelan sent Byron Haines, Elmer Logg, Ed Nowogroski, and Fritz Waskowitz out with the varsity line.

Phelan was noncommittal on the change, but it was believed it followed an attempt to bolster the team's reserve strength, badly shaken by the loss of Al Cruver, second string full back. Cruver's loss leaves Washington with only eight reliable backs. Cain is the only man in the group who is equally as effective at all positions. Starting Waskowitz in his place will leave Cain available for emergency duty.

Back Field Has Strength.

Waskowitz is an excellent passer, one of the best on the coast. Teamed with Haines, Nowogroski, and Logg, he will round out a back field which gives Washington its greatest offensive strength. Logg is expected to outkick any man Pitt sends back to punt. Haines will handle the ball carrying and Nowogroski, the full back, is the team's most effective blocker.

Today's drill was held in the rain, as was the Pitt workout at Arrowhead Springs near San Bernardino. Neither squad appeared inconvenienced by the steady drizzle, although Phelan expressed a wish for a little sunshine before Friday. The Huskies are not as far advanced in condition as the Pitt squad, according to expert observers.

Goldberg Sure to Start.

Only one back field assignment has been definitly settled in the Pitt lineup, it was announced at San Bernardino today. Marshall Goldberg, the 18 year old sophomore sensation who sprang into national prominence against Notre Dame, will be in at the kickoff, Coach Jock Sutherland assured Rose Bowl authorities.

The Panthers will remain at their Arrowhead Springs camp until Thursday morning, unless Sutherland makes a last minute change in his plans. The squad is scheduled to move into Pasadena for a light workout in the Rose Bowl Thursday afternoon.

ALL-STARS END DRILL

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The all-star squads, representing the east and west, wound up their rigid drill in the rain today for the annual Shrine hospital game here New Year's day.

The West squad, reduced to 21 men by the injury to Flody Terry, Washington State end, who suffered a broken arm, went through its last workout then hustled off to Santa Cruz, a seaside resort.

The West's starting backfield apparently will be Kent Ryan of Utah State, and Ed Goddard of Washington State, at the half backs; San Francis of Nebraska, full back, and Ray Peterson, University of San Francisco, quarter back. Peterson and Francis will do the kicking and the passing.

The East squad, stationed at Berkeley, site of the University of California, drilled in the mud after last night's heavy rain. The players expect to play in the mud Friday and welcome the opportunity to adjust their timing and offense to the slow going. Larry Kelley, Yale end, continued to catch passes as effectively as if he were handling a dry ball.

BUIVID SHOWS MARQUETTE

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Ideal weather again prevailed as Coach Frank Murray sent the Marquette university football squad through two stiff defensive workouts today in preparation for the New Year's day Cotton Bowl game with Texas Christian here

The drills were conducted in secrecy at Southern Methodist's Ownby stadium, with particular attention being paid to the Horned Frogs passing attack which is built around the sensational throwing of Sammy Baugh.

Marquette's own great passer, Capt. Ray Buivid, impersonated Baugh in today's dummy scrimmages and gave the Hilltop varsity a good idea of what it may expect. According to

In a day of one-sided first round matches, north and west side prep teams dominated the opening action in the University of Chicago's seventh holiday week basketball tournament at the Midway field house yesterday.

Eight first flight games were played, the top half of the 32 team bracket, and only one south side team, Hyde Park, was returned victor. Other survivors were Von Steuben, Austin, Manley, Amundsen, Harrison, Farragut and Tuley. Six south side quintets were beaten. Eight more games today will complete the first round.

Hyde Park Convincing Winner.

But if Hyde Park was the only south sider to win, it was also the most convincing winner of the day. Scoring almost at will, while holding Wendell Phillips to a single field goal, the Hyde Parkers crushed Phillips, 37 to 6, and stamped themselves as possible finalists.

The closest game of the day, in which Austin, after trailing Fenger down to the last four minutes, spurted to win 34 to 28, indicated that the Austinites are one of the stronger teams in the tournament. Farragut, defending champion of the meet, got through the first round safely, although only one regular from its title winning combination has returned. Two other semi-finalists from last year, Bowen and Foreman, were eliminated.

Stevens Leads Scorers.

Stellar play by individuals marked the first day's contests. Twelve players scored 10 or more points. Leading the parade was Dan Stevens of Hyde Park, who poked in ten short baskets and a pair of free throws for 22 points in as many minutes of play against Phillips. Mathias Schmalz, Amundsen guard, dropped in 20 points. Other high scorers were Wroblenski of Foreman, who contributed 17 points in defeat, Levin of Tuley with 14 points; Bernstein of Manley with 13 and Hansen of Austin, Dusek of Farragut and Opatowski of Tuley with a dozen each. ASK RECOGNITION OF PROFESSIONAL IN COLLEGE SPORT

Subsidizing Problem Is Discussed by Coaches.

New York, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Fortified by the best budget balancing football season they have enjoyed since pre-depression days, college educators and athletic leaders from all parts of the United States struck several sturdy blows today in behalf of "more honesty and less hypocrisy" in handling the troublesome subject of athletic recruiting and subsidizing.

For the first time in years the gathering of the country's best collegiate minds for the midwinter conclave—revolving principally around annual sessions of the National Collegiate A. A. and the American Football Coaches' association—dealt with football's amateur-professional problems as frankly in open meetings as they did in the hotel lobbies.

Paves Way for General Debate.

Frank approach to hitherto delicate topics developed from separate angles at the opening N. C. A. A. round table discussion under the leadership of Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, director of athletics at Northwestern university. This session paved the way for general debate tomorrow, with Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner and N. C. A. A. president, in the chair.

Dr. William L. Hughes, associate professor of physical education in teachers college, Columbia university, declared that sports writers are not alone in considering that present trends in football subsidizing "reek with dishonesty and hypocrisy." He urged that outworn distinctions between the amateur and professional athlete be discarded, accepting the former as the novice and the latter as the skilled performer.

Equally emphatic was Dr. J. H. Nichols, director of athletics at Oberlin college, in discussing football problems primarily from the viewpoint of the smaller liberal arts college.

Puts Outlay at 12 Million Weekly.

Dr. Nichols prefaced his discourse by pointing out the business of college football had grown to such an extent it meant an outlay of more than $12,000,000 weekly, for big games alone, during the season. He calculated more than $5,000,000 of this amount was spent for tickets, with the rest going to railroads, hotels, restaurants, theaters, and other by-products.

"There has naturally developed a belief that open and frank professionalism in the form of some kind of athletic subsidy or scholarship is far better than hypocrisy and deceit."

Advances Program.

Contending that the smaller college group inevitably will "find the pace too hot" if it attempts to compete with the universities which have the benefit of greater financial resources, Dr. Nichols advocated a specific program for the "little fellows."

He recommended [1] frank recognition of the different problems involved and "let's cease to be poor imitators"; [2] unify the whole physical education program, making football justifiable on educational grounds; [3] financing of the intercollegiate problem through "activity fees" and additional funds from the college budget; [4] putting the entire athletic staf on the faculty; [5] maintenance of all athletic fields and equipment within the college budget; [6] engaging competitively only with colleges of the same educational as well as athletic class; [7] simplifying eligibility rules; [8] elimination of athletic leagues or conferences; and [9] gradual elimination of all gate receipts, with the entire athletic program eventually handled and budgeted along the same lines as any other department in the college.

Three Courses for Large Schools.

"Many college presidents have expressed the hope and desire that the vicious relationships between football gate receipts and the support of our intercollegiate program might be changed," continued Dr. Nichols.

Turning to the larger institutions, the Oberlin director outlined the three possible athletic courses they can pursue as follows:

"First, they can continue along the present course and try to prevent conditions from becoming any worse. This, in my opinion, will lead eventually to the adoption of the second possible course, which some conferences have already accepted and others are considering, which is putting intercollegiate football on a frankly professional basis.

Puts It on Commercial Basis.

"For the universities with the huge stadia, dependent on the big gate, and believing that they have an obligation to the public to put on a fine athletic spectacle, this is a logical step. It would make it possible partially to compensate the athlete for what he is losing in his education. It would put the whole business on an honest commercial basis, and it would frankly recognize football as a business, as well as a sport.

"In the long run professionalism would probably defeat itself by making the whole situation so ridiculous that people would turn against it. This seems to me an unfortunate way out, but at least it would be an honest one. The present system makes liars, cheaters, and compromise experts out of many players and administrators connected with the game.

"The third course, which I believe is the sound and wise one for these institutions to adopt, is the same which I outlined for the liberal arts colleges. Why shouldn't we join together in an attempt to free our sports from their dependency on gate receipts and make them a part of a unified program of physical education, financed by college funds?"

THESE BOWL GAMES.

FIVE major football contests, in addition to a few of secondary importance, will be played New Year's day, more than a month after the regular college season closes. These games are:

Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Cal.—University of Washington vs. University of Pittsburgh.

Shrine benefit at San Francisco, Cal.—Eastern All-Stars vs. Western All-Stars.

None of these contests, we understand, are under direct college auspices. No traditional college rivalries are involved. Except for the San Francisco event for the benefit of the Shriners' hospital, all are frankly commercial in the sense of offering a spectacle for winter tourists, and, of course, regular football followers.

From this blunt summary one might assume The Wake was opposed to such post-season battles. Not at all! The question of whether football is being overemphasized, whether the season is thus prolonged unduly to the detriment of the classroom, is for faculties to decide. All teams competing have faculty approval, else they would not be there.

As a football fan and as a sports writer, the more intersectional, the more spectacular affairs, the better. As to whether college football as a whole is favorably affected, we do not presume an opinion.

As a matter of fact, THE TRIBUNE sports department itself promotes the greatest of all football struggles not sponsored by collegiate bodies. That is the annual College All-Star vs. Pro Champions game in late August or early September. As in the case of the Shrine game at San Francisco, profits go to charity.

Participants in THE TRIBUNE contest, however, are collegians who have ended their period of college eligibility. They either are awaiting opening of their pro careers or are taking part because of their natural love for football and the honor attached. They receive all expenses and a nominal compensation. The opposing pro champions are prepping for their season about to open. It is a truly spectacular affair affording enjoyment to about 75,000 persons attending, besides the many who follow it for weeks in advance in newspapers and then listen to the radio broadcast.

Do these collegiate bowl games on New Year's day mean anything? Not much! Once the Rose Bowl implied rather than claimed national championship for the winner. That no longer is true. For instance, in 1936, there is no undefeated, untied major eleven in the country. Washington was beaten by Minnesota, not allowed by conference rules to accept an invitation. Pittsburgh was beaten by Duquesne. Perhaps the latter was a fluke, but it stands in the record book.

When Washington chose Pittsburgh as its opponent, prediction was made the game would be a financial frost because the Panthers have been singularly inept on the coast. Two weeks ago all seats were reported sold. That indicates demand for such spectacles. Demand nearly always brings supply when sufficient money is involved.

Rule Colleges Ethically May Sell Broadcasts

New York, Dec. 28.—(AP)—A special committee of the National Collegiate Athletic association has declared it entirely ethical for colleges and universities to sell broadcasting rights for their home sporting attractions.

The committee, headed by Prof. C. M. Updegraff, chairman of the University of Iowa's athletic board, announced its decision at a closed meeting of the N. C. A. A. last night. It was based on replies received from 122 of the 400 schools to whom a questionnaire on the subject was sent during the year.

The committee took the position that in view of the advertising element in commercially-sponsored sports broadcasts, there was no reason why the colleges should not derive financial benefit from the sale of radio rights.

Garcia Defeats Sharkey in Close 10 Round Battle

Rapid City, S. D., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Ted Garcia of Belle Fourche, 131, took a close decision in ten rounds tonight from Jackie Sharkey, 131, Minneapolis. In the semi-final, scheduled for six rounds, Jack Bickett, Belle Fourche, 119, knocked out Battling Ginsberg, St. Paul, 115, in the first minute. Ginsberg went down twice from light blows to the head and Commissioner Guy Fererro of Lead ordered the promoters not to pay him.

Lenhart Beats George Sutka in 8 Rounds

Fred Lenhart, Tacoma, Wash., light heavyweight contender now making his home in St. Paul, defeated George Sutka of Detroit in an eight round slugging match at Marigold Gardens last night. A crowd of 1,134 paid $1,036 net to see the final headliner of the year at the north side club.

The bout began slowly and ended fast, with Sutka threatening until the last bell. Lenhart, who was making his first appearance since his conquest of Eddie Wenstob three months ago, weighed 177 pounds, three more than Sutka.

In the semi-final Frankie Misko, Saginaw, Mich., middleweight, was given the decision over Eddie Bradley, Quincy, Ill., at the end of five rounds when the latter was not allowed to continue because of a bad cut under his right eye. Christy Mathewson, Omaha welterweight, and Phil Rosenberg, former Joliet sectional Golden Gloves champion, battled four rounds to a draw. Joe Sutka, twin brother of George, defeated Freddy Graham, San Francisco 160 pounder, in four rounds. In the opening bout Jack Reed knocked out William Bright in two rounds.

Collegian Quintet Meets Aurora Austin-Westerns

The Collegians, colored team from the Windy City Basketball league, must be in top form to turn back the Austin-Westerns of Aurora on tonight's card at St. Philip's gym. The Aurora team, winners of the Central A. A. U. title last year and Chicago's representatives in the national tournament, have been encountering hard luck and are ready to stage an upset. Tonight games:

8:30 p. m.—Lucianas vs. Rivals.

Jose Manuel defeated Nango Singh with a headlock in two minutes and Frankie Hart and Bill Brooks went to a 45 minute draw in the third bout of the triple windup. Roland Meeker threw Lefty Pacer in 25:16, and Buck O'Neil won over Babe Rasputin.

124th F. A. to Meet Rambler Polo Team

Shifting of the Metropolitan Indoor Polo league schedule will match the 124th Field Artillery trio against the Chicago Ramblers in Saturday night's inaugural at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

The 124th Field Artillery will replace the 122d Field Artillery, originally scheduled to oppose the Ramblers and now paired against Oak Brook for the following Saturday night. The shift has been forced by injuries in practice to Lieut. Carl Johnson of the 122d Field Artillery threesome.

The newly organized Rangers will oppose Milwaukee in the first game of Saturday night's twin bill. The Rangers have named Harry Owen Jr., Jack Armstrong and Edwin Hirsch as their lineup. Owen and Armstrong have starred consistently for the Black Horse troop during the last three years, while Hirsch has been a mainstay on the Olympia Fields indoor and outdoor teams.

All of the nine Chicago teams in the league race will be better fortified than ever in the matter of pony strength.

DE PAUL VERSUS WISCONSIN

De Paul will meet Wisconsin tomorrow night at Madison with high hope of duplicating its victory of a year ago.

Wisconsin has won four and lost two. It was beaten by Butler and Pitt.

De Paul has defeated Pittsburgh, Illinois, and Hamline, while losing to Purdue and North Dakota.

Coach Kelly put the De Paul team through a stiff workout yesterday, following a rest over the holidays. The probable starters will be Phillips and Howlett at forwards; Campion and Wendt at guards, and Yost at center.

JORGENSEN WINS IN U. S. BOYS' TENNIS MEET

New York, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Two New York boys stood out in the National Junior and Boys' Tennis tournament at the Seventh Regiment armory today as the seeded players moved through the second round without an upset.

Robert A. Low of New York, barely escaped defeat at the hands of an old rival, Peter Lauck, a Princeton student from Montclair, N. J., in a Junior match. Low dropped the first set and barely pulled out the second, but finally rallied to win, 4-6, 11-9, 6-4.

Meanwhile the top seeded pair, teammates at Kenyon college in Ohio, Don McNeill of Oklahoma City and Morey Lewis of Texarkana, Ark., found the going easy. McNeill did not yield a game to Alfred I. Jaffe of Brooklyn, winning 6-0, 6-0. Lewis, who drew a bye in the first round, whipped Orme Wilson Jr., New York, 6-1, 6-1.

John L. Jorgensen of Chicago, had some trouble winning from William Witkin, New York, 6-2, 6-4, but another western entry, A. Allen McDonald of Wichita, Kas., easily defeated Joseph G. Dilibra of Plainfield, N. J., 6-0, 6-4.

TREEST, MAREK READY FOR TITLE BOUT TOMORROW

Max Spars Five Rounds to Finish Training.

Billy Treest and Max Marek are ready for their ten round state heavyweight championship bout at White City tomorrow. Marek finished training yesterday at C. Y. O. center sparring five rounds, three with Max Zona and two with Tom Kennealy while his 22 year old opponent from Aurora concluded drills at Trafton's gymnasium by doing light loosening up exercises. Treest completed sparring sessions Sunday.

The Chicago fighter who also is 22 years of age, expects to weigh-in at 184 pounds at the Illinois boxing commission tomorrow afternoon and Treest indicates he will scale 185.

Both lads are in excellent physical condition and each is supremely confident of winning. Treest, who entered the professional field shortly after he won the Golden Gloves middleweight crown at the stadium in 1934, has engaged in 24 pro battles. He won 20 and lost the others, one of these defeats being a fluke scored by Henry Palmeri at Cleveland, April 23, 1935. He obtained revenge for this black mark by decisively defeating Palmeri at White City in a return encounter a month later.

Marek, who emerged as Golden Gloves light heavyweight titleholder in 1933, turned professional July 2 of last year. He knocked out Scotty Fuller at Comiskey park in three rounds. He chalked up five more triumphs before suffering his first setback at the hands of Bob Pastor at Madison Square Garden Nov. 1 of the same year. In thirteen subsequent scraps Max scored eight victories, most of them by knockouts.

Chairman Joe Triner of the state athletic commission will head a large Chicago delegation at the middleweight championship contest between Freddy Steele, defending king, and Gorilla Jones, former title holder, at Milwaukee, Wis., Friday afternoon. Chicagoans making the trip include Sam Pian and Art Winch, co-managers of Barney Ross, welterweight monarch, and Davey Day, lightweight challenger; Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun, joint promoters at Marigold Gardens; Benny Ray, matchmaker at the north side club; Soldier Mickey Farr, and Capt. Harry O'Connell. Supporting encounters match Billy Marquart, Toronto, Ont., with Ray Blum, Janesville [4]; Duke Calloway, Gary, with Johnny Gaudes, Milwaukee [6]; George Dungey with Billy Miller, Milwaukee [8] tentative, and Roger Bernard, Flint, Mich., with Larry Greb, Milwaukee [8].

The wrestling card at Rainbo Fronton tomorrow night will be headed by bouts concerning George Dusette and Oki Shikina, and Ivan Rasputin and Jack Conley. Supplementary matches involve Frankie Talaber and Bull Curley, and Rudy Kay and Tiger Nelson. . . . Fred Apostoli and his manager, Larry White, stopped off in the loop yesterday en route from the coast to New York, where the San Francisco 160 pound contender is signed to appear Jan. 20 against Babe Risko, Solly Krieger, or Teddy Yarosz. . . . Nathan Rivkin, father of Maurice Rivkin, north side promoter, was buried yesterday at Waldheim cemetery. . . . Everett Marshall will arrive tomorrow for his heavyweight mat title struggle with Jim McMillen at the Coliseum Jan. 5. McMillen worked out at Trafton's gymnasium yesterday, going 30 minsored by the Italian Youth organizautes with Hans Bauer. He will take a rest today, resuming drills at 1 p. m. tomorrow, two hours before Marshall is scheduled to appear. An eight round topliner involving Johnny Erjavec, Duluth heavyweight, and Art Oliver, member of the United States Olympic Golden Gloves team, originally booked Dec. 21, has been reset at Marigold Gardens for next Monday. . . . Contestants in the open and novice divisions will be represented in the amateur boxing tournament sponsored at Ashland boulevard Jan. 28 and 29. F. M.

SWIFT ADVANCE IN COMMODITY PRICES STAGED

Farm Products and Metals Lead Rise.

Commodity markets staged a wide advance yesterday, with practically every agricultural product and metal which enters into international trade selling at new peaks for the season, and many of them at the highest level in 7 or 8 years.

A wave of speculative and "war scare" buying resulted in the broadest single advance in many months. Toward the end of the day there was some profit taking and in a few instances, notably the grains, prices were lower at the close. Most of the list, however, ended at or near the day's best figures.

Traders said that both armaments requirements and speculative buying were responsible for the spurt in export copper, which touched 11.85 cents a pound for the first time since June, 1930. Copper and lead futures moved upward in its company.

Rubber Price Soars.

Rubber soared more than 1½ cents a pound yesterday at the high time, one of the sharpest upturns in years, as the result of heavy domestic and foreign buying. Raw sugar sold above 3 cents a pound for the deferred deliveries for the first time since 1928, and refined sugar was advanced 20 cents per 100 pounds. Cocoa, hides, and copper prices were advanced about ¼ cent a pound.

Upturns in commodity markets lately have been extremely rapid. Since Dec. 1 rubber prices have moved up 4.64 cents a pound; cocoa, 1.20 cents; hides, 2.05 cents; copper, 1.60 cents, cottonseed oil, 1.03 cents; lard, 1½ cents; and cotton, ¾ cents a pound. Upturns in grain have been sensational.

Comparison of Prices.

GROCERS TESTIFY ON DISCOUNTS OF KRAFT CHEESE

Independent retailers yesterday took the stand to tell of pricing policies on products of Kraft-Phenix Cheese corporation at the hearing in the Knickerbocker hotel on charges by the federal trade commission that these cheese company showed price discrimination contrary to the Robinson-Patman act.

One witness, Joseph Kandelman, who operates a grocery store at 1313 North Clark, testified that he did not know of an allowable discount of 5 per cent from list price on purchases of $5 or more in salad dressings until about two months ago when two federal agents informed him of this when they called to investigate. Such a discount was said to have been in effect since last summer.

The hearing will be resumed today.

HOLIDAY BUYING INCREASES USE OF BANK CHECKS

With Christmas spending the heaviest since 1928 and 1929, and with the outflow of funds throughout the nation swelled by huge dividend payment totals, bank debits last week again rose to a new peak for the period since Oct. 7, 1931, the federal reserve board reported yesterday.

Debits to individual deposit accounts in the twelve reserve districts for the week ended Dec. 23 totaled $12,421,219,000, compared with $11,859,716,000 for the week ended Dec. 16 and with $7,381,536,000 for the week ended Dec. 23, 1935.

There was a recession in the Chicago federal reserve district, the seventh district. For the week ended Dec. 23 the total for 162 banks in 41 leading clearing house cities aggregated $1,576,242,000, compared with $1,612,640,000 in the week ended Dec. 16 and with $1,012,270,000 for the week ended Dec. 23, 1935.

Douglas Aircraft Company Reports Record for Sales

New York, Dec. 28.—The Douglas Aircraft company, reported today for the fourth quarter of its fiscal year ended Nov. 30, new record sales of $4,317,000, compared with $3,631,000 for the entire preceding nine months. Unfilled orders on Nov. 30 totaled $24,526,000, against $12,000,000 a year ago.

Court Approves Equipment Issue of Milwaukee Road

Trustees of the Milwaukee railroad yesterday were authorized by Federal Judge William H. Holly to issue or sell $3,180,000 of 3½ per cent equipment trust certificates to the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, proceeds from which will be used to buy locomotives.

Wheat Soars to $1.43, but Closes Lower

Profit taking and last day liquidation of December contracts pulled grain prices lower yesterday. Gains earlier in the day sent wheat, corn, oats, and rye futures ahead to new peaks, climaxing a sensational advance of two months, but these were lost later. Not since the boom days of 1929 had wheat prices touched the figure of $1.43 a bushel, which was recorded easily yesterday. Corn and rye were at levels not reached since 1928.

Final prices of wheat were 1¼ to 4½ cents lower than Saturday's close, the sharpest drop being recorded in December wheat. Corn was ¾ cent lower to ¼ cent higher. Oats were ⅜ to 1⅛ cent lower, rye lost ¼ to 1 cent, and soy beans sagged ½ cent.

Advance Brings Profit Taking.

Profit taking was naturally attracted by the upward surge of 20¼ cents in wheat and 27⅛ cents in rye from the low point in December. Evening up operations in the December delivery of all grains, yesterday being the final day for such trades, helped send prices down from their early peaks.

The expected "squeeze" in December wheat and corn failed to appear. December wheat after selling at $1.43 shortly after the opening declined to $1.37⅝ at the close, while December corn sold at $1.11⅝ at the top and finished at $1.09⅝.

The Winnipeg rye market provided the feature of trading yesterday, advancing 5 cents per bushel at the opening, the limit permitted for one day under exchange regulations, but weakened on profit taking and closed 2 cents higher.

Seven Year Highs Established.

All deliveries of wheat at Winnipeg and Liverpool were in new ground for the last seven years. Prices in the latter market closed 2⅝ to 4¼ cents a bushel higher. Winnipeg, after an early upturn of 2 cents in wheat futures, reacted and closed a major fraction of a cent lower.

European demand for cash wheat yesterday was slow, reports indicating importing countries had purchased only 1,500,000 bushels in Canada, Argentina, and Australia during the day.

Closing prices of principal May deliveries here, with comparisons, follow:

	Yest'day.	Sat.	Wk. ago.	Mo. ago.
Wheat	$1.35¼	$1.36½	$1.32¼	$1.18
Corn	1.05⅞	1.06¼	1.05⅜	1.00¼
Oats	.51½	.51⅝	.51¼	.45⅝
Rye	1.16½	1.17¼	1.12¼	.92⅛
Soy beans	1.55	1.55½	1.57¾	1.34½

An official Argentine estimate yesterday placed the exportable surplus of wheat in that country on Dec. 26 at 153,000,000 bushels. Trade estimates indicate that approximately 45,000,000 bushels of Argentine wheat have already been sold for shipment. In addition, Brazil is expected to take around 35,000,000 bushels, leaving only 73,000,000 bushels available for shipment to Europe during the

URGES REVISING OLD POLICIES ON FIRE INSURANCE

Asserting that the old New York standard fire insurance policy, which is being used in 31 states including Illinois, is too favorable to the insurance underwriters, George W. Goble, professor at law at the University of Illinois, yesterday urged that the form be revised to give the policy holder a better break. Prof. Goble spoke at the annual meeting of the American Association of University Teachers of Insurance at the Congress hotel.

Prof. Gable said the standard policy is inequitable from the policy holder's viewpoint in that it sets out five different conditions, the violation of any one of which makes the policy void.

A survey of a cross-section of insured real estate in two Illinois cities, he said, disclosed that because of violation of these conditions, 28 per cent of all policies on real property and 55 per cent of all fire policies were void and unenforceable under Illinois law.

STEEL OPERATING RATE UNCHANGED AT 77 PER CENT

The steel industry in the current week is operating at 77 per cent of capacity, unchanged from the rate at the start of the preceding week, the American Iron and Steel Institute reported yesterday.

In the same week of November operations stood at 75.9 per cent of capacity, while at the same time a year ago they were at 46.7 per cent.

It was explained that although the rate of operations was unchanged, this week's showing will be better than last week, which contained the Christmas holiday. New Year's day is not a holiday in the steel industry.

ROME, Dec. 29.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—The Italian government today modified its sweeping legislation against foreign motion pictures which film men asserted had threatened to block further imports of American pictures. TVA Reports 116 Millions Spent to Date

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The Tennessee Valley authority in its annual report to the President and congress today revealed that up to June 30, last, it had spent $116,303,207. Congress has appropriated a total of 150 millon dollars for the TVA to expend thus far.

However, according to plans revealed by TVA, about 185 millions will be expended on development of the Tennessee river up to 1940. Then during the next four years a total of 144 millions will be required. These expenditures of 330 million dollars, however, are merely for the purpose of opening the river to navigation from Paducah, Ky., to Knoxville, Tenn., a distance of 650 miles, and providing flood control over the stretch.

Other Costs Not Estimated.

How much will be required on socialization of the population and economic planning in the Tennessee valley area has not been estimated. Along this line, however, the TVA report said that it has been promoting the general welfare of the entire river valley through development of recreational centers, reforestation, discovery of a large market for power, national defense in nitrate and chemical manufacturing at Muscle Shoals, Ala., and soil building experiments.

In its expenditures the TVA asserted that it has the right to conduct its vast schemes without being subjected to the rigorous accounting system to which ordinary departments of the government are subjected. It contended such examinations would reduce its efficiency and economy.

Expenditures for Year.

The report gives details of expenditures made in the last year: navigation and flood control investments included Wilson dam and reservoir, $53,308; Norris dam and reservoir, $12,214,600; Wheeler dam and reservoir, $12,750,270; Pickwick Landing dam and reservoir, $7,759,658; Hiwassee dam and reservoir, $25,704;; Guntersville dam and reservoir, $2,630,408; Chickamagua dam and reservoir, $2,226,197; other dam projects, $693,233; general program, $766,449, and general maps and map records, $758,870.

Commenting on the results of its expenditures the TVA report said returns on the investment will be earned when TVA "facilitates navigation, lowers a flood crest or produces salable power. It asserted the government has proved that mass consumption of electricity may open up "a new economic era." The report showed gross revenue from power during the year was $1,170,000.

PERMITS GREYHOUND TO ISSUE STOCK FOR AN EXTRA DIVIDEND

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—For the first time in its history the interstate commerce commission authorized a carrier subject to its jurisdiction to issue preferred stock for the purpose of paying an extra dividend. It approved plans of the Greyhound corporation to issue $1,950,900 of 5½ per cent preferred stock to pay dividends of 75 cents a share to all holders of common.

Conceding that the only merit in the proposed extra dividend payment was that it would enable the corporation to avoid a $300,000 federal tax on its undistributed profits, the commission said:

"The question, therefore, is the practical one of determining the course which is 'compatible with the public interests' in these circumstances. The choice is between a course which imposed a severe financial penalty and one which carries with it certain other disadvantages. After careful consideration our conclusion is that these other disadin the public interest."

Of the total amount of stock to be issued, $1,576,770 would go to the common stockholders directly as a stock dividend, while the remaining amount would be sold to obtain cash for those who elected their dividends in that form.

SEARS, ROEBUCK MAILS "RIGHTS" TO BUY STOCK

Sears, Roebuck & Co., last night mailed to stockholders warants to subscribe to additional shares of capital stock and an explanatory letter from Gen. R. E. Wood, president. The mail order house is making an offering of 613,655 shares of which 488,655 are being made available to stockholders at $72 a share in the ratio of one share for each ten shares now held and not in excess of 125,000 shares are being offered to employés and officers.

The offering to stockholders other than the employés' saving and profit sharing pension fund is being underwritten by a group of investment houses headed by Goldman, Sachs & Co.

The financing, which involves the first offering of rights to stockholders since the initial public distribution in 1916, will produce an estimated maximum of $43,340,633 to the company. Practically all of this amount will be used to increase working capital to finance recent expansion in the company's business.

Roads yesterday reporting increased earnings were the Santa Fe, Chicago and Eastern Illinois, Northern Pacific, and Southern, while the Milwau- announced its November net operating income declined.

Best in Four Years.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway reported net operating income for November of $2,597,339, an increase of $534,502 over the $2,162,837 last year and the largest November in four years. For the eleven months ended Nov. 30, net operating income was $16,047,904, compared with $14,556,558 for the similar period of 1935, an increase of 10.25 per cent.

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad had November operating net of $1,176,072, which includes $194,734 for social security and railroad retirement acts taxes. This compares with net operating income of $1,404,362 in the same month last year, a decrease of $228,890. For the eleven months operating net was $7,979,254, against $3,781,137.

Sharp Increase Shown.

Chicago and Eastern Illinois reported net operating income for November of $245,162, the best figure for the month since 1928. This compares with $88,575 in the same month last year. For the eleven month period net operating income totaled $1,254,552, against $439,792 last year.

The Southern railway's November operating net was $1,931,397, the best November since 1929, compared with $1,550,348 in November, 1935. For the first eleven months the railway showed net operating income of $17,558,479, against $12,498,759.

Northern Pacific had net operating income of $1,619,174, compared with $1,249,733 in 1935, the largest November since 1930. For the eleven months ended net operating income amounted to $9,408,628, contrasted with $3,386,302 for the corresponding 1935 period.

Net operating income of the Great Northern Railway company for October was $.,203,372, and not $1,203,372, as erroneously reported recently in THE TRIBUNE.

STOCKS DECLINE ON TAX SELLING; AUTO LIST WEAK

CheerfulTradeNews Is Ignored.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 28.—Stocks worked lower today as the market reopened after its extended holiday. Early firmness gave way to unsettlement in afternoon dealings and closing prices were from fractions to 3 points lower. Volume of trading held close to the average of pre-holiday sessions, sales amounting to 1,789,116 shares.

Scattered selling to establish tax losses and marked softness in the automobile section were singled out as prime factors in the decline. Chrysler bore the brunt of the selling in the motors, falling 3⅛ points beneath its previous close. General Motors closed off more than a point. Yellow Truck declined slightly in an active market. It was said labor difficulties of the industry were an important influence in the downward movement.

Trade News Favorable.

While nervousness over the situation in Europe made for speculative caution, business developments over the long holiday were favorable. Continued strength in basic commodities, with the exception of wheat; indications of higher railroad earnings in November, and the maintenance of a high rate of steel operations were cheerful factors.

Other outstanding weak spots were uncovered in the farm implement and mail order divisions. Case broke 4½ points, while Deere and Oliver Farm each lost in excess of a point.

Merchandising shares suffered from post-Christmas profit taking. Sears-Roebuck was set back nearly 4 points and Montgomery Ward finished with a deficit of 1⅞ points.

Steel Shares Supported.

Some selling occurred in steel shares, but support appeared after the American Iron and Steel institute estimated the industry this week will continue to operate at 77 per cent of capacity. Bethlehem and U. S. Steel lost fractions.

Price movements in the rail section were limited to less than a point. Utility shares likewise moved in a narrow range.

Oil shares were among the most active in the list, but got nowhere in particular. Chemicals and liquor shares worked lower.

Notwithstanding the recent crashes, aviations were the best gainers. Douglas and Boeing each moved up sharply, with their buoyancy being traced to the prospects of this country's heavy rearmament program.

Metals lost fractions to 2 points. Equipments were mixed.

U. S. TO DELAY TAX COLLECTION PENDING SUIT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—(AP)—The government agreed today not to attempt collection of a "windfall" tax against the Sheridan Flouring Mills, Inc., of Sheridan, Wyo., until the Supreme court acts on the milling company's attack on sections of the revenue act of 1936.

Milling company counsel appeared before Associate Justice Van Devanter today to ask for an injunction against collection of the tax pending determination of the act's validity. When the government agreed not to attempt collection, final action on the request for an injunction was deferred.

Sections of the 1936 act under attack provide that the burden of processing taxes which were collected under the invalidated agricultural adjustment act may not be lifted from the taxpayer unless he proves that the tax was not passed on to the consumer.

COURT PERMITS MO. PACIFIC TO SPEND 8 MILLION

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Federal Judge George H. Moore today granted the Missouri Pacific railroad authority to spend $8,552,302 for "additions and betterments."

The court would not disclose details of the expenditures and at the offices of the railroad it was said L. W. Baldwin, operating head, would not make them public immediately.

Regular maintenance expenses and $1,562,192 to be spent for new rails are not included in the amount authorized today.

Wage, Bonus Actions Pass 1,000 Mark

With a total of approximately 1,000 companies announcing wage increases or bonuses during the period from Nov. 1 to Dec. 24, the number was further swelled yesterday as additional concerns announced new pay increases or extra payments.

It is estimated that 1,700,000 workers will benefit from the wage increases and that another 1,000,000 workers will share the mounting profits through bonus distributions.

In St. Louis the International Shoe company announced that effective Jan. 1 it is making adjustments in day rate and piece rate work which will mean an average increase of 5 per cent for 25,000 workers.

Brown Shoe Boosts Rate.

A similar boost averaging 5 per cent was announced by the Brown Shoe company which will benefit 9,500 piece and day rate employés. The Brown Shoe company increases are effective Jan. 11.

The International Tag and Salesbook company, 319-329 North Whipple street, announced it is paying all workers in the employ of the company for more than two years a bonus of two weeks' pay.

Officials of the Sprague-Sells corporation, Hoopeston, Ill., announced the company has adopted a profit sharing plan for its employés whereby after certain dividend requirements have been met a large percentage of all further earnings will go into a profit sharing or bonus fund.

Plan Quarterly Dividend.

In the future, if earnings justify, profit sharing checks will be distributed among employés at each quarter of the year.

Initial profit sharing payments were made to employés at the end of last week, representing their share of earnings for the last half of the 1936 fiscal year, which ended Sept. 30. The payments were made at the rate of 5 per cent of annual wages. Sprague-Sells is a subsidiary of the Food Machinery company and has plants in Hoopeston and San Jose, Cal.

The Western Union Telegraph company, effective Jan. 1, will make further restorations in pay, in addition to those previously made in 1936. General pay reductions were put into effect in 1932.

TVA Boosts Wages.

Approximately 1,000 of the 4,500 salaried employés of the Tennessee Valley Authority will get pay increases Friday under a new rating set up. A new wage scale for 15,000 workers, paid on an hourly basis, also has been agreed upon by TVA representatives, but it has not yet been approved by the directors.

Gordon Clapp, personnel director, said the increase will be: Those receiving up to $1,260 a year, $150; up to $1,800, $180; up to $3,500, $300; up to $5,600, $400; from $5,600 up, $500. Those getting an increase will receive only half of it in the first six months of 1937. The full increase goes into effect next July 1.

FREIGHT TRAFIC DECLINES LESS THAN NORMALLY

Freight loadings of the railroads in the week ended Dec. 19 while showing a decline from the preceding week, a recession that was less than seasonal, continued to hold well above the corresponding week of last year and the same week in 1934, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday.

For the week ended Dec. 19 the total was 729,696 cars, a decline of 9,051, or 1.2 per cent, from the preceding week. Compared with the corresponding weeks of 1935 and 1934 there were respective increases of 129,030 cars, or 21.5 per cent, and of 181,218 cars, or 33 per cent.

In only three categories were there increases last week over the preceding week. These were: miscellaneous freight, which had an increase of 3,371 cars to reach a total of 298,437; forest products, a gain of 1,446 cars for a total of 35,731 cars, and ore, which gained 1,043 cars for a total of 9,201.

Kresge Meeting to Vote Capital Change Postponed

ARMOUR PROFIT HIGHER; VOLUME BEST SINCE 1930

Net Equals 74 Cents Per Common Share.

Armour & Co. had consolidated net profit of $10,184,492 for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1936, an increase of $835,814 over last year, according to the annual report issued yesterday. Sales at $748,935,218 were the largest since the 900 million dollar volume of 1930.

R. H. CABELL. [Moffett Photo.]

Net earnings were equivalent to 74 cents a share on the common stock after preferred dividends. Net earnings for the preceding fiscal year were $9,348,678, equivalent to 57 cents per common share, and $10,560,619, or 80 cents per share in 1934.

Volume Much Heavier.

The dollar volume of sales was 9.7 per cent above the $683,000,000 for the preceding year, and the tonnage of products sold was 10.8 per cent above last year.

Of the $10,184,492 profit shown in the consolidated income statement, $7,458,331 was earned by Armour Company of Delaware and its subsidiaries, which in addition to the domestic packing business include operations in South America and of fertilizer and lether units.

"All things considered, our business for the year was fairly satisfactory," said R. H. Cabell, president, in a letter to stockholders. "There was a slight increase in live stock supplies over the previous year but a more important factor in augmenting our volume was our recent acquisition of a number of new plants in live stock producing sections where previously we were not well represented.

Methods Being Modernized.

"The management has directed special efforts to modernizing our methods and developing a profit consciousness throughout the whole organization. Our efforts are bearing fruit both in the degree of coöperation among the various divisions of our organization and in the actual results obtained."

Cabell said that while the coming spring and summer will probably see more than the usual seasonal reduction in the marketing of live stock, there is no reason to fear a scarcity.

"Our confidence in the near future is illustrated by our advertising appropriation for 1937," he pointed out. "Our budget is a large one, especially that portion of it which applies to newspaper advertising.

"We believe the daily press offers the right kind of publicity and reaches the right kind of clientele to make our sales program most effective. In tests that have been conducted in various places, the use of newspapers and the assistance they have given in promoting sales have justified our faith in them."

Current Position Shown.

The company's net working capital declined $941,083 during the latest fiscal year, from $113,232,302 to $112,291,219. This decline resulted principally from reductions in funded debt and preferred stock.

Current assets on Oct. 31, 1936, amounted to $153,440,452, including cash of $12,263,164, against current liabilities of $41,149,232. In the year ended Nov. 2, 1935, the company had reported current assets of $146,368,275, cash of $14,437,077, and current liabilities of $33,135,973.

Cabell reported that a net amount of $4,583,341 in unpaid processing taxes for the two months from the beginning of the fiscal year to Jan. 6, 1936, when the processing taxes were held unconstitutional, was credited back to the profit and loss account, and that $8,149,176, representing the amount of unpaid processing taxes for the fiscal year 1935, was carried forward in suspense on the balance sheet pending final determination on disposition of the taxes.

LAND UNDER 23 STORY BUILDING BRINGS $200,000

Lawbeck Corp. Unit Buys Jackson-Franklin Fee.

BY AL CHASE.

The 309 Jackson corporation, wholly owned subsidiary of the Lawbeck corporation, yesterday purchased the fee under the 23 story Jackson-Franklin building, at the southwest corner of West Jackson boulevard and South Franklin street, for $200,000. The land was bought from the Northern Trust company, trustee for the estate of John Boddie and others.

Yesterday's purchase merges the fee and leasehold, as the Lawbeck corporation, owner of all of the defaulted $1,600,000 leasehold bonds, has received. The leasehold from the Jackson-Franklin building corporation in exchange for cancellation of the bond issue.

Building Erected in 1928.

The Jackson-Franklin building, fronting 146 feet on Jackson and 99 feet on Franklin, was erected in 1928. R. C. Schaffner, of A. G. Becker & Co., is president of the Lawbeck corporation, which owns the 309 Jackson corporation.

The parties which conveyed title to the fee to the 309 Jackson corporation were Louis C. Malcolm and Sidney L. Boddie, one third interest; Northern Trust company, trustee for the Boddie estate, one third, while the following conveyed one-eighteenth interests: Lucille Anderson Hardy, Rivers M. Anderson, James Crittenden Anderson, Jessie Anderson Crawford, Perry Boddie Anderson, and Mary Van Anderson Surman.

File Marigold Garden Lease.

A ten year lease on the Marigold Garden at the southwest corner of Halsted and Grace streets was filed for record yesterday. The Marigold Garden company was lessor and Irving M. Shoenwald and Jack Begun the lessees. Albert H. Wetten & Co., were brokers.

The lease is from April 1, 1937, to March 31, 1947, and calls for a minimum guaranteed rental of $625 a month, or $75,000 for the term, plus 8 per cent of all gross receipts over $10,000. According to Wetten & Co. the building, now used for boxing exhibitions, will be enlarged from its present seating capacity of 2,000 to 3,000. The lessees are now operating it under a sublease from Maurice L. Rivkin.

CATTLE AND HOGS RISE TO PEAK FOR WINTER SEASON

Live stock and meat prices pushed upward yesterday in the sharpest Monday advance in many weeks. Buying orders accumulated over the holidays sent cattle and hogs to new high levels for the winter season. With supplies of hogs below expectations prices rose 15 to 25 cents at the opening. Later weakness was confined entirely to a few lots of weighty butchers and sows which lost some of the early gains.

As the result of a shortage of fresh pork in wholesale markets prices rose $1 to $1.50. Top light loins in Chicago sold at $19 per hundred pounds.

Top steers advanced 15 cents to $13.15, the highest sale since early last February. Most fed steers and yearlings were steady with last week's upturn, while common to medium grades were strong to 25 cents higher.

Lambs were strong to 15 cents higher,

Trading in potato futures was active, and the market advanced 5 to 7 cents on purchases of 46 cars.

ALL LARD DELIVERIES SET NEW HIGHS FOR SEASON

Lard futures advanced sharply at the opening yesterday as the result of general commission house buying and short covering, based on the strength in the hog and cottonseed oil markets. All deliveries of lard sold at a new high for the season and closed with net gains of 12½ to 22½ cents, the latter on December. Prices:

PROTESTS TAX CLAIMS AGAINST CUTTEN ESTATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—The American National Bank and Trust company, Chicago, today filed petitions with the board of tax appeals asking redetermination of alleged federal income tax deficiencies and interest charges for 1929, 1930, and 1933 totaling $889,599 which were charged against the late Arthur W. Cutten, Chicago grain operator, by the commissioner of internal revenue. The bank was acting in capacity of administrator of Cutten's estate.

The largest single claim asserted by the commissioner was for 1929 in which a net deficiency of $562,452 was claimed. This consisted of an alleged tax debt of $859,203 which was reduced by an admitted overassessment of $296,750.

Bank Protests Claims.

The bank, speaking for the Cutten estate, protested this claim with a series of contentions of which the following were outstanding:

1. That the commissioner "erred in determining that the taxpayer received income from profit on the sale of 50,000 shares of Radio in the amount of $1,420,645 during the said calendar year 1929." The bank alleged that no such sale was made by Cutten in that year out of his brokerage account.

2. That the commissioner erred in similarly determining that Cutten received income from profits on the sale of 45,000 shares of Radio in the amount of $1,175,050.

3. A similar controversy was entered into over the alleged sale in 1929 of 27,000 shares of Union Carbide for $1,488,470.

Bank Denies Oil Income.

4. It was also contended that the commissioner erroneously determined that Cutten received income "in the form of a certain profit" from the Sinclair Syndicate in the amount of $475,032 and also from the Prairie Oil and Gas Syndicate in the amount of $1,051,403. The bank asserted that Cutten was not a member of either syndicate and that he received no profits from their alleged operations. The commissioner reported that Cutten's net income for 1929, after adjustment, was $3,250,669.

In another petition the bank, acting jointly as the administrator of Cutten's estate and that of Mrs. Maud Cutten, his widow, protested assessments for 1930 and 1933 taxes totalling $327,147.

New York, Dec. 28.—For the first time in recent weeks United States government bonds advanced today, while most corporate and foreign issues closed lower in comparatively heavy trading.

Governments closed moderately above last Thursday's final prices, with the gain ranging up to ¼ of a point in the treasury 2⅞s of 1960. The 4¼s of 1952 and the 3¼s of 1952 also moved up well.

Offerings Are Heavy.

American railroad liens and European offerings were affected most by heavy offerings on the market. Selling of carrier bonds was attributed to the usual year-end rush to adjust accounts preparatory to filing of income tax reports. Selling of European bonds was due to the unsettled state of affairs on the continent over the Spanish situation.

Recent favored South American dollar loans were active at moderately higher prices, with the exception of Colombian 6s, which yielded 2 points.

Losses in the railroad department were as heavy as everal points.

Utilities Also Decline.

Utilities also suffered a setback, particularly International Telephone issues, which lost 1⅛ to 1⅝ points as rebel guns bombarded the company's Madrid properties. International Hydro-Electric 6s dropped 1⅝ points to 81.

Transactions totaled $17,154,000, face value, compared with $12,498,000 on Thursday.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Tuesday, December 29, 1936.

[Copyright: 1936: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Munsingwear, Inc.

Investors' Guide: Would you kindly furnish me with a statement and your opinion on Munsingwear listed on New York exchange?—E. W. O.

Answer: Munsingwear, Inc., originally was established in 1886. Its principal line is underwear, with hosiery second in importance. It dropped the manufacture of sweaters and swim suits in 1935.

Sales ranged from $15,000,000 to $17,000,000 annually from 1925 through 1929 and net income ran from $4.24 to $7.74 a share.

A depression low of $4.890.000 in sales and net loss of $1,102,000 was reached in 1932. Net income was $287,000 or $1.92 a share in 1933. A loss of $21,000 was sustained in 1934.

In 1935 sales were up to $7,100,000 and net income was $320,000 or $2.19 a share.

Net income was $172,000 or $1.15 a share in the first six months of 1936, contrasted with $6,000 or 4 cents a share in the first half of 1935.

Current assets were $5,224,000 and current liabilities were $664,000 at the end of 1935—a strong position.

On Nov. 24, 1936, directors voted a cash dividend of 75 cents a share, payable Jan. 2, 1937, to stock of record Dec. 15, 1936. They also voted to distribute the 150,000 shares of a wholly owned subsidiary, Wayne Knitting Mills, to Munsingwear stockholders. This will be done by two payments of one-half Wayne share for each share of Munsingwear held. The first payment was made Dec. 23. The second will be made Jan. 2, 1937, to stockholders of record Dec. 15.

The stock is on no regular dividend basis. A special dividend of $1 a share paid Jan. 2, 1936, was the first since 25 cents on June 1, 1932. A payment of 50 cents a share was made July 1, 1936, and another of 75 cents was paid Oct. 1.

Sole outstanding capitalization is 150,000 no par common shares. There is no funded debt. The stock is rated as medium grade, still somewhat speculative.

Stock Assessments.

Investors' Guide: If a corporation listed on the stock exchange should become insolvent and go into receivership with debts far greater than assets can a common stockholder be assessed or sued for the debts of the corporation?—J. E. D.

Answer: The stock of most corporations is fully paid and nonassessable. This fact, or the amount of liability for assessment, when such is not the case, should be set forth on the stock certificate.

NEAR NORTH SIDE
It's very nice when you close your desk at the end of the day to know that after a short, brisk walk just 5 blocks north of Michigan-av. you will come to a quaint little lamp lighted court that makes you feel far away from Chicago, where up a winding stairway there's a charming little studio with a 2 story living room or smaller cozier studio, all with fireplaces and—well you're glad you live there, that's all. Try starting the New Year living in one of our studios. You'll find it a delightful experience. Also for rent a bungalow in a little Pomander Walk Court, the pavement of which is at the second floor level.
